United Way At 76% Of Goal

The United Way of Massachusetts Bay has raised $24,390,636, or 76 percent of its $32 million goal, according to General Campaign Chairman George H. Schofield.

Schofield, area executive for General Electric Company, praised the 500 volunteers attending the United Way's Second Report Luncheon recently at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel.

"You have been equal to the task throughout the campaign," Schofield told volunteers. "and I know you can push ourselves, and the United Way, into the winner's circle. It's only a question of will. And, together, we will make it happen because close to one million people are counting on us."

Lending strong support to this year's drive were the companies and organizations conducting employee campaigns in the South Region, which consists of 19 communities south of Boston. Chairman for this division is Charles E. Sullivan of Scituate, senior vice president. Hancock Bank and Trust Company in Quincy. At the luncheon, Sullivan reported that the South Region has raised $445,844, which is 67 percent of the region's campaign goal of $666,000.

Contributions to the United Way campaign support 176 health and human service agencies in eastern Massachusetts. This includes 17 agencies located in the local area, such as South Shore Day Care Services in Braintree, South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens in Weymouth, South Shore Council on Alcoholism in Quincy, Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore in Braintree and the Visiting Nurse Association of the South Shore serving 11 area communities.

The campaign will continue through Nov. 22.

When it comes to long-distance, your phone's still got the right connections.

By now everyone knows the Bell System is breaking up on January 1, 1984. And that New England Telephone will still provide local phone service.

But some people are wondering how they'll make toll calls and long-distance calls after divestiture.

Relax. Your phone still has the right connections. New England Telephone will still provide toll calling within your area code as well as local service. And we'll still give you access to long-distance lines. Just as we always have.

So after January 1, 1984, you can still make and receive local, toll, and long-distance calls the same way you've been doing right along.

What's going to be different?

Practically speaking, very little.

After divestiture officially happens, long-distance service will be restructured according to Local Access Transport Areas, or LATAs. In New England, these LATAs conform to the existing area codes.

After divestiture, New England Telephone will continue to provide local and toll calling service within your LATA, or area code.

And we'll continue to provide your connection to long-distance service outside your area code.

Long-distance options.

Outside your area code, or LATA, you can get long-distance service from AT&T or you can choose another long-distance carrier.

If you want to continue with AT&T, do nothing. Your present service will continue uninterrupted. After January 1, the only difference you'll notice will be a separate bill from AT&T which will be included in your New England Telephone bill.

But if you've been thinking about changing your long-distance company, the first thing you should do is examine your phone habits.

Figure out how often you make long-distance calls, the time of day that's most convenient for you, whether you generally call during the week or on week-ends, and the cities you call most frequently.

Then you can choose the long-distance company that meets your needs—and your budget—best.

Of course, the company you choose will bill you separately.

Questions and answers.

If you have any questions, call our special "Let's Talk" number, 1 800-555-5000. Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Or watch for more detailed information with your bill.

Keeping you informed of all the changes taking place is part of our commitment to giving you the best phone service we can.

The Bell System is breaking up, but New England Telephone's got it all together.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

There are strange philosophies seen and heard frequently these days. For example, the philosophy that success and rewards mediocrity

The philosophy that taxes responsibility and subsidizes irresponsibility. . . The philosophy that repudiates discipline and encourages and at times rewards permissiveness. . . A philosophy that stresses "Do it to others before they do it to you". . . A philosophy that says an honest man is a stupid fool. . . A philosophy that is more concerned with the rights of the criminal than those of his victim. . . A philosophy that outlaws the Bible as a means of instruction in a way of life, and legalizes filth on the newsstand. . . A philosophy that says what is politically expedient is to be preferred over that which is morally right. . .

These are only a few of those which could be listed. . . They indicate a national illness which is quickening the pulse and raising the blood pressure of people all over the country. Is not the remedy and cure obvious?

MBTA Garage Work Nearing Completion

The MBTA still has a week or 10 days work left in shoring up cracks in the crumbling concrete of the Quincy Center parking garage.

MBTA spokesman William Devin said work is now being done on the first floor of the $5.8 million garage and the second through fifth floors are open for parking.

Devin called it "patch up work."

"We are just shoring it up to defer the problem to next spring when we plan to put out bids for an outside contractor to make a major renovation of the garage," he said.

The MBTA is spending some $30,000 to $40,000 on the current patch up repairs.

The cause of the problem was first announced as acid rain but then it was attributed to salt water dripping off cars in the winter and seeping into the cracks.

The garage is 12 years old.

The altar and chancel will be decorated with fruits, flowers, pumpkins, vegetables and corn stalks, arranged by a committee chaired by Helene Crofts.

Those attending the worship are requested to bring along a food offering. Canned goods, dried and packaged food, in family size or smaller, would be most useful, including baby food, dried milk in packets, canned meats, spaghetti, soups, and canned vegetables.

All the food will go to the Protestant Social Service Bureau's "Pantry Shelf" to be distributed to needy families and individuals.

The children of the church school will attend the first portion of the service and will present their food gifts at the altar during the offering. The children will later go to their rooms for half-hour class sessions. Provisions for babies are made in the crib room.

The channel choir, under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing two anthems with trumpet accompaniment by Andrew Levitsky. The offertory will be a setting of the traditional "Let All Things Now Living" arranged by Katherine K. Davis. The second selection

The service will begin at 10 a.m. with a hymn and includes Bible readings reflecting the Psalmist's gratitude even in the midst of his turbulent era — "How excellent is Thy loving kindness, O God... the children of men put their trust under the shadow of Thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of Thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of Thy pleasures."

During the hour-long service, the readings will explore the Scriptural record of God's "loving kindness." Brief correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be read, including the following excerpt from the chapter on "Prayer": "God is not moved by the breath of praise to do more than He has already done, nor can the infinite do less than bestow all good, since He is unchanging wisdom and Love."

The hymns and readings will also highlight the love and comfort God continually extends to His creation, bringing peace in times of trouble.

Following these readings, the President's, Governor's and Governor General's Proclamations and the Lord's Prayer, time will be set aside for expressions of gratitude to God.

Early Service At United Methodist

A 9:45 a.m. worship service will begin Sunday, Nov. 13 at Quincy Community United Methodist Church.

A new adult Sunday School class will also be organized at 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Theodore E. Romberg will preach at both the 9:45 and the 11 a.m. services.

Last week, Sunday School Supt. Dennis Aschbrenner gave the Mary Sheriff high attendance award to the Senior High Class taught by Paul Nogueira and Joan Donovan.

The Martha Smith award for most visitors went to the fourth/fifth grade taught by Diana and Christine Francis.

Information about all church programming including the Day Care and nursery center may be obtained through the central office, 328-1244.

William Bradford's Life Squantum Church Topic

The life of William Bradford, "the greatest Pilgrim of them all", was the subject of a sermon Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum.

The sermon, which was entitled "Knowing Who His People Were", was preached at both morning services by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin. It was the second of a series of three Thanksgiving sermons.

Dr. Langevin spoke of the spiritual crises of Bradford's life and how he tried to deal with them as a faithful follower of Jesus Christ.

At the first service, Blythe Bumpus and Kristie Shafon were ushers. Mary Ruth Scott and Steve Williams played their guitars. Michele Lenson and Ruth Swenson provided the refreshments. In addition, Patti Hurd prepared some homemade apple sauce which was given out on crackers to the congregation at the end of the service.

At the second service, Betty Ellis and her daughter ter Nancy were greeters. Under the direction of Mary Ruth Scott, the Chancel Choir sang Ralph Vaughn Williams' arrangement of the Hundredth Psalm. Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were ushers. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Gloria Lester and Lorraine Josselyn.

This Sunday, young people of the church will sponsor a Thanksgiving Sunday breakfast at 9:15 a.m. The menu will include orange juice, French toast, hash brown potatoes, muffins and a beverage.

Reservations can be made by calling 328-6649. Proceeds from the breakfast will be used to help children and teenagers go to camp next summer. Because of the breakfast, there will be only one worship service next Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

'Conversion' Topic Nov. 20 At CHRISM Program

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

IF YOU MEET A BURGLAR

Burglars are anti-social. The last thing they want during a "heist" is to meet the burglar. He wants to be long-gone by the time you return home. But suppose he breaks in not realizing you are there? What do you do?

Do not confront the burglar. Don't pull a gun or other weapon on him; he may take it away from you or respond by using his own weapon. Chances are, if you don't provoke a burglar he won't harm you. Don't fight him unless you are attacked; in that event, fight with any and every means available.

If possible, avoid meeting him at all. Shut and, if possible, lock a door between you and the burglar. Phone the police, then open a window and holler. If you wake up and find a burglar in your room, pretend to be asleep until he's gone.

If you come home and see signs your house has been burglarized, the thief may still be inside. Leave the area, call the police from someone else's phone and don't enter the house until they've checked it out.

Band To Raise Funds At Christmas Parade

The Weymouth North High School Band was granted permission Tuesday to operate two concession stands on the day of the Christmas Parade, Nov. 27, and to raise money for a trip at the same time.

Jack Youngclaus, coordinator for the band trip fund, told the board the band has been asked to perform at Disneyland during the February 1984 school vacation, the first east coast band asked to perform.

"The students and their parents have been actively involved in raising funds to make this cultural, educational and entertaining trip to California," stated Youngclaus.

The stands will be operated at the Shaw's Market and Hancock Parking areas from about 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and will serve hot drinks and other refreshments to those participating in the parade, he said.

The parade will start at 12:30 p.m.

Youngclaus pointed out that parade participants frequented Danny's Diner for refreshments in the past, but that restaurant has been taken down as part of a plaza project.

He also noted the band has performed in the Christmas Parade a number of times.

Bethany Discussion On 'The Day After'

Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, is sponsoring an open discussion for adults and older youth on the made for TV film, "The Day After", which will be aired by ABC Sunday, Nov. 20, from 8-10 p.m.

The discussion will be held Monday, Nov. 21, from 7:30-9 p.m. in the Allen Parlor of the church. Everyone in the community as well as members of the church are invited to attend.

The film depicts the effects which would occur following a nuclear blast on Kansas City. Many officials believe that the film could have widespread social and political repercussions, and have estimated that 60-80 million people will view it. Psychologists recommend that children below the junior high level not be permitted to see it, and that no one view it alone.

Purpose of "The Day After" and of the discussion to follow is educational—to inform as many as possible as to what will happen if a nuclear attack occurs.

Because of the social importance of this film and the fact that it may raise many questions, that Bethany Church is providing this opportunity to share feelings and concerns in a guided discussion.

The discussion will be led by a person from the Educators for Social Responsibility, who has been trained to guide such discussions and respond to questions on the topic of nuclear war and its aftermath.

Both pastors of the church—Rev. J. William Arnold and Rev. Joel F. Huntington—will be present to participate in the discussion and provide some theological and Biblical reflection.

Class Of 1983 Survey

High School Guidance Counselors are conducting a follow-up phone survey of the 1983 graduates from North Quincy High School, Quincy High School, and Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Dear Parents,

On Sunday evening, November 20, "The Day After" will be shown on your television sets. From all reports, the emotional impact will be overwhelming for people of all ages. For our children it may well be too devastating to imagine. According to advance write-ups, there are very graphic scenes of nuclear destruction and its aftermath that will, most certainly, distress viewers.

The Quincy Education Association urgently advises you to make this program off limits to pre-teen children. Even older students should watch only with you present, so that feelings of anxiety and depression can be talked about at once in the secure surroundings of your own home.

Should you, or other family members, need someone to talk to, the South Shore Mental Health Center will have a hotline number ready to offer assistance. Call 770-7730, if the need arises.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Curtin
QEA President

Raiders Roar Back To End Long Hex

By TOM SULLIVAN
At halftime last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium it looked like Catholic Memorial's hex over North Quincy would extend to six years, but the Raiders roared back from a 10-0 deficit in the second half to top the Knights, 14-10, for their first win ever over the West Roxbury school.

The win, in one of the wildest and longest football games ever seen in Quincy, was the third in a row for North and improved its record to 5-4 going into the Thanksgiving classic with Quincy.

The game had more fumbles, penalties, questionable calls and lengthy discussions by the officials than any game in recent memory. The game took two hours and 45 minutes to complete.

"This was the wildest game I've ever seen in Quincy," said North assistant Pete Zoia, who has seen a lot of them since he started for North's first three teams in 1933-35 and later played for and coached the North Quincy Alumni for many years.

North had a bad case of fumbles and lost the ball five times, four in the first half, on fumbles. Two of them set up Memorial's 10 first-half points.

Memorial gave up the ball twice on fumbles, once on North Quincy's two-yard line and was assessed more than 100 yards in penalties in addition to being called twice for pass interference. North was penalized 50 yards.

North Quincy netted 110 yards on the ground and Memorial 57. North's Steve Hogan, who played an outstanding game, was eight for 17 passing for 150 yards and a touchdown and had one pass intercepted. Memorial's Chris Donato hit on only three of 18 for 48 yards. North ground out 16 first downs to only four for Memorial.

"I am very proud of the way the boys came back in the second half and our play in the last two periods is what this team is all about," said a pleased North coach Ken McPhee. "They could have been down after handing them 10 points in the last two minutes of the first half but, instead, they came roaring back and completely dominated the second half."

"Steve Hogan was just brilliant the way he ran the team and passed but it was the defense that won it for us. It was just immense all day and especially in the second half when we bottled them up completely. Fumbles really hurt us but it was cold out there and it was difficult to handle the ball."

"Give Ken McPhee a lot of the credit for winning this one," Zoia said. "He really got them fired up with his halftime talk and all the coaches then went out of the lockerroom and the players talked it over. They came out fired up in the second half."

"Bolster and Kennedy, our wide receivers, were just great," McPhee said.

Assistant coach Mark Mulvaney had words of praise for Rich DeLuca and Tony Befera, outstanding defensive players who filled in well in the offensive line.

Quincy, North Sophs Game Saturday

But this Saturday there will be a change and an addition at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy didn't have enough players this fall for a sophomore team and Saturday the combined sophomore-junior varsity teams from each school will play.

This game will follow a Quincy-North freshman game at 9 o'clock.

The dean of South Shore coaches, Ted Sadowski, now in his 26th year at North, will coach the Raider soph-jayvee squad, while Mark and Jeff Giordani will handle the Quincy team.

Pete Zoia is coach of the North freshmen and Rich Coose is the Quincy skipper.

If it rains Saturday or if the field conditions are bad the games will be played at Faxon Field.

Quincy 23 Brookline 14

Presidents Get Momentum

Quincy football coach Bill Mayer felt the Presidents had to win last Sunday at Brookline to get some momentum going into the Thanksgiving game with North Quincy.

Quincy got that win, 23-14, to end a five-game losing streak after rolling to a 23-0 halftime lead. The win gives the Presidents a 3-6 win going into the North game.

Quincy's defense and little Mike Notarangelo, who rush d for 145 yards and had two touchdowns on long runs, were the keys to the victory. Brookline, scoring its first touchdowns in three games, closed the gap with two scores in the final quarter with most of Quincy's reserves in action.

"This was a game we just had to win and the boys did an excellent job both ways," Mayer said. "Notarangelo was just great and our blocking was outstanding. I think we could have won by a bigger margin but I used Mike for only a few plays in the second half and the reserves played much of the half."

Joe Cullen also ran well and quarterback Billy Shaughnessy, his brother, Chris, and Daron Tucker all played well in the offensive backfield.

QUINCY SCORING

|                | TD | PAT | Pts. |
| Notarangelo    | 4  | 0   | 24   |

| Frazier        | 0  | 1   | 1    |

In the offensive line assistant coach Mark Giordani had good words for Steve Perletuo, Mark Walsh, Pat Calabro, Rich Pettinelli, Eric Jolley, Rich Ready and Joe Conti.

Defensive coach John Sullivan was high in his praise of linebacker John Cacciatore, who had another outstanding day. "He has to be one of the best around," Sullivan said.

Sully also praised Paul Kenney, Cullen, Walsh, Tucker, Chris Connors, defensive ends Dan Macauley and Austin O'Malley, and Calabro, who played well when Macauley was injured.

Quincy gained 234 yards on the ground to 126 for Brookline. Quincy kept pretty much to the ground game and Shaughnessy was three for six through the air for 51 yards and a touchdown, while Brookline gained 82 yards passing, 66 coming on one touchdown pass.

It took the Presidents only two minutes to take the lead as Notarangelo ran the opening kickoff back 66 yards to the Brookline 18 and four plays later Billy Shaughnessy passed six yards to Tucker in the end zone for the touchdown. Shaughnessy passed to brother Chris for the two-point conversion.

Brookline's Eric Sargent raced 27 yards to Quincy's 13 late in the opening quarter but Tucker picked off a pass on his ten.

The Presidents, picking up four first downs, drove from the 10 to the Indians' 23 but were pushed back to the 40. Shaughnessy passed to Notarangelo for 13 yards but Brookline held on the 27.

Brookline punted to its 44 and two plays later Notarangelo raced 42 yards for a touchdown and Shaughnessy passed to Tucker for the two-point conversion.

Brookline was held and punted to midfield but Quincy was penalized for roughing the kicker. Chris Shaughnessy intercepted a pass and returned it to Brookline's 42 and a play later Notarangelo broke loose and raced 41 yards for his second score. Conti kicked the extra point.

A few minutes later Notarangelo came up with Quincy's third interception.

Quincy was hit hard by penalties in the half. The Presidents were penalized 115 yards, 95 coming in the first half. Brookline was hit with only 35 yards.

Brookline was a much-improved team in the second half with Edgar Howe replacing Eric Duran as quarterback. A Brookline punt was fumbled and recovered by the Indians' Tony McPherson but Quincy held.

Shaughnessy hit Conti with a 32-yard pass but Brookline held and Conti kicked to the Indians' 12. Early in the final quarter Hough threw a fair pass to Sargent, who raced 66 yards for a touchdown. A pass from Howe to Dave McKenney was good for the two-points but Brookline was penalized and failed on the second attempt.

who came up with the big fumble recovery on the Raiders' two; Dave Cooke, DeLuca, Befera, Al DiBella, John Delapelle, Kevin and Steve Kelly, Mike Barry, Gill, Kennedy, Joe Bangs and Bolster.

"One boy who hasn't received much notice and who deserves a lot of credit is Ted Mulch, who snaps the ball back on punts," said McPhee. "Bolster has done some fine punting and a big reason is the way Mulch has passed the ball back. Few people notice it, but this is a vital part of the punting game."

After being stopped following the opening kickoff, Memorial's Chris Maloney punted to North's 30 where the ball was fumbled and the Knights recovered on the 28. Donato made nine on a keeper and hard-running Bill Farrell went all the way to the one-yard line where he fumbled and Comeau recovered.

North picked up three first downs but was stopped on Memorial's 40 and Bolster kicked into the end zone, the Knights taking over on their 20.

North drove to the Memorial 18 but the officials ruled that a Hogan pass was fumbled by the receiver and Memorial recovered on its 13. Maloney got off a good punt that went to North's 30.

With 1:45 left in the half Memorial recovered an other North fumble on the Raider 22 and Donato scored from the one on a quarterback sneak with 31 seconds remaining. Sean Lane kicked the extra point.

North fumbled again on the kickoff, Memorial recovering on the Raider 29. On the final play of the half Lane kicked a 38-yard field goal and the visiting Knights led, 10-0, at the intermission.

The Raiders received to open the second half and immediately drove to their first touchdown. Hogan completed passes of 16 yards to Bolster, 26 yards to Kennedy and, finally, 31 yards to Kennedy for the score. Gelsomini kicked the point.

Memorial could do nothing and North Quincy got a big break late in the third quarter when Maloney's kick against a stiff wind went off the side of his foot and out of bounds on North's 33 after just three yards.

The Raiders took advantage and drove the 67 yards in 10 plays. Hogan scoring from the seven on a keeper. Gelsomini again added the point.

The team traded fumbles and, just when it looked as if Memorial was again stopped cold, Donato completed a 27-yard pass to Eric Clark to North's 22 with 1:14 left. However, the Raiders held fast and regained possession with less than a minute to play and ran out the clock.

Garcia Scorns Forfeit, Bows To N E Champ

After scorning a forfeit when his opponent did not make the weight, Sammy Garcia of Quincy failed by the narrowest of margins to wrest the New England bantamweight boxing championship from Tony Dupre of Manchester, N.H., in their 10-round bout at Quincy Arena.

Judge Jim Shaughnessy of Boston voted for Dupre but Judge Al Bates of Cambridge and Referee Ed McDonald of Brockton called it a draw.

Dupre weighed in at 120 pounds, one pound over the bantamweight limit but Garcia, who came in at 117½, refused to take the forfeit money and instead chose to get in the ring with the overweight champion.

In the six-round preliminary bout, Tony Tenore, 138, of Quincy lost a close decision to Domenic Colantino, 135, of Walpole, who rallied after a slow start to win the last three rounds. McDonald and Shaughnessy gave the fight to Colantino while Bates voted for Tenore.

Out Of Tourney But:

For Raiders It Was A Great Season

The North Quincy boys' soccer team, which enjoyed its best season (10-2-5) in seven years, dropped a hard-fought 2-0 decision to Falmouth last week in the opening round of the Eastern Mass. Tournament at Falmouth.

The Raiders, showing no ill effects of the long bus ride, established themselves early by completely outplaying the host team.

Terry Stark, the Raiders' outstanding midfielder, was all over the field, breaking up all offensive thrusts by Falmouth and then getting the ball to David Brown and Nunzio Carbone, who brought the ball into the Falmouth area throughout the opening quarter.

The Raiders' defense, which allowed fewer goals than any North team in the last seven years, allowed the Clippers to cross midfield only five or six times in the quarter as Steve Golden, John Joseph, Eric Roukey, Mike Cocce and Jaime Paz were outstanding. Falmouth's only shot in the quarter was from 30 yards out and sailed high over North goalie Mark Hubbard.

North continued to have the better of the play in the second quarter as Mark Scanlan and Andy Curtis nearly broke through the Clippers' defense several times but couldn't beat Scott Murtrie, the South-east Conference's leading goalie.

North coach Paul Bregoli felt a non-call by the officials hurt the Raiders. Scanlan was pushed down in the penalty area going for a loose ball and the official, upon being questioned by Bregoli, said he felt because it was a tournament game that the push was not flagrant enough.

"A push is a push no matter if it's a tournament game or not," Bregoli said.

CHRIS ARCHER of North Quincy (20) volleys ball upfield away from Eric Palmer of Falmouth.

"I feel we probably would have scored on a penalty kick if the official had called it."

North lost Roukey in the third quarter with a bad ankle and Pat Marcham, who had filled in well all season, replaced him at fullback.

At 12:57 of the third quarter Falmouth was awarded a free kick from 40 yards out. Cocce tried to play it out but slipped as he tried to volley it out. The ball deflected to Clipper Gary Thompson. Hubbard was able to knock down the first shot but the rebound went to Mike Trotto, whose shot trickled into the goal.

North was again the victim of a non-call as a Falmouth player went undetected as he held Marcham from behind as the Raider fullback tried to clear the rebound out. Bregoli, upon protesting, received a warning from the official.

North fired itself up as it pressured Falmouth for the last six minutes. Scanlan took a ball from Chris Archer to the end line and crossed a ball back to Mike Walsh, who got to the ball a half step after McMurtrie smothered the cross. Another shot by North was fumbled by McMurtrie. Walsh got the ball to Carbone, who dribbled past the fallen Falmouth goalie and shot into an empty net but Allen Rivera, who made several outstanding plays, made a great play kicking out Carbone's low drive at the goal line.

With six minutes left in the game Falmouth's Mike

Martin took an indirect kick from 20 yards out. The ball deflected off a North player to Josh Phillips, who was all alone 15 yards out. His low shot beat Hubbard to the far post.

Hubbard, who finished the regular season with a phenomenal 0.76 goals-against average, made several stops but was never severely tested.

thought Marcham and Joe LaPierre also came in and played very well. This loss does not diminish the great accomplishments of a fantastic season. I think the busloads of fans we had at this game saw one of the finest soccer teams ever to play for North Quincy and I was proud to have had the privilege of coaching them.

"We were not too lucky today and the balls bounced Falmouth's way," said Bregoli. "We had a couple of good chances to score but didn't. We completely outplayed them except for the third quarter."

"Stark, Carbone and Brown played great games as did Roukey and Paz. I Carbone, a senior (9 goals, 6 assists) and Scanlan, a sophomore (6 goals, 9 assists) were the Raiders' top scorers with 15 points each.

North was seeded 10th and Falmouth seventh in the tournament. Falmouth went on to upset second-seeded Diman Voke, 3-2.

QJC Loses Opener

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, under first-year coach Bill Phelan, lost its opening game to a strong Massasoit Community College team, 89-58, last week.

The Jaguars, who opened their Greater Boston Small College Conference season Tuesday against Daniel Webster, will host Atlantic Union tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock at the Vo-Tech gym.

Massasoit took a 38-25 halftime lead but QJC cut the gap to 10 points with 13 minutes to play. However, the powerful Warriors increased their lead to 18 and had little trouble the rest of the way.

Steve Belcastro led the Jaguars with 17 points, Bill Gray had 15 points and eight rebounds, John Purland had nine points and 11 rebounds and Paul Gill had eight points and also was strong off the boards. Will Smith, a transfer from Bunker Hill Community College, had nine points and played an outstanding game on defense and Fran McEachern came off the bench and played well.

Quincy Girls' Streak Continues

The Quincy girls' volleyball team, defending state champion, extended its incredible streak Monday night when it defeated Bp. Connolly, 3-0 (15-2, 15-8, 15-8) in the South Sectional semifinals.

The top-seeded First Ladies, who haven't lost a single game all season (41 straight), faced Durfee last night (Wednesday) in the sectional finals. If they survived they will play the North Sectional winner at 8 Friday night at Waltham High in the state semifinals and the state championships match will be played Monday night at 7:30 at Eastern Nazarene College.

In Monday night's match against Bp. Connolly, Quincy was led by Co-captains Sue Beven and Chris Gallery. The team spiked 22 balls to the floor. Kathy McGregor had a good blocking and passing game and Carolyn Leonard kept the offense going by serving 20 of the teams 45 points.

In the opening round of tournament play Quincy had breezed past Case, 15-0, 15-6; Brockton, 15-5, 15-9, and Somerset, 15-2, 15-3.

In the opener against Case Beven and Gallery led the offense while Colleen Dunn and Beven sparked the defense. Leonard served 14 of the 30 points in the two games.

Quincy dominated the first game against Brockton, a team that had taken the First Ladies to double figures during the regular season. The serving of Dunn and the hitting of McGregor and Beven sparked the win.

The second game was a do-or-die situation for Brockton and the score stayed close until Brockton broke away to a 9-6 lead. Quincy coach Ray Whitehouse called a timeout to regroup and Brockton never scored another point.

McGregor and Gallery played outstanding games hitting and blocking, while Leonard and Beven led the team with their superb backcourt play. The unsung heroes were Dunn and Karen Marnell, whose hustling and excellent skill were determining factors.

The setters, who quarterback the team, took all passes whether good or bad and got the ball to the hitters, who receive most of the glory.

The Quincy starters were given a rest in the Somerset match and the reserve put on an impressive showing, easily winning both games.

Freshmen Lauren Standing, Pam Austin, Ginny Duggan and Terry Duggan had outstanding games, while junior Beth Veneto and sophomore Marlo LeVangie led the offense.

Quincy's Gallery was selected among the top ten players in the country by Volleyball Monthly, a national magazine.

Point Panthers Roll For Undefeated Season

The Quincy Point Panthers finished undefeated in the Quincy Youth Football League Sunday with an easy 32-0 win over the Houghs Neck Manets.

The Panthers (7-0-1) will play the runnerup North Quincy Apaches (5-2-1) Sunday at 1 o'clock at Veterans Memorial Stadium in the championship playoff game. The Apaches were upset by the West Quincy Elks, 12-0.

Following the opening kickoff the Manets started on their own 25 and were driven back to the five by John Caparole, who recorded the first of his two sacks. The Panthers took over on the five and Billy Roche carried to the one from where he scored.

In the second quarter Dan Overby completed passes to Billy Ryan and Gary Bright to bring the ball to the Manets' 11. On a pitch, Billy Roche carried to the five and Overby passed to Caparole in the end zone for the score.

The Manets again were stopped cold and gave up the ball. Quarterback Tim Brillo was hit behind the line of scrimmage but a facemask penalty brought the ball half the distance to the goal line, which was the four. Vin Digiacomo went up the middle for the third touchdown. Brillo passed to Anthony Battistone for the two-point conversion. The Panthers led, 20-0, at halftime.

On the first set of downs for the Manets in the third quarter, Overby picked off a pass and ran it in for the touchdown but it was nullified by a clipping penalty.

The Panthers punted and Russell Forte ran to the 36 for the Manets. Bright was sacked and on third down Overby knocked down a pass and the Manets turned the ball over again. Bobby Roche took the punt and ran it back to the Manet 25 as the quarter ended.

On the first play of the final quarter Roche carried to the 15. Bobby Crespi added four, Peter Olivieri carried to the two and then scored up the middle.

After the kickoff the Manets set up on the 30. On third down Wayne Chambers intercepted a pass, ran it to the Manet 25 but fumbled. The Manets took over and on first down David Flaherty sacked the quarterback. Charlie Freeman then intercepted a pass and carried to the five from where Chambers scored to complete the scoring.

The Panthers junior varsity played virtually the entire second half and scored the last two touchdowns. The jayvee defense, led by Capt. Tommy Mayo, shut out the Manets.

In the Elks' upset win over the Apaches, Greg Doton and Brian Howlett scored the touchdowns. Coach Bob Noble praised Doton and Keith Segalla for their two-way efforts and hailed the entire defense.

The Manets earlier had edged the Squantum Sailors, 6-0, for their first win. Scott Logan passed to Joe Dunn for the TD.

The final regular season standings: Panthers, 7-0-1; Apaches, 5-2-1; Elks, 5-3; Manets, 1-7; and Sailors, 1-7.

Raiderettes Win E-Mass Division Title

The amazing young North Quincy girls' cross-country team followed up its unbeaten (7-0) regular season, second straight undefeated Suburban League title and an easy win in the league championship meet by capturing the Eastern Mass. Div. 1 crown last Saturday at Franklin Park.

This was the Raiderettes' fourth successive Eastern Mass. title and their first in Div. 1 after winning three Div. 2 championships.

North won with 93 points, beating out Haverhill with 154 points, Peabody with 170 and Weymouth South with 186. Thirty-seven teams competed in Div. 1.

"The girls really surprised me," said Coach Lou Tozzi. "I was skeptical when they moved us up to Division 1, as there were some outstanding runners in our division. But, as usual, the girls came through with brilliant performances and I can't explain how proud of them I am."

"We have only one senior and the performances of the younger kids was just phenomenal."

North's first finisher was sophomore Mary Ann Kelleher, who was fifth in 18:39 over the three-mile course. Freshman Tricia Barrett was sixth in 18:48.

Kelleher was undefeated during the regular season, while Barrett won once and finished second six times.

The Raiderettes' other scorers were Diane Lindenfelzer, 22nd; Tracey Corrigan, 25th, and Tricia Leary, 35th. Ann Teland finished 47th and Meg Leary 55th. Sharon Barrett was unable to run due to a broken ankle.

"Tricia Leary, also a sophomore, ran very well as did Meg Leary, who finished ahead of the fifth scorers for Haverhill and Peabody," Tozzi said.

The Raiderettes will run in the state championships Saturday at Franklin Park, meeting the best in Western and Central Mass. They are defending state champions.

Tozzi paid tribute to his assistant coach, Mike Burke, as well as North Boys' coach Bart Petracca and Quincy Track Club coach Jeff Hennessy, for their help.

"I also want to thank our principal, Peter Chrisom, and assistant principal, Eileen Feeney, as well as everyone in the school administration for their wonderful support," Tozzi said.

State Legislative Rules Changes Cable Talk Topic

Three Quincy legislators discuss the controversy over changing the rules of the state legislature on Cable Talk tonight (Thursday) on QCTV Ch. 3 at 9 p.m.

The program will be repeated Sunday at 9:30 p.m. Reps. Thomas Brownell, Robert Cerasoli and Michael Morrissey express their viewpoints on the initiative petition being circulated to change the rules of operation of the House of Representatives and the stripping of the Speaker of some of the powers exercised over the 160 members of the House.

The legislature is scheduled to take action this week on the recommendations of a special committee appointed by Speaker of the House Thomas McGee. Last week McGee announced that gavel to gavel television coverage of the House proceedings will be allowed beginning next January.

The three legislators also discuss legislation pending before the General Court of interest to local residents.

Pee Wee B's Win 3rd Straight

The Quincy Pee Wee B team won its third straight Greater Boston Hockey League game, 3 - 2, over Dedham.

Brian Zimmerman, Mike Baylis and Bobby Kane had the goals and Mike Hughes, Bob Carroll and Joey Fasano had assists. Jimmy Tiberio sparked in goal with many key saves.

Earlier the Pee Wee B's had defeated Belmont, 9 - 2.

Mark Cafano, Brian Zimmerman and Mike Baylis had two goals apiece and Brian Taylor, Bobby Kane and Mike Hughes one each. Assists went to Steve Connelly, Baylis, Hughes, Taylor, Kane, Zimmerman, Bobby Scott, Sean Doherty and Joey Fasano.

Also playing well were James Tiberio in goal, Jim McCarthy, Bobby Miller, Matt Bucella and Kelly Morris. Other Pee Wee B players are Sean Dougherty, Scott Cunningham and Bobby Carroll.

The team had opened its season with a 4-0 win over Parkway of West Roxbury. Fresno scored two goals unassisted and Baylis had one unassisted and Mike Hughes had a goal with Baylis assisting.

The score would have been larger if not for the outstanding play of the Parkway goalie, who was peppered throughout the game. Quincy's defense held Parkway to only two shots on goal.

The Pee Wee B's are coached by Dave Fasano and Bill Hughes and are sponsored by A & T Movers.

Squirt B's Roll 10-2

Quincy's Squirt B team, sponsored by Quincy Cablestems, defeated Needham, 10-2, to improve its Greater Boston League record to 4-0-0 and overall mark to 7-2-2.

Leading the attack was Matthew Riley with a hat trick and two assists. Sean McArde and Sean Vermette also had hat tricks and Christine Barrett had the other goal and three assists. Gerard Walsh had three assists and Vermette and Shane Abboud one each. Matthew Swierk, Karen McCabe and Carrie Hughes all played well.

The team had previously beaten Belmont, 5-1, with Joe Zona and Kevin Mantville each having a goal and two assists. Riley, Barrett and McArde had a goal each and Vermette, Abboud and Bobby Fitzpatrick had assists.

John Bertrand and Jeff Berton combined in goal to shut out Dedham, 13-0. Vermette and Fitzpatrick had hat tricks and each had an assist. Mantville and Zona had two goals and an assist each and Gerard Walsh, Sean Connelly and Barrett had a goal apiece.

Brian Fitzpatrick had three assists and Abboud, McArde, Walsh, John Gladu, Riley and Connelly one each. Karen McCabe, Matthew Swierk and Carrie Hughes played strong defense.

Earlier the Squirt B's had defeated Westwood, 7-2, with Zona having a hat trick and Barrett, Bob Fitzpatrick, Mantville and Gladu a goal each. McArde and Walsh had two assists apiece and Connelly, Brian Fitzpatrick, Abboud and Swierk one each.

MBTA Replacing Red Line Insulators

Plastic supports under the third rail on the three-year-old Red Line extension from Quincy Center to Braintree have developed stress damage and are being replaced under a $298,000 repair program.

MBTA spokesman Robert Devin said the T has lost service on the line three or four times due to failures of the supports which hold the 600-volt third rail off the ground and prevent short circuiting.

"The new plastic insulators have been successful wherever they have been used," said Devin, "but the weight of the third rail is heavier on the Braintree extension."

"That and the fact that we use cement ties on that section instead of the traditional wooden ones all contributed to the problem."

Devin said the supports are being replaced gradually and no date has been set up for completion of the work.

133 Building Permits Issued In October

Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald has reported that his department issued 133 permits for building estimated to cost $878,165 during the month of October.

Departmental receipts for October were $14,022.

The permits included two one-family dwellings estimated to cost $60,000, one storage building at $95,000, two garages at $12,000.

There were 92 residential alterations at $356,455, seven other alterations at $286,700, one removal at $21,000, 17 signs at $9,825 and 11 miscellaneous projects at $37,185.

Two new dwelling units were added through new construction and seven were added through alterations.

Jewelry Taken

Some $1,200 worth of jewelry, a video recorder valued at $800 and $500 in cash were reported stolen Sunday from the home of Joseph Busias, 39 Pond St., Quincy Point. Entry was gained by way of a second floor balcony.

300,000 Expected At Christmas Parade Sunday

A crowd of some 300,000 people is expected to line Hancock St. from Elm St. in Quincy Center to East Squantum St. in North Quincy for the 32nd annual Christmas Festival Parade which starts Sunday, at 12:30 p.m.

At least 28 bands and 18 floats as well as 19 specialty units will cover the 2.8-mile route, one of the largest Christmas parades on the East coast.

The parade is one of a series of holiday activities sponsored by the Christmas Festival Committee of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, the city of Quincy and the Patriot Ledger.

"The feeling is that this will be the best Christmas parade the city of Quincy has ever had," said George White, general chairman of the Quincy Festival Committee. "We feel as we look to the future this will be very difficult to top.

"This feeling is based on the newness of such participants as the McDonald All American High School Band, the Child World characters, Panda and Strawberry Shortcake, and the return of the Boston Police Motorcycle Drill Team.

"Also, for the first time in my memory, we have been able to construct a permanent float made up of a sleigh and reindeer for Santa Claus, who previously has ridden on a city vehicle. We've done this after many years of talk."

Hancock St. from Granite to School Sts. will be roped off at the sidewalk and White asked the cooperation of parade spectators in keeping back behind the ropes.

Floats illustrating the theme, "A Christmas Dream," will be competing for prizes and money in the commercial and non-commercial categories.

In addition, trophies are presented for the Best Float, the Father Thomas Tierney Trophy; the Mayor's Trophy for the Best Quincy Float; the Festival Committee Trophy for the Best Commercial Float; and the Chairman's Trophy, which is awarded in the Specialty category.

Carol Bray of North Quincy, winner of the parade theme contest, will be a special guest. She will be transported along the parade route and will receive a gift presented by the Festival Committee.

Among the marchers will be Gov. Michael S. Dukakis and his wife, Kitty, who also appeared in the parade in 1982 when he was governor-elect. City and county officials will also be in the line of march.

The floats will be judged on the basis of adherence to the parade theme, originality, use of materials and colors and overall appearance.

Sponsors of floats include:

Cerebral Palsy Association, Woodward School for Girls, Hancock Bank (Bank of New England), St. Chrysostom's Church, Viking Club, Jack Conway Realtor, Sacred Heart Youth Organization, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, The Patriot Ledger, Curtain Call Theater, Catholic Daughters of Houghs Neck, St. John's CYO, Sen. Paul D. Harold, the Koch Club, Beechwood Community Life Center, Bernie's Modern Formal (featuring Miss Quincy Bay), Quincy Legion Post, Quincy City Hospital.

Floats will be judged by:

Bob Noble, judging event coordinator; Harold Hawkes, past president of the Braintree Art Assoc.; Mrs. Robert Duquet of Braintree, the 1982 parade theme winner; Elizabeth Schor, fashion illustrator.

The high schools bands in the parade will be competing for the state and New England championships.

They will appear in this order:

Milton, Bloomfield, Conn., New Bedford, Abington, Chicopee, Weymouth North, Fairhaven, Chicopee Comprehensive, East Bridgewater, Walpole, Shepherd Hill Regional, Sumerville, Brockton, Hull, Bishop Feehan, Gloucester, Portsmouth, R.I., North Quincy, Holbrook, Whitman-Hanson, Dedham, Quincy, Marblehead.

The winner of the high school band competition will be eligible to participate in the 1985 Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, Texas.

Other bands in the Christmas parade include:

The Klassy Klowns, the 215th Army Band, the Waltham Legion Post Band, the Canton Legion Post Band, and the McDonald's All American National Band.

Up to this time, the McDonald's Band has appeared in only two parades.

the Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, Calif., and the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City.

Specialty units in the parade include:

Boston Police Motorcycle Drill Team, Ronald McDonald Motor Home and characters, Quincy Police Color Guard, Bryan VFW Post Color Guard, Dorsey Color Guard of Abington, Carol Bray, the 1983 parade theme contest winner; Scituate Amvets, 12 antique cars, the Hallamore Clydesdale Horses, Peter Panda and Strawberry Shortcake from Child World, the Bass St. Fire Engine, Quincy Fire Department truck with high school beauty queens, Parker Brothers mini-Mack truck vehicles, U.S. Marines "Toys for Tots," the Scituate safety car, American Red Cross, Trolley Card, featuring Mrs. Santa Claus with characters; Santa Claus in sleigh, and Rick Cobban, the one man band.

Awards will be presented in the North Quincy High School cafeteria after the parade. Mayor Francis X. McAuley will participate.

In addition to the three major sponsors, financial contributions have been made by Hancock Bank

Richard Golden Announces Candidacy For State Senate

Richard D. Golden, 28, of 42 Russell St., North Quincy, a graduate student on a fellowship from UMass-Amherst, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state senator.

Golden told a crowd of supporters at the Quincy Neighborhood Club Saturday night that he will conduct "a campaign of issues that are important to all of us" against the incumbent, Sen. Paul D. Harold.

One of the key issues in his campaign, he said, will be placing the cost of hazardous waste cleanup on the polluters and passage of community and worker right-to-know legislation for hazardous wastes.

"I oppose passively watching the slow undoing of our delicate environmental balance in Quincy Bay, in the water supplies of Braintree and Holbrook and other communities yet to discover the dangers teeming beneath the surface of our land," he said.

Elected officials and citizens should act today to protect tomorrow's resources, he said.

Golden said he also favors "making our criminal justice system work through stricter sentences for convicted criminals" as a necessary step to increase public safety.

He supports capital punishment, he said, as well as minimum mandatory sentencing and increased victim's rights.

"I support legislation which puts the fear back into criminals," he said.

Golden was also critical of Harold for what he called the incumbent's "pendant for world travel."

"If the incumbent chooses to spend months engaged in other pursuits and distractions then he is the only one who benefits, not the people of the district," he said.

Golden said he believes that the fiscal restraints facing the state can be managed with reasonable planning and legislative oversight.

"The time of unbridled growth in government spending has come and gone," he said. "Today we need leaders who can effectively manage the resources and the trust of the public."

"There are important issues before us and I am committed to offer an alternative to the complacent status quo."

Golden is a graduate of North Quincy High School, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and has done graduate work at Pepperdine University and UMass-Amherst.

He served in the U.S. Army, taking basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., in 1975 and advanced training at Ft. Bragg, N.C., in 1976. He rose to the rank of captain and is currently a captain in the National Guard.

Golden and his wife, Rita, have one daughter, Laura.

Receipts Stolen

The night receipts totalling some $650 in cash were stolen Sunday from the Merrymount Bowling Alley on Broad St., Quincy Center, by a thief who apparently hid in the building at closing time.

Joseph D. McLaughlin of 540 Hancock St., Wollaston, reported to police early Monday that his 1980 Chevrolet Impala was stolen from the home address.

Reval Hearings Start, 1,200 File Appeals

By TOM HENSHAW

Hearings began Monday for those property owners who are unhappy with their new 100 per cent valuations and officials said the number of protests and queries are running about as expected.

By Monday afternoon, the number of calls requesting hearings had risen to 1,200 with the deadline for such requests, Dec. 2 nearly two weeks away.

Dennis Flis, who is in charge of the hearing process for Municipal Appraisal Inc. of Fall River, said about 2,000 to 2,500 calls are expected.

"Usually, we get 10 to 15 per cent of those revalued asking for a hearing," he said. There were about 23,000 parcels revalued in Quincy.

Meanwhile, City Councilor James A. Sheets said that he, too, has been receiving phone calls from homeowners in Ward 4, where flooding and surcharging of sewers has affected property values.

"It appears that flooding and sewer surcharging problems were not taken into consideration when assessments were made of many West and South Quincy properties," said Sheets.

He urged all those homeowners who feel that their properties have been adversely affected by flood and sewer surcharge to be sure to make a hearing appointment before Dec. 2.

He suggested that they bring with them pictures, bills for damages or other evidence which shows that their homes have been subject to serious flooding or sewer surcharging.

However, another Quincy property owner whose value went up from $8,000 to $64,000 said he is not going to appeal the decision.

"I feel that I have been fairly treated," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, whose home on Manet Ave., in Houghs Neck was built 14 years ago.

"My house is valued 30 per cent higher than at least six of my neighbors," he said. "But I have a water view and I'm satisfied with the valuation."

McCauley said the general comments on reval that he has gotten from talking to people at meetings and other occasions is that the majority feel their valuations are fair.

"We have made the books available at the counter in the assessors' office so that they can compare their values to those of their neighbors," he said.

Flis said his six hearing officers are handling the complaints and queries at a rate of 175 to 200 a day. Office hours in the basement of the City Hall addition are from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

There is a policeman on duty at the elevator door because, said Flis, "we have had a couple of phone calls." He described the calls as obscene rather than threatening.

"The policeman was the city's idea," he said.

Each property owner, he said, is accorded at least a 15-minute hearing, longer if they own more than one parcel of property. Some, he said, have their appeals upheld.

"It was a mass reappraisal," Flis said, "and sometimes things get overlooked. When the owner points them out to us, we will act reasonably on it."

School Committee Recount Nov. 28-29

Votes for School Committee in the Nov. 8 election will be recounted Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 28 and 29, in the City Council Chamber at City Hall, announces City Clerk John M. Gillis.

The recount was requested by Frank C.

J.F.K. And A Nagging Question:

Where Were Secret Servicemen That Night?

It still bothers me. It just won't go away. It has been nagging at me since the assassination of John F. Kennedy that Nov. 22, 1963 in Dallas.

And actually, two years before — back to another date Nov. 10, 1960.

That's when it first bothered me as I stood there in the living room of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy's house in the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port waiting for the President-elect to appear.

Where were the Secret Servicemen I wondered. I wasn't even supposed to be in the house but no one seemed to care.

My name could have been Lee Harvey Oswald or someone like that for all anyone knew. Or cared.

I could have been a nutcase with a gun in my pocket. I could have been standing there waiting for Kennedy waiting with a gun in my pocket.

Word among the press was that 18 Secret Service agents had been assigned to protect the next President of the United States. That they had moved in swiftly after Richard Nixon had finally conceded defeat in the sec-saw election.

But if they were around the house inside or out that night, they were invisible. They sure weren't checking on anyone.

Earlier that night, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President-to-be had held a press conference at the National Guard Armory in Hyannis which had served as press headquarters during the election.

The headlines kept changing fast all day.

"Hoover, Dulles To Stay"

"Ike Asks JFK Meet Him Soon On Takeover"

"Kennedy Says Election Repudiates No One"

Hyannis and Hyannis Port had become international datelines.

Nixon had conceded. The election sweatout was over. Now the whole Kennedy clan had gathered at the armory to hear the President-elect make a short victory statement. Standing proudly at his side was Jacqueline, 31, radiant and expecting their second child in a few weeks.

On the rostrum were his parents, Joseph and Rose Kennedy, his brother, Bobby with Ethel, Ted, sisters Eunice Shriver, Jean Smith, Pat Lawford and somewhat in the background, brother-in-law Peter Lawford.

All listened intently to what actually was a preview of the theme of his inaugural address as he said:

"The election may have been a close one. But I think that there is a general agreement by all of our citizens that the supreme national effort will be needed in the years ahead to move this country safely through the 1960's."

There appeared to be tears in his eyes as he thanked "all those who worked so long and so hard in this campaign."

He made quite an impression on me.

And, I was replaying that scene in my mind as I stood there in Joseph Kennedy's living room that evening waiting for the President-elect. Waiting with me were maybe 40 or 50 other newsmen.

But at least three of us were not supposed to be there. We were party crashers. The invitation had been extended to members of the press that had traveled with Kennedy throughout the campaign. No one mentioned the local press.

I was covering the election for the Boston Traveler. Dave Farrell, now with the Boston Globe, was for the Boston Herald, and the late Frank Kelly of Wollaston, was taking photos for both The PRESIDENT-ELECT John F. Kennedy and Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth chat at Barnstable Airport Nov. 11, 1960 following Kennedy's election. Behind them are Kenneth O'Donnell and Pierre Salinger.

Traveler and Herald.

The three of us had decided that this was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity and we weren't going to miss it.

The bus to take the invited press to the Kennedy compound was parked outside the Hyannis armory. The three of us had proper press credentials but only to get us into the armory for the actual election coverage.

We walked down the street after eating and stepped aboard the bus. No one questioned us. No one asked to see credentials. When everyone was aboard, the bus left for the compound in Hyannis Port.

We entered the compound. No one asked for credentials. We entered Joseph Kennedy's house. No one checked us.

Anyone could have gotten aboard that bus and rode into the compound that night.

None of the Kennedys were in sight when we arrived so we started browsing around the living room. On the wall were framed letters written by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to Ambassador Kennedy.

On the fireplace mantle was a model of the USS Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., the destroyer named after the son whose planned political career went down in flames in a World War II mission plane crash.

The dining room connected with the living room. On the dining room table was a punch bowl and some cups. Someone said to help ourselves. So we did.

Everyone headed back into the living room. I didn't care too much for the punch and was returning my cup to the dining room table when a screen door leading into the room swung open and in stepped John F. Kennedy.

He walked over to me and we shook hands. "Congratulations, Mr. President," I said. It wasn't the correct protocol. He was still officially Senator Kennedy. But, he seemed to enjoy being called, "Mr. President" and smiled.

We were alone in the room for a few moments. The others then spotted him and we were soon surrounded.

Kennedy was smiling but he looked tired. His eyes were red from the strain of the campaign and the final agonizing hours when the election could have gone either way.

One reporter asked him what he thought made the final difference in the election.

"He (Nixon) stayed around too long in the South," Kennedy replied. (Stayed wasn't the exact word he used.)

Soon other members of the Kennedy family joined us: Jacqueline, beautiful and pregnant with John John; Rose Kennedy looking as trim as the Kennedy sisters, Bobby Kennedy and Ted, Sargent Shriver. But Joseph Kennedy was no where to be seen.

The President-elect revealed he was flying to Palm Springs, Fla. the next morning. He said he would relax and "maybe play a little golf."

"But don't mention the golf," he laughed. He didn't want the country to think it was getting another golfer for President.

I got to chatting with Rose Kennedy and we were soon discussing Quincy-born Presidents John and John Quincy Adams. She wanted to know all about them and Abigail, too. I told her all I knew and said when I got back home I would have Quincy's historian, William C. Edwards, send her more information. (He did.)

Someone then produced a number of Christmas gift wrapped bottles of bourbon, scotch and rye from under the counter in the kitchen. And then came a sight you could never forget. There was the next President of the United States pouring drinks and carrying ice cubes for the press.

It was a night to cherish and fondly remember.

The following morning the Kennedy party flew out of Barnstable airport in Hyannis aboard the family plane "Caroline".

I remember seeing Joseph Kennedy there. And Caroline, not then quite three and as cute as little Shirley Temple.

I got one more chance to talk with Kennedy before the plane took off. Pierre Salinger and Kenneth O'Donnell were standing behind us as we talked.

"Good luck, Mr. President," I said to him again in farewell as we shook hands. "Thank you," he said, breaking into a wide grin getting a kick out of being called "Mr. President" for the second time.

After the plane was airborne, I kiddingly told Farrell and Kelly that someday I would write the story of how we crashed the Kennedy compound. I would wait until he was out of office, I said, because the party that night was "off the record".

I figured it would not be for at least eight years before I got around to writing the story. I thought for sure Kennedy would be re-elected to a second term. And, of course, he would be a world famed figure for many years go come, sought after for his comments and opinions.

It still pains me on each anniversary of his tragic death in Dallas because on each anniversary I recall telling Farrell and Kelly:

"And do you know what I'm going to write about after he leaves office? I'm going to tell how we got by the Secret Service that night. I'm going to write how I could have assassinated John Fitzgerald Kennedy over the punch bowl in the dining room of his father's house."

But who could have foreseen back then as I said those words what was to happen three years later?

I can't help wondering about the Secret Service that night in Hyannis Port. And I can't help wondering about them that morning three years later in Dallas.

It keeps nagging at me. It always will.

Backs Reagan On Lebanon, Grenada

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
I would like to take this opportunity to voice my approval of President Reagan's decisions of keeping our armed forces in Lebanon and our invasion of Grenada.

I know there are many people who believe that the President is wrong in both cases; and for the most part, no amount of logic will change their minds. As for the political leaders criticizing Reagan's decisions, I seriously doubt their patriotism and their belief in the cause of freedom.

Let's look at the facts. The Middle East has been a trouble-spot for many years. The past three presidents showed, through their policies, that the Middle East is vital to our interests, and the security of the entire world.

The bottom line is: Do we want the Middle East to become part of the Soviet bloc? There is a vast amount of oil in that region. Sure, the Soviets have plenty of their own. But do you honestly believe that they can be satisfied with what they have? More importantly, are the Soviets willing to allow their adversaries to utilize it? Also, anyone who knows their Russian history will tell you the Soviets would love control of the Mediterranean Sea. The most important thing to remember is that there are some 200 million people in the Middle East. Their lives and freedom are at stake.

America is in Lebanon for no evil purpose. We are there as part of a multinational peace-keeping force. We were asked by the Lebanese government to provide this honorable service so that Lebanon could stabilize their government-to grab hold of the reins. Should we apologize for attempting to make it possible for the people of Lebanon to choose their own government?

The Soviet Union is exercising their power, mainly through Syria, to create unrest in the Middle East. Syrians are killing people with Russian-made weaponry. Russia knows that chaos will aid their cause. Marxist takeovers are usually preceded by unrest.

The situation in Grenada, on the surface, appears to be entirely different, but the similarities between the two areas are there.

In Grenada, the Marxists were setting up a "military bastion to export terrorism." Again, there was Soviet-made weaponry on the island. They were building up supplies, in my opinion, to create unrest in the Caribbean. I have no doubt the entire continent of South America is in jeopardy.

The communists are now constructing a 9,000 foot air field strip, which they claimed was to be used for "tourism." A 4,000 foot strip is ample for a 747. How could the communists have us believe the air strip was for tourists? Why were the men supervising the project heavily armed?

In addition to the military buildup, we had to worry about the 1,000 American citizens of the island. I don't believe that America should have to live through another hostage situation such as the one under former president Jimmy Carter.

I dare say, that even if there were no Americans on the island, we still had every right to invade Grenada. I do not believe the United States has the right to overthrow any government just because we do not agree with that government's philosophy. If the Marxists want to set up a government anywhere in the world, we have no right to stop them, just so long as they do it by peaceful means. I do not agree with the communist philosophy, but the only way to stop the spread of communism, if that's what we want to do, is make living conditions in other countries as pleasant as possible. We can not expect to leave the have-nots behind and expect them to believe in America. For example, in South Africa, we should promote the American way of life-show them what America stands for.

The problem in Grenada was that the communists did not take it over through peaceful means. They were not intent to "live and let live" in the Caribbean. If that was their intent, we would be wrong to invade. We had every right to stop them from building a mini Cuba. It was our responsibility to the rest of the free world to do so. If we will not protect freedom, who will?

Through our invasion of Grenada, Reagan has sent a message to the Soviet Union and Cuba that America will defend the Caribbean at all costs. I whole heartedly agree with him.

This could very well be the turning point in America's history. Perhaps, we as a nation can once again become that "shining city upon a hill." For we are truly the only beacon of hope for those nations around the world who want to preserve their freedom. In 1980, when Ronald Reagan was campaigning for president, he told the nation we had a "rendezvous with destiny." Those words mean more now than they did three years ago.

All Americans should stand and applaud Reagan's bold actions to maintain stability in Lebanon and freedom in Grenada. House Speaker O'Neill originally stated that Reagan's decision to invade Grenada was "sinful." He has, just recently, changed his mind. Tip O'Neill should take a hard long look in the mirror. O'Neill's statements were sinful. Americans lost their lives in both missions, and O'Neill decides to play partisan politics.

Tip O'Neill must remember that until the day comes when we know for sure that the Soviet Union wants to disarm and stop toppling smaller nations, we must remain strong, and possess the courage to take action when it is called for.

In closing, those men who died in Lebanon and Grenada did not do so in vain. They served their country admirably. Their loss means just as much to America as any soldier who died serving in any war. It is terribly unfortunate, but history shows us that the price of freedom and peace is costly. No American should have to bleed his her life away on the beaches of Normandy, the deserts of Africa, in the cities of Europe, or in the rice patties of Vietnam.

Americans should be proud of each and every person who gave their life answering the call of our nation.

I believe that our soldiers who died in Lebanon and Grenada have laid the foundation to halt America's retreat from greatness.

Setting The Record Straight

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

After attempts by a few members of the Advisory Council to get a Ledger reporter to hear our story, we decided to take matters into our own hands. Reporters would be eager to write about things that go wrong in a school, well here at Francis W. Parker Elementary something positive has been happening for years and we want the public to know about it.

Eight years ago, the former principal at Parker, Eugene Crendon, established an absent call system using volunteer parents. School policy is that if a child is to be absent, the parents are to call by 10 o'clock letting the office know that their child is ill. When the teacher's absent list is checked against the office book of calls, any child who is listed on the teachers list and has not had a call-in by a parent is called by the volunteer asking if the child is home and the reason. When the present principal, Daniel Malvesta, took over the school two years ago, this system was one of the top priorities he decided to keep doing at Parker.

I am not saying that this system is 100% perfect, there are times the telephone lines are busy, or no one answers the home phone and also taking into consideration that the volunteer is only in the office for an hour for these calls. But we have never had any strong criticism against this system and parents find the idea comforting. We all assume when we send our children to school in the morning that they got there safely. But what if they don't, after school at 2:30 is not the time to find out!

I have been doing this absent calling for two years now and have organized a few parents to cover the entire week. I would like to thank Anne Marie Donnelly, Linda Billikas, Anne Ledwak, Claire Rodriguez, Jean Shea and Kathy Picardi for their time and effort.

This system can work if you have parents willing to participate and here at Parker we have the best!

300 Face Layoff At Shipyard

The 26,950-ton tanker Socony Vacuum left Fore River for drydock in East Boston and sea trials in Massachusetts Bay, leaving the shipyard with only one ship under construction and 300 workers facing the prospect of imminent layoffs.

After the layoffs, the workforce at the yard would be down to 2,250, well below the World War II high of 33,000 and the post-war peak of 9,700 in 1951 during the Korean Conflict.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Thanksgiving means many things to many people. For some it means a joyous feast, and nothing else. For others it means a holiday and nothing else. Varied beliefs and varied behavior are seen almost everywhere.

Basically, Thanksgiving should be a day of thankful contemplation for all the things we have to be thankful for . . . And heading the list should be an appreciative thanks that the greatness of our country is spiritual in origin. All of us living in this great land should be everlastingly thankful for the visions born of faith by our fore-fathers.

The faith of our fore-fathers is our reservoir, given to us as an inheritance. The reservoir CAN run dry and most certainly will IF we fail to constantly replenish it with our own spiritual faith; a spiritual faith for future generations to live by . . .

The Beauty of Life at Harbourside

The Harbourside townhouses combine details of historical authenticity with those of contemporary luxury. (They offer to a discriminating few, elegant waterfront living with an abundance of amenities.)

Each separate, rustic, cedar-shingled townhouse has its own view of the Bay, and the full services of the abutting Marina Bay and harbourside restaurant.

The entire 20-acre Harbourside residence is protected, 24 hours a day, by a security guard.

An oversize, freshwater pool and cabana form a social focus around which the townhouses cluster. Outdoor patios accompany all townhouses, which are individually illuminated by tasteful doorway and post walk lights. The grounds are beautifully landscaped, with cobblestone-accented areas throughout; all utilities are underground, so there are no unsightly poles or wires to mar the natural beauty.

Most Harbourside townhouses have either an enclosed garage or roofed parking area; many have cathedral ceilings and skylights; all have special, energy-efficient, heat-circulating fireplaces, microwave- and trash compactor-equipped kitchens, and energy-saving appliances. All have whirlpool baths, laundry rooms with washer/dryer hookups, thermal windows and doors.

No detail has been overlooked at Harbourside. You will find French doors, flowering trellises, wood fencing, arched windows, wrought iron, and many other finishing touches on all townhouses. Truly, this is life at its most gracious.

Listen to the gulls calling across the Bay, and the waves gently breaking.

This is Harbourside. Where life is a seascape of serenity.

For the fortunate few who Act Now!

Understanding Of Death On TV's 'Sesame Street'

It is said that "the sun always shines" on Sesame Street, the children's television show seen locally on Ch. 2.

On Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24, the show will depart from the "sunny" format when the subject of death will be discussed for the first time.

The program, which will air on Ch. 2 at 7 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 12 noon, 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., explains the loss of Mr. Hooper, the grocer, according to Edward J. Keohane of the Keohane Funeral Home of Quincy and the Pyne-Keohane Funeral Home of Hingham.

Keohane, a past-president of the Massachusetts Funeral Directors Association, said, "This is an important show for parents, as well as their children. As the father of four, I am pleased that "Sesame Street" is helping youngsters understand the meaning of death."

He feels that Thanksgiving Day is "an excellent time for the program to be aired since parents will be home with their children."

The death of the actor Will Lee, who portrayed the popular Mr. Hooper, forced the "Sesame Street" producers to decide how to explain the subject to an audience of pre-schoolers.

"We felt we ought to deal with it head on," said Dudley Singer, executive producer. "If we left it unsaid, kids would notice."

With the assistance of child psychologists, head writer Norman Stiles prepared a sensitive script that answers basic questions without alarming children. "The show affirms the continuity of life," Keohane reports. A birth is woven into the plot."

Keohane believes that this "Sesame Street" episode provides a good introduction for parents to discuss death with their children.

"We recognize that explaining death to children is sometimes difficult for adults. That's why this program can be so helpful," Keohane said.

Because of the special "Sesame Street" show, the Keohane Funeral Home has brochures available for parents at no charge.

"These can aid parents in answering any follow-up questions which their children might ask as a result of the 'Sesame Street' program," Keohane said.

A festive Thanksgiving Eve Service will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Church, 44 School St., Quincy Center.

Rev. William R. McCarthy, principal celebrant, will concelebrate a special Mass of Thanksgiving with St. John's associate pastors Fr. Joseph Byrne, Fr. Daniel Graham and Fr. Thomas Synan, with the Rev. Mr. Charles Sullivan.

St. John's adult choir will sing the liturgical and patriotic hymns of the season, under the direction of John Cice, accompanied by Phyllis Ross, organist.

Music will also be provided by the folk group led by Mary and Jeff Bonish and Tricia and Brian London.

The Spiritual Development Commission prepared the liturgy which will include an offertory procession, presentation of the fruits of the harvest and a Thanksgiving narration by Mabel Pratt.

Holy Communion will be distributed in the species of both bread and wine for those prepared to receive the Sacrament.

The Activities Commission will host a reception in the lower church hall after the Mass.

A Thanksgiving Day Mass will be held Nov. 24 at 8:30 a.m.

Mayor Opposes Races On Sunday Mornings

Mayor Francis X. McCauley feels that Sunday morning marathons and bicycle races through the city are disruptive to worship services.

And he is joining with local clergy members who oppose the events and feel they should be held at other times.

The mayor discussed the issue at a meeting recently with organizers of the City of Presidents Cup Races and religious leaders.

Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary, explained that the mayor is not banning all such events, just those that affect major sections of the city.

The police department issues permits for such events, but the mayor's office often participates in decisions.

The annual Christmas parade Nov. 27 will not be affected by the mayor's feelings on Sunday events because it starts after noon.

Anderson Asks Deputy Commissioner Title For Colton

The City Council Monday night received a request to change the title of the Public Works Commissioner's administrative assistant to Deputy Commissioner of Public Works.

There would be no change in the $20,593 salary for the post, which is currently held by David Colton.

Public Works Commissioner Paul N. Anderson said in a covering letter that:

"A department of this size should have an executive level individual to assist the department head in the administration of the entire branch of public works and who stands ready to act as commissioner in his absence."

The deputy commissioner would be appointed annually by the mayor.

Council Seen Ready To Give Final O.K. For Validated Parking

The City Council appeared ready Monday night to take the final legislative step toward validated parking in downtown Quincy's municipal lots.

The Council's Downtown and Economic Development Committee voted last week to recommend an appropriation of $100,000 to help prepare the lots.

The vote was 5-2 with Councillors Stephen J. Mc-Grath and Joseph J. LaRaia in opposition.

The $100,000, taken from an old bond issue, added to $175,000 in state grants, will be used to purchase and install equipment for validated parking, which will be managed by Kinney Systems, Inc.

Mayoral aide Arthur Foley told the Council it will take five weeks for validated parking to be in place and therefore it will not be ready for the Christmas shopping season.

As the Council committee debated the subject, Bernard Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal reminded members that some two years have gone by since the matter was brought up.

"If you don't see this as a plus by now, it should be dropped," he said. "We would be making fools of ourselves to go on like this."

PHARMACY TOPICS

By Edward David R. Ph.

Positive thinking helps patients get well, says a Boston psychiatrist. Those who minimize the seriousness of their illness and don't worry about it while following doctor's orders recover and do best.

Many pool swimmers who wear goggles complain of headaches when they swim. To avoid this, choose goggles with a single soft rim that goes around both eyes, so you won't have to make the strap so tight.

The cost of same-day surgery generally runs 30 to 60 percent less than that of staying in the hospital overnight.

Antidepressant medication seems to help patients with bulimia reduce their binge-and-purge episodes.

Varicose veins may be hereditary, says a surgery professor at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. Obesity and pregnancy may aggravate the condition.

Wollaston Library To Reopen

The Wollaston Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library will re-open Tuesday, Nov. 29 after being closed for more than a month due to a boiler room fire that was started by vandals.

Library Director Warren Watson estimated the cost of the Oct. 25 fire at $5,000 in cleanup costs and repairs to wiring and plumbing.

Luckily, he said, the door to the boiler room swung shut shortly after the fire was started and the flames were stifled. The building was filled with smoke.

Watson said the books on the library shelves were not damaged but were covered with soot that had to be cleaned off one book at a time.

The branch was originally scheduled to be re-opened yesterday (Tuesday) but it would have been open only one day this week so the re-opening was postponed a week.

The Wollaston library is open Tuesday, Thursday and Friday on non-holiday weeks.

Creedon Gets Raise To $55,000

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon got a $5,000 raise to $55,000 a year from the School Committee last week largely because he hadn't had a raise in four years.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who voted against the raise along with Committee Member Nicholas Verenis, said he did not feel a man at Creedon's administrative level should get a raise at this time.

Creedon's new two-year contract also gives him a fifth week of paid vacation.

Mike's Corner

By Representative Michael W. Morrissey

This is the 61th in a series of articles written by Representative Michael W. Morrissey.

An Open Legislative and Rules Changes

In recent weeks we have seen some dramatic changes in the operation of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. The speaker recently signed a television contract with Channel 44 starting in February 1984. This marks the first time a state legislature will bring gavel to gavel coverage to the resident of its state. The contract also calls for a couple of the major hearings room to be wired for television.

The past week we were involved in a rules fight with the Legislative leadership. The rules changes are very minor but significant. They are aimed at opening up the process to the membership and allowing for an easier flow of legislation through the process. One of the rules will require a majority sign off of all legislation reported out of a joint committee. This will strengthen the committee process and allow for more input by the members. The most controversial aspect was ratification of the Speaker appointments of his leadership by the entire membership at the majority party. After lengthy discussion it was agreed that there would be ratification but the fight centered on whether it would be by open vote or a written ballot. It was eventually decided that the members, by a recorded roll call could ask for a written or secret ballot process. A written ballot would protect the members from retaliation or retribution by the Speaker, while an open ballot might allow for increased pressure and coercion. Slowly but surely the Legislature is taking steps to open up the process.

If I can ever be of any assistance, please don't hesitate to call me at home 328-0900 or in the State House, 722-2470.

Pre-Holiday Aerobics To Begin Nov. 28

A winter session of aerobic dancing will begin Nov. 28 at St. John's School, 28 Phipps St., and continue Monday and Wednesday evenings at 6:15 and 7:30 p.m.

The classes are designed to allow students to begin to shape up before the holiday events, then continue to maintain their exercise program through the winter.

Noted for its safety features, Anne Lawton Aerobic Patterns has been highly praised by the American Aerobics Association as an excellent program. Dr. Jean Rosenbaum, M.D., Director, has said, "I am once again impressed by how really superb Anne's routines are, both safety-wise and aesthetically. It is by far the best choreographed aerobics program the AAA has ever examined."

ANNE LAWTON Upbeat music and simple dance routines form the basis of this popular program. The group atmosphere and certified instructor provide a consistent basis for successful exercise.

In addition to figure toning and energy benefits, Anne Lawton Aerobic Patterns can be useful to skiers in preparing for a successful season by developing the muscles used for control on the slopes, as well as increasing endurance.

"In the last three years that I've taken the class, I've found my first day on the mountains to be wonderful," claims one area student. "My muscles aren't sore at the end of the day and I can do anything I want. I've already worked into it even before I start."

Freshmen In Scoreless Tie

North Sophs - JV's Roll Over Quincy 27-8

By TOM SULLIVAN
Scoring three touchdowns in the first half, a North Quincy sophomore-junior varsity football team defeated Quincy, 27-8, last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Dave Zuroms scored twice in the opening half for the Raiders, coached by Ted Sadowski and Mark Mulvaney, on runs of three and 17 yards, and Gerry Coughlin scored on a pass from Zuroms. Colin Powers rushed for a two-point conversion.

Ed Bagley scored the final North touchdown after Leo LeMay had run 50 yards. Sophomore Brian McNamara kicked the extra point.

The Quincy soph-jayvees coached by Mark and Jeff Giordani, scored in the last period on a run by Kevin Burke and Ted McCall rushed for the two-point conversion.

Zuroms played an outstanding game for North and Bradley, who made several fine punt returns, also played strong offensively. Defensively Dave Cooke, Billy Doherty, Joe Morrissey and Steve Dever played well and Rich Brooks played a fine two-way game.

The Quincy team was hurt by fumbles as it lost the ball three times inside the North 10, once on the goal line.

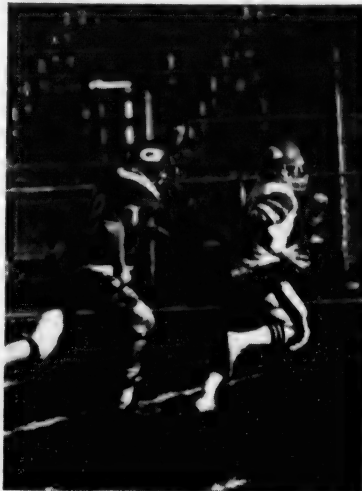

Offensively Larry Taglieri, John Picarski, Tony Venturelli, John Wholey and McCall stood out, while Walter Rollins, Kevin Devonshire, John Heath, Pag Duggan and Pete Gangi had good games on defense.

In the opening game the North Quincy freshmen, coached by Pete Zoia, and the Quincy frosh, coached by Rich Coose, played to a scoreless tie.

North apparently scored in the last quarter but it was nullified by a penalty and another time the young Raiders fumbled on the Quincy three.

For North Vin Capone was a standout both ways and quarterback Kevin Segalla, John Pacino, Mark Smith and Bob Casey all played well on offense. Defensively Tim Kelly, Scott Chansky and Kirk Highfield were standouts.

For Quincy Steve Austin,

QUARTERBACK Dave Zuroms scores one of his two touchdowns for the North Quincy sophomore-junior varsity team, which defeated Quincy, 27-8, last Saturday.

Joe Carterelli, Joe Innello, Steve Gardner, George McGuinness and Steve Hensley played outstanding games.

A Good Season Overall

North Girls 12th In State Championships

A fantastic season for the young North Quincy girls' cross country team came to an end last Saturday when the Raiderettes could do no better than 12th in the state championship meet over the Franklin Park course.

They were defending state champions.

Lou Tozzi's team, with only one senior, had gone unbeaten for its second straight undefeated Suburban League title, easily won the league championship meet and won its fourth straight Eastern Mass. crown, this time in Div. I.

But last week the youthful Raiderettes faced too much experience among the top teams in Eastern, Western and Central Mass.

North's first finisher was freshman Tricia Barrett, who placed 13th.

Notre Dame of Hingham wound up a brilliant season by winning the team championship and Kelly Madden of St. Clare was the individual winner.

"This was just an incredible season for us and the girls surpassed my expectations," said Tozzi. "Our younger runners did an amazing job and I couldn't be prouder of them. And, with just one senior, we should be strong again next season."

Hannon Top Forward For Curry Iceemen

Hannon, a forward, is one of many veterans on the squad. Coach Bill Stewart has virtually every-one back from last year's 16-5-1 team. The Colonels are now a member of the ECAC for the first time.

QJC Defeats Atlantic, 86-69

The Quincy Junior College basketball team rolled to its second win after an opening night loss, defeating Atlantic Union, 89-68, last week at the Vo-Tech gym.

John Purland had 22 points to lead all QJC scorers, while Paul Gill had 19, Steve Belcastro 18 and Bill Gray 15. Grey took down 12 rebounds, Purland 11 and Will Smith 10.

QJC led throughout the game, going up by 18 points early in the first half and leading, 47-33, at half-time.

Challenge For Maver

Presidents Better Team Than 3-6 Record

QUINCY

Bill Maver, as a Quincy High all-scholastic end in 1969 and 1970, was 2-0 against North Quincy and, as an assistant coach for the past seven years, was 4-3 against the Raiders.

But Maver's big challenge comes Thursday when he hopes to wind up his first year as head coach with a victory over North at 10 a.m. at Veterans Stadium.

Over 10,000 fans are expected for this 51st annual game.

The Presidents are 3-6 on the season and had lost five games in a row before topping Brookline in their last game to give them some momentum going into the holiday classic.

"We needed that win at Brookline," said the first-year coach. "It would have been hard going into the game with six straight losses. We have played some good football and I feel we are better than a 3-6 team."

"But we will have a tough job against North, which is much bigger and more experienced than we are. I feel we are in the same boat as North was last season with a new coaching staff, a new system and a lot of new players. Last year North had the same problem when Ken McPhee took over as head coach."

Quincy's defense has done a good job this year and at times the offense has done well but has been inconsistent.

"We tried all year to break Mike Notarangelo loose but had little luck until the Brookline game when he rushed for 145 yards, had two touchdowns (runs of 42 and 41 yards) and ran the opening kickoff back 66 yards to set up our first score," Maver said. "Once he is in the clear he is awfully tough to catch."

Billy Shaughnessy has come along well at quarterback and has done some good passing and running in addition to running the team well.

Except for Dan Curtin, a fine defensive back who underwent a knee operation following the Waltham game and was sidelined for the season, Quincy should be at full strength for the Raiders.

Offensively Quincy will have Joe Conti or Kevin Cabezas and Daron Tucker or Bob Zupkofski at end, Eric Jolley or Gary Minassian and Mark Walsh or Bob Buccella at tackle, Pat Calabro or Pat Folan and Rich Pettinelli or Rich Ready at guard, Steve Perfetuo at center, Bill Shaughnessy at quarterback, Chris Shaughnessy or Brad Hart and Notarangelo or Gerry Frazier at halfback and Joe Cullen or Jim Donahue at fullback.

Also playing on offense will be Steve Conostas at center, John O'Callaghan, who will snap the ball back on punts and extra points, Ted McCall at halfback, Greg Keefe and Marvin Johnson at end and Kevin Devonshire and Pat Duggan at guard.

On defense it will be Austin O'Malley or Tom Deason and Dan Maccauley or Jeff Manning at end, Walsh or Peter Gangi and Cullen or Steve McNamara at tackle, Chris Conner or Walter Rollins noseguard,

John Cacciatore, who has been one of the best at his spot all year long, and Paul Kenny or Cabezas at line-backer, Conti or Tony Venturelli and Tucker or Bill Coose corner backs and Chris Shaughnessy or John Wholey and Notarangelo or Mike O'Connor safeties.

Others will see service on defense are John Heath, Dave Murphy, Ken Burke, Larry Taglieri and John

Quincy's assistant coaches are John Sullivan, Mark and Jeff Giordani and Steve Spencer.

Defense Their Strength

Raiders Have Winning Season At Stake

NORTH

By TOM SULLIVAN
Last year, in his first season as North Quincy's head football coach, Ken McPhee had only a 3-6 record.

This season the Raiders go into the 51st annual Thanksgiving game with rival Quincy with a 5-4 mark and McPhee wants a winning season.

"These kids deserve better than a .500 season and I want a win to finish 6-4," he said. "We are a better team than our record shows and we should have won at least a couple of more games. The boys have done a fine job and deserve to finish with a winning record."

The Raiders go into the finale with three straight victories and have some momentum going for them. Four straight would be a fitting finish for them.

"Defense is really our strength," McPhee added. "It has been tremendous all season long. We have a good offense which can explode, as we proved against Brookline, but I have to give most of the credit to the defense."

Defensive coordinator

Jack Raymer couldn't agree more.

"During the past several weeks the defense has been just outstanding," he said.

"It has been terrific ever since the first half of the Weymouth North game and right now it is at its peak. Quincy has some fine runners and a good passer but I feel we can stop them if we play as we have since that time."

North will start an offensive line of Jim Kennedy and Dan Baker at end backed up by Jack Bolster, Vic DiGravio, Gerry Coughlin and Brian Gibbons; Nick Gelsomini and Bob Flynn or Tony Befera at tackle, Jerry Martin and Jack Hannon at guard and Jack Burke at center.

Steve Hogan will start at quarterback with Mike Gill or Scott Messina and Bryan Ellis or Steve Kelly at halfback and Jim McNamara at fullback.

Among others who will see action on offense will be Phil Iacobacci at end, John Panaro at tackle, Jim McCadd at guard, Dave Zuroms at quarterback and Bill Doherty at halfback.

Hogan has been doing an outstanding job at quarterback, running well and passing better in every game. All of the running backs have had good games and the Raiders should give the Quincy defense a good test.

On defense it will be Gelsomini and John Comeau at end, Befera and Rich DeLuca at tackle, Al Dibella the noseguard, McNamara and Kevin Kelly of Mike Barry linebackers, Gill and Steve Kelly cornerbacks and Kennedy and Joe Bangs halfbacks.

Also playing on defense will be Rich Ragusa and Ben Klingenstein at noseguard, Mark Wilkins and Paul Cahill at cornerback, Jim White at linebacker John McGuire and Steve Dever at tackle, Dave Cooke and Paul Courvels at end and John DeLappe, Steve Kearns and Peter Farren at halfback.

Raymer, Ted 'The Dean' Sadowski, Mark Mulvaney, Pete Zodia and John Muldowney are the North assistant coaches.

Sets Rushing Record Dudek Leads Plymouth State To EAC Title

Former North Quincy star Joe Dudek, who the previous week against Curry College had set a New England Conference record by rushing for the 1204 yards for the season, had one of his best days last Saturday as he rushed for 279 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead the Plymouth State College football team to a 35-24 win over Mass. Maritime and the ECAC New England Div. 3 championship.

The teams had tied for first place in the conference with 8-1 records (Plymouth State was 8-2 overall) and Mass. Maritime had rallied to top the Panthers, 22-19, early in the season.

In last week's title play-off Dudek scored his 14th, 15th and 16th touchdowns of the year on runs of 61, 34 and one yard.

Dudek had scored two touchdowns and rushed for

Last season the 6-1, 175-pound sophomore set an NCAA Div. 3 rushing record for a freshman as he rushed for 1094 yards and 17 touchdowns.

In the romp over Curry former Quincy end Scott Anson, the Panthers' record-breaking receiver, scored a touchdown on a 24-yard pass.

Other Quincy and North Quincy players on the Plymouth State squad were Steve Lee, Ed Iodice, Neil Fisher, Bob Mudge, Mark Righini and Glenn Segalla.

Freshman quarterback Bob Barrett of Quincy, who had a standout season for Curry, completed 10 of 23 passes for 192 yards and threw a touchdown pass to Dedham's Mike Blau for the Colonels' only score against Plymouth State.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

HOW TO ESCAPE FIRE SAFELY

You are awakened in the dead of night by the smell of smoke. If you panic, wondering how to get your family out of the house safely, you'll waste precious, life-saving minutes. Advance planning is vital.

Sit down with your family and plan two escape routes for everyone. The first should be the easiest, most logical way - for example, through the hall, down the stairs and out. The second is the emergency exit when halls and stairwells are blocked by smoke. This exit is most likely to be through a bedroom window.

Make sure all windows, screens, etc., can be opened easily, especially by children. If windows are on the second floor or higher, buy rope or chain ladders that can be lowered to the ground and keep them near the windows for immediate access.

Decide on a meeting place outside so you will know when everyone is out. No-one should re-enter a burning house. Equip your home with smoke detectors. They're inexpensive, reliable and can give you the minutes of advance warning that can make escape so much safer.

Finish Undefeated

Point Panthers Defeat Apaches For Title

The Quincy Point Panthers wound up an undefeated season Sunday when they defeated the runnerup North Quincy Apaches, 26 - 8, to win the Quincy Youth Football League championship. The Panthers finished 8 - 0 - 1 and gave up only 30 points while scoring 212.

The Panthers kicked off and the Apaches set up on their own 35. On the first play Joe Mulvey passed to Brian Durgin, who went all the way for the touchdown. Mulvey passed to Joe Shea for the two-point conversion and the Apaches had an early 8 - 0 lead.

The Apaches kicked off and the ball was downed by Billy Roche on the 32. The Panthers drove to the Apache five and capped off a 68-yard drive as John Pennellatore went up the middle. The conversion pass was no good.

The Panthers punted as the first quarter ended and the Apaches were stopped cold by Mark Forest, Shawn O'Neil, Tony Pece and Bobby Roche. The Apaches kicked and Billy Roche returned it to the Apache 49. Nine plays later Roche scored from the two and again the conversion pass was blocked.

The Apaches took the kickoff and drove all the way to the Panther 18 where they were stopped.

There was no scoring in the third quarter as the ball was turned over three times. The Panthers had the ball on their 37 as the last quarter opened but the Apaches' Scott Crowley recovered a fumble.

The Panthers' Pece then recovered an Apache fumble on the 28 but the Panthers were penalized twice and gave up the ball. On first down on their 25, the Apaches again fumbled and Pennellatore recovered. The Panthers drove to the three on runs by Billy Roche and Dan Overby and Pennellatore scored with two minutes left in the game. Bright took a pass for the two-point conversion. Bobby Roche picked off an Apache pass and ran it in for the final touchdown as the game ended.

The champions were led by Overby, E.J. Hartnett, Billy and Bobby Roche, Pennellatore, Bright, O'Neil, Forest, Pece, Frank Ienello, John Caporale and Billy Ryan. Coach Frank Brillo also had some good words for Tim Brillo, Anthony Battistone, Joe Taylor, Vin Digiacomo, Karl Staskiewicz, David Healy, Keith McCray, Steve Slicis and Chris Kohler.

Assistant Coach Mike Dunlea's starting defense gave up just last Sunday's eight points for the season.

The coaching staff of Brillo, Dunlea, Billy Myers, Tom Donovan, Jack Kilrain and Mike Shaughnessy expressed their thanks to the 22 members of the cheerleading squads. The championship game was shown live on Channel 3 and will be repeated in the next few weeks. Check the Quincy Sun listings. The Panthers will appear on the Channel 3 Sportalk on Nov.

28 at 7:30 p.m.

Pennellatore led the Panthers in scoring with 54 points, followed by Bright with 38, Billy Roche and Bobby Roche with 26 each, Caporale with 16 and Overby with 14.

Odd-Even Parking Rule In Effect On Streets

Public Works Commissioner Paul N. Anderson has issued a reminder to Quincy auto owners that the odd-even parking ordinance recently passed by the City Council is in effect from now through

April 15.

Under the ordinance, winter parking is allowed on the odd-numbered side of the street during odd-numbered years (like 1983) and on the even-numbered side of the street during even-numbered years.

"The purpose of this regulation is to give snowplows enough room to make a straight path down any street," said Anderson.

"In the past, snow plows have had to weave down narrow side streets with cars parked on both sides in a staggered manner.

"Allowing the plows clear access will help prevent accidents and provide more efficient plowing."

Anderson urged Quincy residents to observe the ordinance.

"It is strict adherence to this rule that will increase our snow plowing effectiveness," he said.

"The city has every intention of making this ordinance a success and will use whatever legal means available to enforce it, including ticketing and towing."

Germantown Woman Impaired By Pole, In 'Good' Condition

Kimberly Letti of 10 Roach St., Germantown, was in good condition Monday at Quincy City Hospital after being impaired by a 2-inch thick fence pole in a truck accident.

Miss Letti, 18, lost control of her red pickup truck Friday when she was driving home on Common St., Braintree, from her job as a cashier at the South Shore Plaza.

When the truck smashed into three hemlock trees and a chain link fence in front of 167 Common St., a corner pole flew into Miss

She was rushed to Quincy City Hospital after ambulance workers cut the pole on both sides of her, and left the remaining piece of metal inside her.

The pole was pulled from her body, said Dr. Robert Young, a surgeon, who mended her wounds.

The interior chest wall was pierced by the pole but it missed the vital organs, said Dr. Young, who added that two inches either way would have killed her.

"She was very fortunate," said Dr. Young.

No Beach Cleanup After Sewage Discharge

Millions of gallons of raw sewage were discharged into Quincy Bay from the MDC Nut Island Treatment Center last week, but the Health Commissioner says local beaches will not need a cleanup.

Dr. M. Grace Hussey said city beaches were checked by Health department inspectors and no health problems were found.

She said tides may have carried away sewage that washed ashore.

Houghs Neck residents including Councillor Leo Kelly, said they found beaches littered with sewage.

However, MDC spokesman Steve Burgay said an MDC inspection also found no washup on the beaches.

The sewage was discharged for three days while new chlorination equipment was installed.

School Committee Meetings Shifted

The School Committee meetings scheduled for Wednesdays Dec. 7 and 21 have been cancelled and one meeting for the month will be held Wednesday, Dec. 14, it was announced Monday.

Asst. Supt. John

Osterman said such a schedule shift is made frequently when the second meeting of the month comes close to Christmas.

Santoro Picks Up 44 Votes

Anselmo Holds School Seat In Recount

By TOM HENSHAW

Frank Santoro of Wollaston picked up 44 votes in the recount of School Committee balloting in the Nov. 8 election but it was not enough to depose Frank Anselmo from the Committee.

The recount was requested by Santoro, who finished fourth in the original count with 6,896 votes, only 88 behind Anselmo, who won the third and final committee seat.

The recount left Santoro, who was making his first try for elective office, still 44 votes behind Anselmo, who has been on the School Committee for 22 years.

The final recount figures showed:

Anselmo, 6,972, a loss of 12 votes.

Christopher Kennedy, 8,459, a loss of 17 votes.

John J. Sullivan, 6,484, a gain of 12 votes.

William Arienti, 4,174, a loss of 44 votes.

Stephen Durkin, 7,418, a loss of 15 votes.

Santoro, 6,928, a gain of 32 votes.

The recount took place Monday and Tuesday in the Council chamber at City Hall at what City Clerk John Gillis pegged at a cost of $3,000 to the city for 20 election wardens to count the votes.

General Dynamics Loses $770 M Contract

The Navy has passed up a bid by General Dynamics Quincy shipyard and awarded a $770 million contract to build five amphibious ships to Avondale Shipyards in Louisiana.

The contracts would have meant employment for 4,000 workers until 1990.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly said the Navy gave no explanation for the award of the contract to the Louisiana yard.

"The fact that Quincy has contracts to build Navy pre-positioning ships means that Fore River is back in the Navy pipeline," said Donnelly. "We will continue to work to bring more Navy contracts to the yard."

Actually the Navy awarded one contract to the Avondale yard to build one LAD (landing ship dock) for $166 million and an option to construct four more.

The Quincy yard currently has contracts for five Navy pre-positioning ships, the keels for two of which have already been laid, guaranteeing work until 1986.

Revaluation Appeal Deadline Friday

The deadline for Quincy property owners to file appeals from their new 100 per cent valuations is tomorrow (Friday) at 4 p.m.

Dennis Flis, who is supervising appeal hearings for Municipal Appraisal Services Inc. of Fall River, said as of Monday a total of 1,850 homeowners had filed appeals.

He said he expected that some 1,200 more would call the special number at City Hall before Friday's deadline. The number to call is 770-0251.

Flis said most of the 650 hearings that have been held to date involve the age and location of property.

"Quincy is an old city," he said. "There are a lot of old houses that show wear and tear. Some feel that the houses are devalued by being on heavily traveled streets or in commercial zones or on flood plains."

"If a lot of questions are asked about the same things in the same areas, then we will take a look at it."

He said the appeal hearings are expected to continue until sometime during the week of Dec. 12-16, after which each property owner who asked for a hearing will be notified of the action taken.

Hearings on appeals from commercial valuations will start Monday, Dec. 12, Flis said.

Board Continues Request For L.G. Liquors Transfer

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The City License Board voted Tuesday to continue to Dec. 8 a request for transfer of the retail store-all alcoholic license for L.G. Liquors, 195 Newport Ave., Wollaston.

The matter was continued until a full board can vote on the request from Hennessy's South Braintree News, Inc.

City Clerk John Gillis, who was supervising the recount of school committee votes, did not attend the meeting.

Joseph J. Hennessy, proposed manager of the store, said that he would operate L.G. Liquors the same way that he runs Morton Liquors on Granite St., Quincy.

Police Capt. Paul Nestor said that Hennessy has done a "very, very good job with Morton Liquors, but Newport Ave. is a little bit different."

Nestor said the Newport

Ave. store is in closer proximity to other stores, and that there has been a problem with youths soliciting adults to purchase liquor for them.

Hennessy said that he will spend the majority of his time at the Newport Ave. store. The board asked him to submit the name of a manager for Morton Liquors.

Leo Gaquin has held the license for L.G. Liquors since 1977.

Board Approves New Manager

Paul Duffy of Braintree Inc., 627 Washington St., Quincy, at Tuesday morning's License Board meeting.

The change of manager, from Robert S. Abbott, was approved subject to a routine police check. It must also be approved by the Alcoholic Beverages Commission.

Atty. Joseph C. Hutcheson II, representing Pizza Hut, told the board that Duffy has worked for the company for three and a half years, and has been manager for 14 months under an area supervisor.

Hutcheson said Duffy does not own an interest in the restaurant which had been a franchise and was recently bought back by the parent company.

Police Capt. Paul Nestor, who attended the meeting in place of Chief Francis Finn, told Duffy there were breaking and entering problems at the restaurant in the past.

Nestor instructed Duffy to make himself available to police officers.

Flood Control Provision Sought In Xway Project

Residents of flood-prone areas of West Quincy have filed a 10-taxpayer appeal with the state to include a flood control provision in the coming reconstruction of the Southeast Expressway.

City Councillor James A. Sheets said the flood control provision was left out of a recent order of conditions handed down by the Conservation Commission due to an oversight by the City Public Works Department.

The condition would have called for a 36-in. pipe to be installed along Granite Ave. to the Neponset River before the Furnace Brook Interchange could be rebuilt on a West Quincy wetland.

Sheets also sent a letter to the Conservation Commission asking that an amendment be added to the order of conditions requiring installation of the new pipe as a flood control measure.

Sheets said that he and Councillors Richard J. Koch Jr. and Joseph J. LaRaia as well as 40 residents of the area attended a Conservation Commission hearing Oct. 6 to request the condition.

However, said Sheets, the Public Works Department failed to get the technical data to the Conservation Commission in time for the Nov. 16 deadline and the order was left out of the conditions.

"We have waited 25 years to correct a situation created by the original building of the Southeast Expressway and the residents of the area are angry and rightly they should be," said Sheets.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley acknowledged that there was a "mixup in communications" in the Public Works Department.

"It's just one of those things where the paperwork did not get together in time," he said. "I don't see any problem with amending the commission order."

Time Factor In Passage Of $28 M GD Bond Bill

By TOM HENSHAW
Home rule legislation to permit Quincy to borrow $28 million to pay a tax rebate to General Dynamics was introduced into the State Senate Tuesday but Sen. Paul D. Harold said it would be nip and tuck if there were time to have it passed before the Legislature prorogues.

"The time factor is the problem," said Harold. "The rumor is that we (the Legislature) might be out of here by Dec. 9. This is top priority for Quincy but others have top priority bills, too.

"If it doesn't make it by the time we go home, I'll file it again in January when the crunch is not on and legislation that has been pending for 11 months is not trying to get through."

General Dynamics has given the city a deadline until March 1, 1984, to get the approval through the Legislature and issue the seven years of overassessment from 1977 through 1983.

The company also gave the city until Nov. 30 to get the bond through the City Council and the Council went right to the wire, passing it at the last meeting prior to the deadline by a close 6-3 vote.

Harold said the home rule petition will come before the Legislative Committee on Local Affairs, of which he is chairman, and he plans to expedite it by reporting it out without hearing.

He said Reps. Thomas F. Brownell and Robert A. Cerasoli were planning to introduce the petition in the House yesterday (Wednesday).

The two-thirds vote of the Council was needed to pass the measure, which Voting against the order were Councillors Joanne Condon, Joseph J. LaRaia and Leo Kelly.

Condon told the Council she feels strongly that the city should deal only with the court-ordered $12.4 million repayment for four years overassessment and try to renegotiate the other three years.

LaRaia also noted that the city was committed only to the courtordered repayment and "should battle the 1981-82-83 payments with General Dynamics. We should stand strongly."

Garfield St., West Quincy, were treated and released from City Hospital.

Police said the driver of the car, Paul Mantia, 45, of 33 Perkins St., West Quincy, told them his car skidded on the wet pavement when he applied the brakes.

No Mayoral Free Ride In '85

It is highly unlikely that Mayor Francis McCauley will get another free ride to re-election in 1985.

Potential candidates are already giving thought to challenging him.

McCAULEY

McCauley was only the second mayor in the city's history to run for re-election unopposed. Former Mayor Thomas Burgin was the first accorded that political tribute in 1940.

Two prospective challengers for McCauley two years from now are City Clerk John Gillis and Councillor James Sheets.

If either does go, he can count on support — organizational and financial.

Gillis would have had plenty of backing if he had decided to run against McCauley this year. But this was not the year for him — personally or politically.

No one would have beaten McCauley this year, anyway. Any mayor seeking a second term is almost virtually assured of being re-elected providing he has shown he has some intelligence, is not inept, is trying to do a good job and has no corruption in his administration.

McCauley qualified on all counts and the voters were willing to give him a second term.

A third term, however, is another matter. It doesn't come that easy. You have to win it.

The natives start getting restless — potential candidates and voters — during a mayor's second term. Sources close to Gillis say he is giving serious thought to running in 1985. And right now is a lot closer to doing it than he ever was this year.

Sheets, who is assured of being elected City Council president in January, had some thoughts of running for mayor this year. And, according to those close to him, is a strong possibility in 1985.

Observers, however, don't think both Gillis and Sheets would challenge McCauley. It would be one or the other.

And, don't look now, but isn't that Joseph LaRaia beginning to look and act like a mayoral candidate himself?

LaRaia, whose single term as mayor was one of the stormiest in the city's history, dreams of returning as mayor.

He would have run in 1981 if McCauley hadn't jumped into the ring so early. He took LaRaia and everyone else by surprise.

McCauley and LaRaia were once fairly close but have been drifting apart for sometime now.

McCauley can no longer count on LaRaia not running against him. The feeling is that if LaRaia thinks he can beat McCauley in 1985 he will have his hat in the ring early.

Interesting topic, politics, McCauley is still a month away from delivering his second-term inaugural address and already there's speculation who will give the next one.

A FEW READERS questioned McCauley's recent arithmetic in this column regarding his percentage of blanks in this year's city election.

McCauley, running opposed, was the top vote-getter with 13,776 votes against 3,294 blanks. He figured the blanks at 19 per cent. The readers figured it to be 24 per cent.

But City Clerk John Gillis agrees with McCauley.

He explains that to get the proper percentage of blanks you have to compare them with the total vote cast in the election which was 17,082.

Those coming up with the 24 per cent figure, he says, are comparing McCauley's own vote against the blanks.

FOOTBALL FAMILIES: The Thanksgiving Day scoreless tie between Quincy and North Quincy was the fourth in the 51-year football series.

Coincidentally four players on the North Quincy team are the grandsons of three players who were in the first scoreless game in 1934.

Halfback Bryan Ellis' grandfather was the late Walter (Cap) Bryan, perhaps North's most famous player and for whom the North Quincy gym is named.

End Vic DiGravio's grandfather, Vic, was an outstanding quarterback at Quincy High School.

Halfback Steve Kelly, linebacker Kevin Kelly are the grandsons of Pete Zoia, a North standout on the first North Quincy team and now an assistant Raider coach.

Zoia, incidentally, wore the original No. 20 in 1933-34-35. And the number has become a family tradition. Whenever a member of the family is on the North team, he gets No. 20.

Dave Burke, Zoia's nephew, wore it in 1943-44-45, and went on, of course, to become head coach from 1975-1981. Burke coached North's only Super Bowl team in 1975.

Zoia's son, Greg, got No. 20 in 1977 and another son, Dean, took it over in 1980.

This year, grandson Kevin Kelly, a senior, wore it. And next year, grandson Steve Kelly, a junior, will inherit it.

Lydon Reports On Visit

China Wants To Be Friends With America

By TOM HENSHAW

Four days and four nights in mainland China doesn't make John J. Lydon Jr. and expert on the subject but the City Council president came away from Peking with the distinct impression that the Chinese people want to be friends with Americans.

"I got that from more than one person," said Lydon, who had a chance to meet with the man in the Peking street - at least those who spoke a smattering of English - during evening walks in "the former emperors' gardens."

"The Chinese people feel that they are building their country as one would build a house," he said. "Right now, they have the foundation built. They have no sophisticated water or sewer systems but you can see it happening."

"Shame on the United States if we don't start developing relationships and ties with China. The Chinese have a basic distrust of Russia. They have a warmer feeling toward the United States. They want to develop ties."

On the other hand, said Lydon, "they just mass murdered 60,000 of their people - smugglers, dope peddlers and prostitutes. They will tell you that they are building a country to be proud of and they just don't have the time to tolerate these things."

Lydon spent two and a half weeks visiting the Orient with his wife's uncle, Joseph Gaquin, of Milton, and a friend, Richard Cole a Penacook, N.H., contractor. In addition to Red China, they visited Japan, Taiwan and Hong Kong and Portuguese Macao.

The highlight of the trip, said Lydon, was the Great Wall of China, which was built centuries ago to keep out invaders.

"It's built on the crests of mountains," he said. "It looms up at you as you approach by car. We visited the wall on a crystal clear fall day and you could feel the sand blowing in your face from the Gobi Desert on the other side."

Members of the Lydon party were the only westerners and Lydon and Coleman amazed the local authorities by sitting down and continuing one of their never ending cribbage games on top of the wall.

Lydon said his group ate mostly Chinese food, except for a western breakfast to start the day. His favorite was the Manchurian Hot FORBIDDEN CITY in Peking, with its age-old art objects, was the palace of the former Chinese emperors. That's John Lydon in foreground.

Pot, a large fondue vessel with charcoal in the middle and boiling water on the side in which to dip lamb and vegetables.

"What's left after cooking the meat and vegetables is soup," he said. "The Chinese always eat the soup after the meal. It fills that little hole that's left, they say."

Lydon said he found the British colony of Hong Kong in the grip of uncertainty.

"There is nine more years to go on the British lease, then the Chinese government can come in," he said.

"There is great speculation as to what is going to happen then. The people are nervous. I met some who are making plans to leave."

"Hong Kong is a study in contrasts. On one side of the island there is a modern city. On the other side there are the people who live on boats. We were told that some of them never get off their boat in their lifetimes."

The highlight of the trip to Taiwan, said Lydon, was a visit to the second largest shipyard in the world (behind Korea), which features not one but two Goliath cranes, about the same size as the one at General Dynamics Quincy shipyard.

"One noticeable thing is that they are very much into diversification," he said. "I don't think General Dynamics has gone in for that. There were six tankers under construction and they were building many other things on a pre-fab steel basis."

"You think of a shipyard as a place just to build ships but they realize they have to keep people employed so they have diversified."

Recount Sought In Ward 6 Race

Charles H. Topham announced that he planned to seek a recount of his 42-vote loss to Dr. Charles J. Herbert in the race for City Councilor from Ward 6. Herbert was declared the winner by 1117 votes to 1075 for Topham.

Alfred N. LaBrecque, who was defeated by Charles C. Hearn for the Ward 1 Council seat by a margin of 39 votes, said he had not made up his mind about seeking a recount. Hearn had 963 votes to 924 for LaBrecque in the race to succeed the retiring Thomas S. Burgin.

Other winners in City Council races were Eddie D. Carson over Laurence J. Curtin by 1386 to 923 in Ward 3, Thomas J. McDonald over Clarence R. Gomez by 1119 to 813 in Ward 4, and Charles W. Hedges over Clifton H. Baker by 1446 to 1208 in Ward 5.

John P. Flavin was unopposed for re-election in Ward 2.

Col. Warren E. Sweetser topped the School Committee race by a single vote over Mrs. C. Stanley Purcell, 5534 to 5533, as both were elected to the board. Sturgis H. Hunt was defeated for re-election, getting only 4861 votes.

ADAMS TO TESTIFY

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams was expected to testify before a court-appointed master on the petition of the Board of Trustees to sell the National Sailors' Home in Wollaston and use the income to provide care in other homes.

The petition was opposed by the Kearsarge Naval Veterans Association and the residents of the home.

'Hanging Of Greens' At Squantum Church

People of all ages joined in the fun of decorating the church and making small Christmas crafts to take home at the annual "Hanging of the Greens" at the First Church of Squantum Sunday evening.

Craft tables were led by Ruth Swenson, Hazel Mayne, Ellen Ogilvie, Patti Hurd and Lori Ogilvie.

Calvin and Gretchen Bumpus, Bob and Ida Von Reigers, Ed Reister and Janet Sumner were stationed at various places around the church to supervise the decorating. Recilla Stamos was in charge of refreshments.

In the morning, the congregation celebrated the first Sunday in Advent by lighting the first Advent candle at each of the two morning services.

At the first service, pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preached on the topic, "Choosing the Right Gift". Mary Ruth Scott, Steve Williams and Andrew Ogilvie were guitarists.

Blythe Bumpus and Kristie Shafon served as ushers. Ruth Swenson, Michelle Lenson and Patti Hurd were in charge of refreshments.

At the second service, Jason and Justin Deary assisted the pastor in lighting the first candle in the Advent wreath.

Mark and Lynda Thornton brought their son Bryan Arthur forward for dedication. Assisting the pastor were Deacons Hazel Mayne and Leon MacIntyre, who represented the congregation and presented the baby's parents with a white rosebud and a certificate of dedication.

Also assisting the pastor were Jens Thornton, Sr., the baby's great-grandfather and Michael, the baby's three-year-old brother. Flowers on the altar were given in memory of the baby's great-grandmother, Mrs. Ingeborg Anna Thornton.

The sermon at the second service was entitled, "The Promise of Redemption". It was the first in a series of three sermons to be given by the pastor on the themes of "Messiah" by George Frederic Handel. The second and third sermons on this theme will be given Dec. 11 and 18 at 10:30 a.m.

The prelude to the second service was the overture to "Messiah" and the first recitative, "Comfort Ye, Comfort Ye, My People". After the sermon, the Chancel Choir and the Youth Choir joined to sing a chorus from "Messiah", "And the Glory of the Lord Shall Be Revealed". Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Greeters at this service were Ralph and Del Dougherty. Ushers were Stewart Scott and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Ellen Ogilvie and Sandra Stohberg.

This Sunday, there will be two services at the church: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. The sermon at the first will be "Giving Yourself". It is the second of four sermons on the theme, "Christmas is About Giving".

Although the guitar service is attended by persons of all ages, it is especially suitable for families that would like to attend an informal worship service together. The sermon at the first service will be preached by Pastor Langevin.

The sermon at the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. will be preached by Rev. Charles Harper, an executive minister of the United Church of Christ. The Lord's Supper will be observed at this service.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:
"What a Beautiful Day!"
How many times have you said it? When you say "what a beautiful day," it probably was exactly that. The sun was probably shining, the sky was probably blue and the temperature was probably just right.

Did you ever stop to think you can say, "What a beautiful day it is" even if it is gloomy outside and the sky is gray and the temperature is not what you like?

A beautiful day is the day you smile at a lonely-looking old man you pass on the street - the day you visit a sick friend - the day you wipe away the tears of a crying child - the day you do something "extra" for someone else. All these examples and others can contribute to a beautiful day - anytime.

In other words a "beautiful day" is any day that you give a little of yourself to another one of God's creatures...

Chanukkah Joyous Festival For Jews

By LESTER H. GLASSER

Chanukkah, the Feast of Lights or the Feast of Dedication, is a minor festival but one of the most joyous on the Jewish calendar.

The children like Chanukkah best because they receive many gifts.

It is celebrated usually in December, when the short days of winter begin to lengthen, when once more the sun gives all the assurance that spring is not far behind.

Chanukkah celebrates the occasion when the Temple in Jerusalem was consecrated anew to the service of God after it had been defiled by the Greek conquerors.

This year the first candle is lit on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30 and candles continue to be lit for eight nights.

The following traditional blessings are recited upon the kindling of the lights.

"Blessed be Thou O Lord our God, King of the universe who has sanctified us with Thy commandments and commanded us to kindle the light of Chanukkah."

"Blessed be Thou O Lord our God, King of the universe who has wrought miracles for our fathers in days of old at this season."

Only on the first night, the following blessing is added:

"Blessed be Thou O Lord our God, King of the universe, who has kept us in life and has preserved us and enabled us to reach this season."

After kindling the lights, songs are sung in honor of the holiday. The popular "Mo' or Tsur" (Rock of Ages), but different from that used in Christian churches, is the best known of these.

It is no wonder that children love this week, because in some families a gift is given on each night of Chanukkah. They put on masquerades and plays to illustrate the Chanukkah story; they play games dramatizing the exploits of Judah and his courageous band.

There are plenty of parties with potato pancakes, the special Chanukkah food.

Best of all, it is the time of gifts when everyone remembers his family and friends.

The story of Chanukkah is that for a century after the death of Alexander the Great, Palestine found itself the coveted territory of the Syrians in the north and the Egyptians in the south. Finally Syria gained possession of the little land.

The Jews naturally resented the presence of the invader, but undertook no active resistance until the Syrian King Antiochus Epiphanes attempted to destroy the Jewish religion and spirit by a campaign of cultural and religious imperialism.

This tyrannical imposition of a decadent Hellenic culture and cult upon the small nation was met by revolt, initiated primarily by a priest of the town of Mattathias and his five sons. They organized guerrilla bands and successfully fought off the stronger armies of Syria and achieved independence for Judea.

In the meantime, the sacred shrine in Jerusalem had been violated by the setting of a pagan altar in the Temple. Judah Maccabeus, son of Mattathias, was the foremost leader of the struggle.

On the 25th day of the month of Kisle, 167 BCE (Before the Christian Era) the Temple was cleansed of every trace of heathen worship and rededicated.

In order to re-establish the Jewish Temple service, pure olive oil was needed for the kindling of the lamp that burned steadily and continuously in the Temple. The oil used by the Jewish priests had to be absolutely pure. It was pressed from special olives and then placed in small vials and sealed by the High Priest.

After a prolonged search,

Judah found one small vial of this pure oil. It was sufficient for one day's burning. However this one day's supply sufficed for eight full days. By that time, Judah obtained oil prepared by the Jewish priests which was pure and undefiled.

Little yellow candles (sometimes blue, pink or brown) or wells of oil with threads folded together are used as a lamp.

The lamp is generally placed on the window sill or in some other conspicuous place where it may be seen from the outside.

It is generally agreed by scholars that if the Jews had been defeated by the Syrian Greeks, the religious foundations upon which Christianity was later established would have been lost to the world and neither Judaism nor Christianity would have exerted their influences upon civilization.

Chanukkah is the traditional time for playing the "dreidel" game. The dreidel is a small four-sided wooden or metal top that is spun by hand. The sides are inscribed with the four Hebrew letters which begin with the words - Nes gadol hava sham (A great miracle happened there).

With the passage of centuries, the Chanukkah candles have taken on a deep meaning for Jews. They symbolize the light of religious freedom that Judah Maccabee and his followers have kept alive.

In the glow of the candles, many Jews rededicate themselves to the ideals of their faith as once the Maccabees rededicated the Temple to the service of the One God.

Because Chanukkah symbolizes the triumph of faith in God over brute force, it has long been a source of inspiration to the weak and small in number who fight for liberty and justice against stronger and tyrannical foes.

It strengthens the conviction that religious freedom is the right of every people and that God desires man to worship Him in freedom.

Snuggling deep under the covers may be cozy but, doctors warn, it may cause headaches from lack of oxygen.

New treatments are being used experimentally against multiple sclerosis. In one, a powerful anti-cancer drug is given with ACTH to stop disease progression for a while. In another, patients breathe pure oxygen in a hyperbaric chamber.

Asthmatic children are improved when their bedrooms are made dust-free, a Canadian test showed. Vinyl covers for bedding, daily cleaning with a damp mop, avoiding upholstery, and sealing hot-air ducts reduced the need for medication.

New device for joggers uses body heat to warm the air they breathe. It has a body shell, a movable joint system, and a mouthpiece.

Permanent replacement teeth are now possible with a new staple that holds an artificial bridge in place. Dentists say the new system is especially effective for those who lose lower teeth in accidents and those with jaw diseases.

After Spectacular Streak: Quincy Girls Run Into Victory Road Detour

The end of the road finally came for the Quincy girls' volleyball team.

The First Ladies not only lost their first game of the season (after 44 wins) but lost the match to Stoneham, 3-1, in the semifinals of the state tournament at Waltham. The Quincy girls were the defending state champions.

Ray Whitehouse's First Ladies had an amazing season as they swept through 21 straight matches (16 in the Suburban League) and 44 successive games.

Despite the loss to Stoneham, Quincy continued to show its spirit and determination as they made several comebacks but to no avail.

Stoneham won the opening game, 15-11, but Quincy came back to win, 15-9. Stoneham then won, 15-13 and 15-11, to move into the state championship game last Monday against Amherst Regional, which has six boys on its squad.

Stoneham took the lead in the opening game but Quincy came back to take a 3-2 lead on Christine Gallery's blocking. Stoneham then fought back to gain a 9-4 lead where the score stood for several minutes. Stoneham finally took a 15-11 win and handed Quincy its first loss of the entire season.

Quincy took the second game behind the hitting of Gallery and Susan Beven and Colleen Dunn's spectacular defensive saves.

The third game was a long and hard-fought battle before Stoneham came out on top.

Carolyn Leonard kept Quincy alive with tremendous serving and Beven dominated the net, hitting several balls to the floor. Karen Mannell played with the determination, hustle and talent of one of the best setters in the state.

Stoneham's Spartans roared to a 10-2 lead in the fourth and final game but Quincy came back. With Stoneham leading, 14-6, and one point away from victory, Quincy scored the next five points behind the serving of Beven and Kathy McGregor, but couldn't hold off the 15th point as its outstanding season came to an end.

"We are disappointed, but I hope we don't forget that we might be the second best team in the state and have beaten Stoneham before," said Whitehouse.

"The city of Quincy should be extremely proud of these girls, they handled winning well and showed a great deal of sportsmanship and poise in losing. A 21-1 season shows that Quincy High volleyball is outstanding and should be even better next year," said Chris Prendiville, whose junior varsity team was also unbeaten this year. And the freshmen also finished undefeated.

THE QUINCY girls' volleyball team, undefeated Suburban League champions, advanced to the state championship semi-finals before losing to Stoneham. Coach Chris Prendiville, Manager Corinne Fichtner, Karen Eames, Ginny Duggan, Lauren Standing, Colleen Dunn, Terry McLoughlin, Mario LeVangie, Terry Duggan and Coach Ray Whitehouse. The Quincy Junior College basketball team, trailing all the way, didn't take the lead until the final four seconds of the game as it edged North Shore Community College, 94-92, last week to improve its record to 3-1 and remain unbeaten in the Greater Boston Small College Conference.

The Jaguars will host Emerson Friday night at 7 p.m. at the Vo-Tech Gym, will play in the Harvard Classics tournament Sunday night at 7, and will host Mass. College of Art Tuesday night at 7.

John Purland had 25 points and 10 rebounds, Smith 24 points, Gill 24 points and nine rebounds

Defense The Story In Scoreless Battle

By TOM SULLIVAN

For only the fourth time in the 51-year series and the first time since 1940, the Quincy and North Quincy football teams battled to a scoreless tie last Thursday before a disappointing, late-arriving crowd estimated at about 9,000 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Defense was the story of the game and the underdog Quincy team, which finished at 3-6-1, pretty well dominated the game thanks to North turnovers and spent most of the game in Raider territory.

The Presidents intercepted three passes and the Raiders (5-4-1) turned the ball over again on a fumble and pass interference nullified an apparent North interception. As a result, Quincy four times was inside the North 20 and again at the 25, while Quincy's defense was superb as North was inside Quincy's 20 only once and another time reached the Presidents' 26 for their only scoring opportunities.

"I thought our defense was fabulous," said Quincy's first-year coach, Bill Maver. "The kids did a tremendous job and should have won this game. It's just too bad they couldn't have taken advantage of their opportunities, but North's defense was also great and stopped us when they had to."

"Actually our defense played well all year and I feel we were better than a 3-6 team. We improved every week and were in every game except Brockton. But nobody is satisfied with a tie and I think Ken (North coach Ken McPhee) feels the same way."

"I'm glad the kids had a winning season but certainly I'm not happy with this tie," said McPhee. "Our offense gave them all sorts of chances and our defense was on the field an awful long time. Quincy's defense was just outstanding and our attack was bottled up pretty well thanks to the turnovers."

The outstanding player in the game was the smallest player on the field, Quincy's Mike Notarangelo (5-4, 137), who ran for 128 yards and played a stellar defensive game.

"Mike is just a great competitor and has been all season long," said Maver. "He has to be one of the finest two-way players around and he certainly doesn't play like a kid that small."

Quincy had 171 net yards on the ground to 125 for North. Both quarterbacks were given a busy time by the defenses. Quincy's Billy Shaughnessy was four of 10 for 66 yards (one was on a pass interference call), while North's Steve Hogan was four of 11 for 38 yards and had three intercepted. Quincy had 12 first downs and North 10.

Joe Cullen and Chris Shaughnessy also ran well for Quincy. Maver had good words for Steve Perfetuo, Pat Calabro, Rich Pettinelli, Mark Walsh and Eric Jolley in the offensive line. "Walsh and Jolley played their best games of the year," he said.

The entire defense was praised and Maver singled out John Cacciatore, Steve Cabezas (playing his only game of the year after being ineligible), Austin O'Malley, Dan Macauley, Rich Ready, who was playing hurt; Walsh, Cullen, Chris Conner, Paul Kenney, Bob Zupkofska, who was unable to play the second half due to torn ligaments in this thumb, Chris Shaughnessy, Notarangelo, Daron Tucker and Joe Conti.

"Sully (defensive coach John Sullivan) did a wonderful job and had the kids really fired up," Maver said.

North's Jim McNamara sparked the Raider attack as he ran for 68 yards. The offense was severely hurt when Bryan Ellis, who had run well in the first half, was hit hard on the opening kickoff of the second half and had to sit out the last two quarters. "We really missed him," McPhee said.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer was again happy at the work of the defense, as he had been all season long.

"These kids were just great and I'm very proud of every one of them," he said. "Due to our turnovers today, they were on the field an awful lot but we stopped them every time we had to."

Raymer had good words for McNamara, Kevin and Steve Kelly, Mike Barry, Al DiBella, Rich Ragusa, Tony Befera, Rich DeLuca, John Comeau, Nick Gelsomini and Mike Gill.

Offensive coach Mark Mulvaney again hailed the work of his top five, Gelsomini, Jerry Martin, Jack Burke, Jack Hannan and Bob Flynn.

Maver has good reason to look to next season as he had seven juniors starting on offense and four on defense.

Quincy took the opening kickoff and went to North's 25 as Bill Shaughnessy hit brother Chris for 18 yards. Chris making an outstanding catch, and Cabezas for six yards, but North held and, after a penalty and a sack, Conti punted to the 10.

North clicked off three first downs and reached Quincy's 26 but Zupkofska intercepted a pass and returned it to the Quincy 43.

Quincy was stopped and Conti punted to the Raider 20 and three plays later the Presidents got a break when Jack Bolster got off a bad punt that went out on North's 43.

Quincy drove all the way to North's 11 but was set back by a 15-yard penalty and the Raiders held and took over on their 28. "That penalty was a real crusher," said Maver.

North drove to Quincy's 19 but a clipping penalty set the Raiders back and Chris Shaughnessy intercepted a pass on his 10 and returned it to his 25.

North received the second half kickoff and Ellis, returning to his 25, was hit hard and knocked out of the game.

North was forced to punt and a few plays later North's Jim Kennedy recovered a fumble on his 39. Quincy again held and Bolster punted to Quincy's 20, Chris Shaughnessy returning to the 32.

Conti got off a 58-yard punt that rolled to the North 11. The Raiders made a first down but Quincy recovered a fumble on the Raider 33.

Quincy again marched to North's 15 but the Raider defense again held and took over on the 21.

Following another Bolster punt, Notarangelo raced around left end for 26 yards to North's 19. On fourth down Conti tried a field goal but it was partially blocked and the Raiders took over on their 20.

Quincy got still another good chance when Cacciatore picked off a Hogan pass on North's 47. The Presidents reached the Raider 19 but again were stopped as North took over. Hogan hit Kennedy for 15 yards but the game ended before North could reach midfield.

MIKE GILL of North Quincy is tackled by Quincy's Paul Kenney (48), as North's Jack Hannan (73) and Quincy's Gary Minassian (55) move in on the action.

WITH THE HELP of a multitude of balloons, North Quincy cheerleaders send banner into the air before the big game.

Donahue Keeps Game Streak Intact

Jack Donahue, who hadn't been able to attend a game this season, but was on hand for his 51st Quincy-North game.

North Quincy's only coach from 1933 through 1960 has seen every game as a coach and fan and, as usual was greeted by several of his former players. They were surprised at Jack's memory as he recounted various plays from the early games.

Among others who were present for their 51st successive game were former Quincy principal George Wilson and former Quincy coach Bill Sullivan, who led his teams to five straight wins over North.

Flaine Zoia, wife of Pete, a star on North's first three teams in 1933, '34 and '35 currently a Raider assistant coach, also hasn't missed a game. There are a number of others who have that distinction.

Officials: Hard Fought But Clean Game

The game officials said the Quincy-North game was one of the hardest-fought and cleanest they had ever worked and praised the players of both teams.

"The officials told me the same thing and I think the highlight of the day was watching the players of both teams patting each other on the back and congratulating their rivals."

said North faculty manager Rich Hutchins. "To me this is what this game: is all about."

Mele Ready For Spring Training After Knee Injury

Quincy's Sam Mele, veteran special assignment scout for the Red Sox who underwent knee surgery during the summer, watched the Quincy-North game as he has done on many other occasions.

Mele had a knee operation last July and missed the rest of the baseball season but said last week, "I am feeling fine and am eagerly looking forward to spring training."

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

DEAD BEFORE FIRE

People who smoke before they doze off to sleep in bed or while sitting in a stuffed chair may be taking an enormous risk with a false sense of security. You may think that if you do fall asleep while smoking, you'll probably be awakened by heat and flames. Don't count on it, especially if you've been drinking.

Last year, 137,800 fires were caused by smoking. In fact, it was the number one cause of fire deaths in the United States. And in the majority of the fires where smoking was the cause, bedding or upholstery were the accomplices. Most of the victims were never even aware of a fire prior to death.

Why? In mattresses and overstuffed furniture, smoking materials usually start fires that smoulder rather than flame. This flameless combustion produces carbon monoxide and other poisonous gases. Many who fall asleep while smoking die - not from burns - but from the presence of toxic gases.

STARSCOPE

Clare Annswell

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 1, 1983

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Romantic involvements require more solo analysis — you can't afford to shrug off problems. Older relatives provide stimulating company. Moneybelt can be loosened.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
If looking for a new source of income, be wary of get-rich-quick schemes and concentrate on what you know best. Conservative approach begins to work wonders in romance.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
If decorating, bold and exciting touches reflect your present emotional state. Romance-wise, setbacks are reversed after weekend. In money matters, it's time to review budget.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
A wonderful time for enrolling in psychology, astrology or gourmet cooking classes. Travel also is favored, but romantic reunions may not be as much fun as you thought!

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Good time to strengthen family ties, host a cousins' party, correspond with faraway relatives. Recent romantic mystery is solved. Career dispute can come to a head.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Recent financial difficulties can be resolved by Tuesday. The accent here is on compromise, not imagination. In romantic dealings, the focus is on offbeat touches.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Coworkers are uncommonly stubborn, making it harder — but more important — to complete major project on schedule. Loved one enjoys the limelight throughout the week.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Money-making opportunity opens up by Tuesday but be mindful of people telling you how to spend funds. Don't exclude yourself when taking inventory of family's health needs.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
You're more adept at creative jobs than at technical tasks; leave mechanical chores to the pros. Librans excel in sports-related competitions held this week.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Week is filled with activity — from a family gathering to involvement in an all-new hobby. Coworker takes a big risk for you. Partner demonstrates his/her loyalty.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
You're feeling more positive thanks to the upbeat individual who enters the scene. Weekend cancellation may be for the best. Domestic obligations become less costly.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Winter's in the air, yet the season has a springtime feel. Friendships are budding and you're in a mood to clean house. Unexpected correspondence merits ample consideration.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're noted for your bursts of enthusiasm, your versatility, your curiosity, your good luck and, especially, for your independence. Year sees you becoming more serious in your career choices and more inclined toward making healthy compromises.

BORN THIS WEEK
December 1st, comedian Richard Pryor; 2nd, actress Julie Harris; 3rd, singer Andy Williams; 4th, actor Max Baer, Jr.; 5th, director Orson Welles; 6th, jazzman Dave Brubeck; 7th, actress Ellen Burstyn.

Validated Parking Move In 'Final Stages'

The move to validated parking in downtown Quincy is now "in its final stages," says Mayor Francis X. McCauley. The City Council last week cleared away the final legislative obstacle by voting an appropriation of $100,000 to help purchase and install equipment needed for operation of the lots by Kinney Systems. The next step, said McCauley, is the signing of a lease with Kinney and the preparation of a contract with Cincinnati Time, Inc. of Norwood for the equipment and installation. McCauley said work on the parking lots would not be finished until after the first of the year.

LaRaia, Stephen J. McGrath and John J. Lydon Jr. The city already had on hand $175,000 from state and federal grants for the equipment but Cincinnati Time's low bid came in at $273,000, making the $100,000 appropriation necessary.

McGrath said he had been opposed to the concept of validated parking from the beginning and LaRaia suggested to the Council that the equipment contract be redid. "The ball game changed when the extra $100,000 came into the picture," said Lydon.

"There is no sense of urgency anymore," he said. "We were hoping to have the lots ready for the Christmas shopping season but the Council did not pass the appropriation in time." Councilors finally passed it by a 6-3 vote. Voting against the appropriation order were Councilors Joseph J.

The giving of a certificate is an exceptionally nice way to commemorate a major foreseeable event such as a graduation. Each certificate is guaranteed to have a redemption value of $1,000 at maturity.

The purchase price will vary as market conditions change and with the maturity you choose. Now would be a good time to purchase a certificate for a graduation in 1986 or perhaps for an event in 1985... or maybe just as an investment for yourself.

Early redemption of a certificate, if allowed by the bank, carries a statutory penalty and other penalties.

Friday New Deadline

3,000 File Appeals On Revaluation

By TOM HENSHAW

The deadline for Quincy property owners to file appeals from their new 100 per cent valuations passed last Friday but Mayor Francis X. McCauley said late appeals for hearings will be accepted until tomorrow (Friday).

Dennis Flis, who is supervising appeal hearings for Municipal Appraisal Services Co. of Fall River, said about 3,000 homeowners had filed appeals before last week's deadline. About 1,800 of them have already been heard.

The City Council Monday night passed a resolve asking the mayor to extend the deadline for filing until Dec. 31 because, said

Councillor James A. Sheets, some persons may have been ill or out of town and unable to request hearings.

But McCauley said there were no plans for such an extension.

"They will have had four full weeks to make a decision to file an appeal," he said. "That's sufficient time to decide and then make the call."

"This is only one phase of the full revaluation procedure and we want to have it completed by the end of March. We still have to send notices of changes, be recertified by the state and then implement classification."

He said the goal is to get the spring tax bills out by April 1 with the new tax rate so that money will be coming in by May 1.

Council Votes Sale Of Cranch School

The City Council Monday night approved the controversial sale of the Cranch School to the Housing Organizational Trust for $150,000 for conversion into 17 condominium units.

The vote was 7-2, with Councillors Patricia Toland and James A. Sheets voting in opposition.

"I thought," said Toland when Councillor Stephen J. McGrath removed the order from the Land Conveyance Committee, "it was understood that when a final vote was taken on this order the neighborhood would be notified.

"As long as the neighborhood is not present, I am voting 'no'. The neighbors were at every hearing into this order and I think it would have been a courtesy to have notified them of the final vote."

McGrath noted that at least three hearings had been held on the sale.

"All the city councillors have had plenty of time to look into the issues and make up their minds," he said. "It's time to vote on it one way or the other."

Councillor Richard J.

Koch noted that, at the last hearing on the Cranch School, a majority of those present had signed in favor of the sale.

A large group of neighbors had sought to have the school torn down and the land retained as a playground for neighborhood children.

Restriction placed on the deed to the school property specify that it cannot be used for any purpose other than residential and it is limited to one building with 17 housing units.

303 Condo Units For Duane's

The old Duane's steel yard on Southern Artery will be sold Dec. 28 to the Ricciardi Co. for the construction of three buildings with 303 luxury condominium units and a Marine in the Town River.

Mayor Francis X.

McCauley said the purchase will mean that $750,000 in back taxes will be paid to the city by Duane out of the money it will receive.

"This project will improve the neighborhood 1,000 per cent," said the mayor. The area behind the Quincy Gas station which is surrounded by commercial and industrial establishments.

Planning Director James Lydon said the Ricciardi Co. has completed financial planning for the $40 million project.

Hearing Thursday On Schools Sale

The City Council's Land Conveyance Committee will hold a public hearing today (Thursday) at 7 p.m. on the proposed sale of the Pollard, Willard and Massachusetts Field Schools.

It is proposed that the Pollard be sold to Manel

Properties for $152,650, the Willard to Furnace Brook Associates for $916,500 and the Mass Fields to Fafard Co. $247,440.

The comfort station in the John Hancock Parking area has been opened with attendants on hand for the Christmas shopping season. Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the station will open Monday through Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The comfort station will be opened permanently when Kinney Systems takes over management of the city-owned lots in downtown Quincy.

New Year's Extension On Liquor Hours

The License Board voted Tuesday to extend the closing time of all Quincy liquor establishments to 2 a.m. for New Year's Eve.

Normally, such establishments close at 1 a.m.

Board Sits Out Sunday Dancing Encore

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

It looked like the issue of Sunday dancing in Quincy might be back for an encore.

But instead, the License Board decided to sit this one out.

It was thought that City Clerk John Gillis might propose at Tuesday's License Board meeting that the ban on such activity be rescinded.

But instead, Gillis, who is board chairman, suggested members study the issue before it is discussed more formally after the first of the year.

"We're probably the only city in the state that doesn't allow Sunday dancing," said Gillis, who noted earlier that last year's repeal of the Blue Laws allows shopping and other activities.

The board's longtime ban on Sunday dancing was challenged two years ago when the Quincy Bay Inn requested a license to allow such activity.

After much debate, the board voted against the request. Gillis and Police Chief Francis Finn voted in favor.

Gillis said the issue resurfaced last week when a woman came into his office and wanted to know why dancing wasn't allowed on Sundays in Quincy.

"I explained it to her," said Gillis, "but I see nothing wrong in it."

Gillis says he will temporarily step down as board chairman, if necessary, to propose the board rescind its Sunday dancing ban.

And if the ban is rescinded, will Gillis go out dancing to celebrate?

"I don't even dance," he laments.

Gateway Building Reported Sold

The $19 million office building at 100 Hancock St., North Quincy, being built by Gateway Quincy Associates, reportedly has been sold to new developers.

The name of the new owners was not available but reports had it that it was either a Beverly Hills, Calif., bank or a local developer.

In applying for a federal urban development action grant in the summer of 1982, Gateway said the building would provide an estimated 812 new jobs and bring in $335,000 in tax revenues for the city.

Shipyard Designated Foreign Trade Zone

The General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard has been designated a foreign trade zone by the federal government, it was announced by Cong. Brian J. Donnelly.

The designation will enable the shipyard to import certain ship components duty free.

"The Commerce Department, which investigated the proposal for seven months, concluded that the trade zone would result in an overall increase in jobs and those jobs will be in Quincy," said Donnelly.

The shipyard, which has contracts to build five cargo ships for the Navy, plans to import anchors, diesel engines, deck fittings and other equipment it says are not available from American suppliers.

The Quincy trade zone will be an extension of the established foreign trade zone at Massport's Commonwealth Pier in South Boston.

"The trade zone should help Quincy be more competitive as it bids for future shipbuilding contracts, both from the Navy and from commercial shipping companies," said Donnelly.

$42,000 Bid For Hunting School Demolition

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he is inclined to accept a low bid by North American Site Developer Corp. of Brighton for demolition of the abandoned

Nathaniel Hunting School in Adams Shore.

The North American bid of $42,000 was considerably under that of the next bidder, Duane Wrecking Co. of Quincy, which bid $64,000.

Other bidders were Francesco Corp., $67,000; Napoli Wrecking of Roxbury, $83,000; and Mystic Wrecking Co. of Chelsea, $84,000.

Historical Commission Adds 2 New Members

The Quincy Historical Commission has added two new members, according to Joyce I. Baker, chairman.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has appointed Richard Lockhead of Wollaston as architect on the commission.

A graduate of the Boston Architectural Center with a B. Arch. degree, he has been associated with the Cambridge firm of Brown Daltas & Associates for seven years.

Susan Spelios, principal planner for the City of Quincy's Planning and Development program, is the new liaison between the Historical Commission and the planning department.

Robert Luongo of Quincy, now Director of Community Development in Wakefield, former liaison, will continue as an associate member of the commission.

The Historical Commission encourages new developments and major renovations compatible with the historic and architectural qualities of the Quincy Center and Adams Birthplace Historic Districts.

It meets regularly on the fourth Monday of every month.

Board Approves Transfer Of L. G. Liquors

The License Board voted Tuesday to transfer the retail-alcoholic license for L.G. Liquors, Inc., 195 Newport Ave., Wollaston, to Hennessy's South Braintree News, Inc.

Joseph J. Hennessy, who also operates Morton Liquors on Granite St., will manage the Wollaston store.

Police Capt. Paul Nestor said he explained to Hennessy the problem of youths soliciting adults to buy liquor for them.

Hennessy said he will do whatever is necessary to keep the problem under control.

The license for L.G. Liquors had been held by Leo Gaquin since 1977.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

• Granted a one day all alcoholic license to the President's Men's Association for its annual Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 10, 6 p.m. to midnight at the President's Golf course.

• Continued for one week a hearing on extension of the Motor 1 (new car) license for Tom O'Brien Datsun, Inc., 479 Washington St.

• Continued for one week a request from Thomas Carleton of Dedham for transfer of the licenses held by Park's Auto Repair Service, 555 Southern Artery. The licenses are for 9,000 gallons of gasoline under ground, in addition to a repair shop and two car lube license. Carleton is to have the gasoline storage tanks tested, and to report the findings to the board.

• Rep. Michael Morrissey requested a one day all alcoholic license for a Christmas party for friends and supporters Sunday, Dec. 11, 4 to 7 p.m. at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

City Clerk John Gillis said a license was not necessary because alcoholic beverages will not be sold.

Boston Common vendor in October, 1981.

Hennessey was convicted of knifing Michael T. Lument, 29, formerly of Weymouth at the Park St.

Hennessey was given a life sentence in MCI Walpole in November, 1982.

Until Kramer's return, Judge Lewis Whitman will act as presiding justice.

'Book' Hoard Found At Pollard School

Discovery of what appeared to be a hoard of unused school textbooks stored in the abandoned Pollard School in Quincy Point Tuesday turned out to be something quite different. Or did it?

The 14 boxes of material were uncovered following a break into the school by vandals.

Mrs. Arlene Goodman of Revere Rd., chairman of the Parent Advisory Board of the Point-Webster School complex, had them taken to the Webster School for examination.

Fred Nolan, the school system's director of elementary education, said the material in the boxes actually turned out to be nine cartons of administrative notes and five cartons of books.

Nolan explained that the boxes were put away in a closet at the school by Frank Keegan, the last principal of the Pollard School who was being reassigned as vice principal of the Lincoln-Hancock.

Keegan was hospitalized at the time and he had the only key to the closet, said Nolan. Later, when Keegan died, the cartons were overlooked in the confusion.

Nolan said all the cartons were earmarked for transfer to the Lincoln-Hancock School with Keegan.

But Mrs. Goodman said that some of the cartons were marked for specific rooms in the Daniel Webster School, which, she said, is in need of textbooks.

"My kids go to the Webster, and they are sharing textbooks with other kids," she said. "There are not enough books. The principal told me that the books from the Pollard School are good books and they can use them."

"If they had been left at the school then vandals would have burned them up."

Nolan denied that there was any shortage of textbooks in the schools.

"Some of the material we have is old and we don't have the money to update it," he said. "Some classes may be short of material but we don't want to buy old books, to fill in."

"If it is necessary we will buy them but we prefer to wait until a new edition comes out and purchase all new books."

Masked Man Sought In Wollaston Assault

A 30-year old Wollaston man appeared at the State Police barracks in Norwell early last Thursday to report that he had been kidnapped and assaulted by a man whose pistol misfired three times when he tried to shoot him.

Philip L. Grzybala of 62 Wendall Ave., a mailman, said he was leaving for work at 5:15 a.m. and found a large man wearing a ski mask and carrying a pistol in the back seat of his car.

The man ordered him to drive south on Route 3 to a point near the Hanover Mall where he pointed his gun at Grzybala and pulled the trigger three times. The gun failed to fire.

Then he assaulted him, Grzybala said, and fled on foot.

Quincy police said Grzybala reported a similar incident to them at 5:15 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7.

Readers Forum Thanks Those Who Signed Pets Seizure Repeal Petition

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the Quincy Animal League I would like to thank all those who made the Pro-Pets pound seizure repeal petition drive such a success.

Nearly 5,000 signatures were certified in our city alone, an outstanding piece of work, and the credit goes to our fine members and friends, as well as to the thousands of good people in Quincy who shared our concern for impounded pets across Massachusetts.

Even though Quincy has won exemption from pound seizure, we cannot rest until we have brought the same relief to all other animals in pain, for these poor creatures know no geographical boundaries, and the suffering of one is the suffering of all.

If the legislature can read the handwriting on the wall it will repeal the pound seizure law at once. If not, we, the people, most assuredly will do it for them at the polls next November. Again, our deepest thanks to all who helped in any way.

Likes Sun Advertising Features

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Since the vast majority of folks are prone to accept most sentimental touches with silent, nodding approval, I venture to say hordes of your readership share our family's delight with a couple of "features" we eagerly anticipate each and every week.

One being the inspirational and thought-provoking pearls of wisdom encompassed in "A Thought For The Week" as provided by Donald M. Deware, director of the funeral home bearing his family name, in the firm's weekly advertising space. And wouldn't it be a truly wonderful world if only we could live up to the praiseworthy precepts contained in Donald Deware's uplifting sentiments?

In that same vein, both Sweeney funeral homes, Keohane's, Wickens &

Troupe and Lydon-Russell can also take bows for similar public-service offerings from time to time.

And Quincy residents proud of their city's history-stepped tradition often clip and save for posterity, via family scrapbooks, the intriguing "Remember When" photos of memorable people and places of yesteryear in the "City of Presidents", which appear regularly in the Burgin-Planner insurance company advertisement.

It's a thrill for local history buffs to take a step back in time when photographic treasures are "unearthed" in those ads. Such as the long-gone Hotel Shelton, an imposing Adams Shore landmark overlooking beautiful Quincy Bay - early in the century.

No Rocking Chair For Baharian

The Rev. Bedros Baharian is retiring from another job.

But you won't find him in a rocking chair. He still has a couple of irons in the fire to keep him busy.

Baharian, 68, is giving up the post of executive director of the 1000 Southern Artery senior citizens' complex after 18 years as head of one of the largest housing and senior centers in the country.

The Board of Trustees, of which he served as its first president for two years, will hold a reception Friday, Dec. 16, at 3 p.m. in the 1000 Southern Artery auditorium to honor his retirement.

"There comes a time," said Baharian, "when we must make up our minds to hang up our shoes before people tell us to. This is nothing unusual. I have been planning for retirement for two years."

He and his wife, Jane, plan to spend the winters in Winter Haven, Fla., and the summers on the dairy farm in Cabot, Vt., operated by his daughter, Carol, and her husband, William W. Bolton Jr.

Baharian is involved in the ownership of the dairy farm near St. Johnsbury, which, he is quick to tell you, has 112 dairy cows (Holsteins) and produces two tons of milk a day.

During the spring and the fall, he said, he plans to spend time in and around Quincy working with his other interests.

They include a company that breeds high priced cattle by embryonic transfer, and Mediplex, a publicly held company that operates 1,200 nursing home beds and 400 alcohol and drug rehabilitation beds in New England and New York.

The principal in Mediplex is Abraham D. Gosman, of Newton, with whom Baharian was associated two years ago in an unsuccessful proxy fight for control of Multi-Bank, parent firm of the South Shore Bank.

Baharian is also managing trustee of a number of trusts and, for the time being at least, maintains desk space at Grossman Companies, real estate, in South Braintree.

His replacement as executive director of 1000 Southern Artery is his son, Paul.

Baharian retired in December, 1973, after 30 years as pastor of the Quincy Point Congregational Church, which constructed and manages 1000 Southern Artery.

He also retired in 1982 as chairman of the Quincy Planning Board, on which he served for 13 years, and as citywide development director, a post he held since 1978.

There are those who maintain that his retirement from the Planning Board was hastened by Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who represented a different political viewpoint in the city.

In a parting message to residents of 1000 Southern Artery in the December issue of its monthly publication, The Fountain, Baharian said, "although I am planning to travel a good deal, my permanent residence shall remain at 1000 Southern Artery."

"I view my retirement as merely shifting gears, from one interest to another as I did when I moved slowly as a church pastor into a housing center administrator."

TWO POLITICAL ERAS CAME together at a recent meeting of the Quincy Lions Club.

BAHARIAN

It was Nov. 8, city election day and the guest speaker was former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin who was invited by the program chairman for the day, present Mayor Francis McCauley.

Burgin, who was first elected mayor in 1935 - 48 years ago - is now 81. He and McCauley who is 54, are good friends.

BURGIN

In introducing Burgin, McCauley noted: "When Tom was elected mayor in 1935, I was only six years old and in the first grade of grammar school. When he was re-elected to his fourth two-year term as mayor in 1940 - unopposed - I was then only 11."

Coincidentally on the day of the meeting, McCauley became only the second mayor in Quincy's history to be re-elected unopposed.

So Burgin welcomed him into membership in what he termed the "smallest and possibly the most exclusive club in the city, having only one member for 43 years - the Unopposed Mayors' Club."

And, he added:

"Frank, I've waited all these years for a co-member and another officer and, for a while at least, we both will be unopposed for re-election as members of that small club or as officers."

INCIDENTALLY, this will make all of you political young oldtimers who remember Burgin as a 33-year-old mayor feel a little bit older.

He recently became a great grandfather with the birth of Katherine Claire Allen, daughter of his oldest grandson, David C. Allen and his wife, Mary.

David, who lives in western New York state is the son of Mayor Burgin's daughter, Claire and her husband, Dr. James C. Allen of Charleston, South Carolina.

RITA KELLEHER, past president Norfolk County District 5 VFW Auxiliary and past president of Quincy's Bryan VFW Post Auxiliary, underwent seven-hour vertebra surgery at Carney Hospital Monday. She's reported in "good condition". Rita was more upset over the fact that she this year can't help the Koch Club Dress-A-Doll project for needy families. She's the kind of gal who's always there for a worthy cause and does the work of a dozen people. She's in Room 232 if you'd like to drop her a card. A speedy, up-and-at-'em recovery, Rita.

RITA

SUSAN PAGE of the Election office is recuperating at home from foot surgery at City Hospital. The cast comes off Dec. 22, just in time for last minute Christmas shopping.

New Law Extends Solar Tax Credits

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis has signed into law legislation extending until December 1985, the tax credits given to homeowners who install renewable energy systems like solar or wind.

The bill was co-sponsored by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell.

"By extending these tax credits, the Legislature is indicating its support for the solar industry at this crucial time in its development," said Brownell, noting that the credits were to expire Dec. 31.

Brownell said passage of the bill will secure 1,200 jobs in the state's solar industry while reducing dependency on foreign oil.

More than 15,000 Massachusetts residents have installed active solar systems and combined they save more than $3.7 million of oil-equivalent fuel each year. Each system saves at least $287 a year.

"Extending the tax credit bill will continue the strong economic incentive for consumers to consider the solar option," said Brownell.

Massachusetts is one of 28 states that offer the tax credit.

Developmentally Disabled Exempt From SAT

Any citizen of Massachusetts who has been diagnosed as developmentally disabled will be exempt from taking the standardized achievement test to gain admittance to state college, notes Senator Paul D. Harold.

Under new legislation, no person having dyslexia or other specific language disabilities will be required to take any standardized college entrance aptitude test to gain admittance to any public institution of higher learning.

Admission to college for developmentally disabled students will now be determined by standards recommended by state college trustees and approved by the state Board of Regents.

If you could drive to the sun at the speed limit (55 miles an hour) you'd get there in about 193 years—if you didn't stop for coffee.

John Glenn's Daughter: 'Dad' One To Beat

By TOM HENSHAW

The daughter of "Bwana Satellite" was in Quincy Tuesday to help lay the groundwork for his bid for the presidency.

Lynn Glenn, whose father, John Glenn, was the first American to orbit the earth on Feb. 20, 1962, described him as a "pragmatic, moderate and compassionate man" who'd make a good president.

But interviewers were more interested in what it was like to grow up as the daughter of a man whose name and face became a household word and picture that day nearly 22 years ago.

"We expected that there would be a parade and we would meet the president and things like that," said Lynn Glenn, then a teenager, now Mrs. Philip Freedman, 36, of Vail, Colo.

"But we never expected that the attention would be as great as it was and that it would never stop. We couldn't go shopping with Dad because of the mobs of people.

JOHN GLENN

"When NASA moved from Florida to Houston, Texas, we drove across the country in a camper, as we usually did, and even in the middle of the desert there was not one place where Dad wasn't recognized.

"Five years after he made the space flight we were doing a film in East Africa and in the Tanzanian bush they didn't recognize his face but they knew his name. 'Bwana Satellite', they called him."

In a way, said Lynn

Glenn, such recognition is a handicap as her father campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I've been working in advance for him for seven months," she said, "and there are few people who don't know what Dad did 22 years ago.

"But there is so much more that he has done since then that people don't know about. I try to fill them in on the rest of Dad's story.

"He was in the military for more than 20 years; he was president of an international corporation, he started four small businesses of his own and he has been a U.S. senator.

"He has a very diverse background compared to the other candidates."

The aging astronauts from the old Mercury program of 20 years ago still get together for a reunion every five or six years, said Miss Glenn, but none of them are actively campaigning for her father.

"Most of them are not political," she said. "Politics is not their interest. They have always remained friends and they have kept in touch but they have gone their own directions."

She has seen the movie, "The Right Stuff," about the early astronauts and she has mixed feelings about it.

"Any candidate would like to have a movie about him come out during the campaign," she said. "But I found the history of the time was not there as I would want it to be.

"I read the book, too, and I realize that no one takes more literary license than Tom Wolfe. Basically, Dad comes off in a positive way but he is so different in real life."

Miss Glenn bridges a bit when former vice president Walter Mondale is described as the man to beat in the race for the presidential nomination.

"Dad is the one to beat," she said. "We can only beat ourselves."

It's a difficult feat with Lynn Glenn on the campaign trail for him.

Commercial Property Landlords Must Disclose Fire Insurance Info

Landlords of commercial property must disclose fire insurance information to their tenants under a new law now in effect, State Senator Paul D. Harold notes.

The new law requires the landlord to provide the names of fire insurance companies insuring the property, the amounts of coverage, and the beneficiary who would receive payment when a claim is made, all within 15 days of a written request by a tenant.

Harold said the new law amends the existing law requiring landlords of residential property to disclose the information to their tenants, by including commercial tenants in the disclosure requirement.

Failure to provide the requested information carries a fine of up to $1,000 for each violation.

Residential landlords of owner-occupied buildings of less than four units remain exempt from the disclosure requirement.

First Squantum Church Welcomes New Members

Four persons joined the First Church of Squantum Sunday morning. Two others, young people, took the step that marks the beginning of their faith journey toward baptism, membership in the church and full Christian discipleship.

The two young people, David Williams and Mindi Hurd, made a covenant of discipleship before those who attended the first service Sunday. By these vows, they declared that they were beginning the process of learning what it means to be a Christian so that they can eventually be baptized. Also renewing their covenants were Susan Scott, Dianne Ahearn and Bonnie Adams.

The first service began with a mini-talk by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, on taking the initiative in life, continued with singing led by Steven Williams, Andrew Ogilvie and Mary Ruth Scott, and included the lighting of the second candle in the Advent wreath. Sandra Ahearn and Kristen Reister assisted the pastor in lighting the candle. Ushers were Ruth Adams and Michele Lenson.

David Williams gave an illustrated talk on the subject of last week's sermon, "Choosing the Right Gift". The scripture lesson was Luke 2:15-20. Pastor Langevin spoke on the subject, "Giving Yourself", a sermon that concluded with small group discussions by members of the congregation.

After the young people had made their vows, the congregation celebrated the Lord's Supper by candlelight. The service concluded with hugs for the two young people by everyone at the Communion Table and singing of a hymn, the benediction and a Christmas "Gloria".

There was a reception after the service for the two young people who had made the covenant. In the evening, there was a special Candlelight Dinner held at the church to honor them.

At the second service at 10:30 a.m., greeters were a mother and daughter, Joan and Katharine Hansen. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Leon MacIntyre.

Genevieve Todd led the opening prayer. Donald Frazer, Fred MacMillan and Janet Sumner read the three readings from Scripture. Dorothy Abbe, as Church Moderator, led the brief church meeting in which the candidates for membership were voted into the church. Krista Olsen assisted the pastor in lighting the second candle in the Advent wreath.

The sermon, "Christmas Trees and Second Comings", was preached by Rev. Charles H. Harper, Associate Conference Minister of the United Church of Christ. Rev. Harper also attended the earlier service.

Those joining the church were Patti Hurd, Sally Stark Johnson, Diane Lindblad and Pat Olsen. They were seated at the Lord's Table with the pastor and the deacons who were serving it, Gretchen Bumpus, Tom Williamson, Katharine Hansen, Stewart Scott and Dana Olsen.

This Sunday, there will be two services at the church: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. The sermon at the first will be "God's Gift to Us". It is the third of four sermons on the theme, "Christmas is About Giving".

The sermon at the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. will be "The Price of Redemption". It is the second of three sermons on the themes of Handel's "Messiah".

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We cannot vouch for the authenticity of this story. We heard it and since there is a lesson to be learned from it, we think it is worth passing along to you.

A carpenter had built many fine houses for a contractor. His workmanship was superb in every one of them. And through the years the contractor prospered. The carpenter became disgruntled. He decided his efforts were unappreciated so he decided to cut corners on the next house and he deliberately did inferior work - but in a manner not seen or noticed. Even the contractor did not notice the difference.

After the house was completed, the carpenter was greatly surprised when told by the contractor, "For your many years of loyal work and fine building, I want you to have this house for yourself. Here are the keys. The house is yours to enjoy."

Obviously, the lesson here deals with the principle - "what is worth doing, is worth doing well". To do otherwise is deception. Deception is dishonesty. Sooner or later, deception and dishonesty are invariably discovered. High standards of honesty develop a conscience that always tells you what to do - with no exceptions.

JUNE 1985

These certificates are issued exclusively by the Granite Co-operative Bank, 440 Hancock St. and 100 Granite St., Quincy, MA. They are engraved and of gift quality. The giving of a certificate is an exceptionally nice way to commemorate a major foreseeable event such as a graduation. Each certificate is guaranteed to have a redemption value of $1,000 at maturity.

The purchase price will vary as market conditions change and with the maturity you choose.

Now would be a good time to purchase a certificate for a graduation in 1986 or perhaps for an event in 1985... or maybe just as an investment for yourself.

Early redemption of a certificate, if allowed by the bank, carries a statutory penalty and other penalties.

Koch Club Dress-A-Doll Program Seeking Assistance

The Koch Club Dress-A-Doll Program is seeking help.

For the past 11 years, used dolls have been washed, dressed, groomed and gift wrapped for presentation to a girl at Christmas.

To contribute dolls or help prepare them, contact Mrs. Simmie Koch at 328-8286, Mrs. Leo Derringer at 4 Edward Cody Lane, South Weymouth or Mrs. Rita Kellcher of 19 Brae Road, North Weymouth.

The Koch Club's 28th annual Christmas Basket Fund Drive is underway. Any members of the Koch Club wishing to donate canned goods or non-perishable foods are requested to leave them with officers of their respective leagues, the executive or district director.

Members may also donate money toward turkeys that are given with each basket. The food baskets are distributed through local charitable organizations and through the Koch Club to needy families. Thomas F. Nestor is chairman.

Deadline for donations is Monday, Dec. 19. Toys or children's clothing in good condition will be accepted and distributed to families and children in need.

The Koch Club has collected and distributed thousands of articles of used clothing during the past several years to needy persons of all ages in the Boston area.

In the past several months, two truckloads of clothing were shipped for distribution to families in the South End of Boston. Mrs. Clara Yeomans and Mrs. Peg Gardocki along with Mrs. Rita Kenney have been instrumental in sorting, separating, folding and packaging the clothing for shipment.

The Koch Club could not undertake its expansive holiday projects without the help of many organizations, groups and individuals and the many anonymous people and families who by their generosity have been instrumental in allowing the Koch Club to reach so many at a special time of year.

Quincy Police Raise Money To Send Cancer Victim To Disney World

The Quincy Police Department recently sponsored a golf tournament and raised $1,500 for the Jennifer Creed Fund, an all-volunteer organization founded in 1973 in memory of a two-year-old Hyde Park girl who died of leukemia.

The aim of the Jennifer Creed Fund is to help families of critically ill children meet the expenses of illness which are not covered by medical insurance. The Fund is administered by the Boston Floating Hospital for Infants and Children, the pediatric component of the New England Medical Center.

As a result of the Quincy police department's efforts in raising the money, a Plymouth family and their son with cancer were able to go to Disney World in October.

The Jennifer Creed Fund also assists other Boston area hospitals, and no reasonable request for assistance has ever been denied.

Christmas Mailing Tips From Postmaster

Boston Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan is offering mailing tips to help ensure that holiday cards and packages arrive on time and in good shape.

In addition to shopping and mailing early, he urges customers to properly and legibly address cards and packages with the name, house number and street—or post office box number—and the city, state and ZIP Code reserved for the last line.

He also reminds them to check the size of their envelopes before mailing Christmas and other holiday cards. Letter size standards require that envelopes be at least 3½ inches high and 5 inches long to be accepted for mailing.

The Postal Service asks customers to put an ounce of extra care into preparing parcel post and other packages for mailing. Parcels will arrive at their intended destination in good shape if mailers follow a few simple suggestions:

Cushion: Make sure contents are well-cushioned and there is no empty space in the box. Use crumpled newspaper around the item—including all sides, top and bottom. Commercially available foam shells or air pocket padding also make good cushioning materials. Padded mailing bags—available at the post office—are a good way to mail small items.

Don't Overwrap: Just use your carton. Brown paper and twine cord are not necessary. Paper can rip, and twine can become entangled in processing equipment. It is also a good idea to put a slip of paper with the recipient's name and address and your return address inside parcels.

Seal Properly: Close your parcel with one of the three recommended types of tape: pressure sensitive, nylon-reinforced kraft paper, or glass-reinforced pressure sensitive.

Avoid Smudges: Use smudge-proof ink for your addressing.

Position Addresses Properly: Put the recipient's address in the lower right portion of the package. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner of only one side of the package. Remove all other labels from the box.

Use Zip Codes: Be sure to include the ZIP Code in both the recipient's and your return address. Remember, wrong Zip Codes can delay the mail.

Time it Right: Mail early in the month and early in the day.

Use the Right Service: Irreplaceable items, such as cash and other valuables should be sent by registered mail.

If You Run Out of Time: Priority Mail affords First-Class handling for packages weighing over 12 ounces and up to 70 pounds.

Santa For Shut-Ins

The Koch Club's 27th annual Santa Claus visit to shut-in children will be Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 17 and 18, between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

This program is for children who are shut-ins year round.

Originally, the service was offered to Quincy residents only. However, calls from parents in Braintree and Weymouth were honored and the South Shore is now included.

Only parents of the shut-in children may make the above request for Santa's visit. Parents may contact Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, 328-8286 and arrange for the time convenient for the parents of the children to be visited. Richard M. Morrissey and Thomas Koch have provided Santa's Helpers for a number of years.

The Koch Club is collecting new and used toys for its 1983 Christmas For Kids Project. Each year, people discard good useable toys that may still be in good condition and provide hours of enjoyment for a boy and girl whose parents cannot afford a gift for Christmas.

In 1971, the Koch Club presented 300 Christmas gifts to children burned out in a pre-Christmas blaze. Since then, over 20,000 items have been collected, cleaned and distributed for other children to find happiness with at Christmas.

An activity of the Christmas Festival Committee, the boxes are constructed for the children to reach and deposit their own mail and will be made available by the deadline for Santa's mail, Thursday, Dec. 22nd.

Adults are cautioned that the Santa mailboxes are for the children's letters to Santa only.

Mailboxes are located at McIntyre Mall, adjacent to Quincy Cooperative Bank, on Hancock St., in front of Baskin Robbins Ice Cream Store, and Colman's Sporting Goods on Hancock St., and also at the Child World Store in the Ross Parking Area.

Richard J. Koch has been chairman of this special event of the committee for the past 15 years.

Nativity Pageant Sunday At First Parish

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee will complete its series of events to commemorate the Christmas season Sunday, Dec. 11, with the Nativity Pageant at Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq.

Each year Quincy presents celebrations in preparation for the feast of Christmas: the parade, poster contests, the arrival of Santa Claus and the lighting of downtown.

The Christmas Nativity Pageant, although the last event, is the most important for it celebrates the true meaning of Christmas, according to the committee.

The public is invited to attend and participate in the singing of Christmas Carols, several readings and the placing of the Christ Child in the Christmas Creche at the Hancock Cemetery across from the church.

Following the program, those in attendance are invited to the church hall for coffee, cocoa and doughnuts to complete the evening's festivities.

The Rev. Keith Munson, church pastor, and Charles Higgins of Sacred Heart Church, and other invited clergy will participate.

The Nativity Scene at Hancock Cemetery has been part of the Quincy Christmas tradition for the past 40 years. It has been located at the Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, Thomas Crane Public Library, McIntyre Mall and its present, most prominent location, Hancock Cemetery.

The scene has been part of the Christmas Festival Program for the past 20 years with carols sung at the Creche for a number of years before the adoption of the Nativity Pageant several years ago.

Richard J. Koch, Sr., is the representative of the Christmas Festival Committee on the program and George White is general chairman of the Festival Committee.

Southeast Xway Bids To Be Opened Dec. 20

Bids for the $64 million reconstruction of the Southeast Expressway from the Mass. Ave. exit in Boston to the junction of Route 128 in Quincy, will be opened Dec. 20, it was announced by Sen. Paul D. Harold.

The contract is the largest ever awarded by the State Department of Public Works, Harold said.

Initial work on the 18 month project will begin in late February or early March when temporary lighting will be installed along the southbound side of the expressway.

Actual construction will begin after the expressway is partially closed March 15.

Harold noted that the proposed contract carries a heavy penalty-and-reward provision to encourage expeditious construction.

Under the provision, the contractor will be penalized $10,000 for every day he is late in completing the job and will receive $10,000 for every day he is early.

Harold said legislators will closely monitor the work to make certain it stays on schedule with every effort to minimize inconvenience.

Conservation Commission Approves Expressway Widening

The Conservation Commission has given the state the green light to go ahead with a plan to widen the Southeast Expressway at the Furnace Brook Rotary in West Quincy.

The construction work is a small part of next spring's plans to reconstruct the Expressway from the Mass. Ave. interchange in Boston to the junction with Route 128.

It is the only section of the highway that requires Conservation Commission approval, said Richard Meade of the Planning Department.

Lt. Donald Jones Receives Achievement Medal

Leader, B Company, 705th Maintenance Battalion, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), Fort Polk, Louisiana.

Lt. Jones was assigned to train 25 per cent of the company for the IG Intel Test. Given only 72 hours notice, he assembled study materials, practice tests and overhead slides from G2 and set up classes.

Former Sun Photographer Publishes Underwater Photography Guide

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Former Quincy Sun photographer Bob Michelson always wanted to be the Jacques Cousteau of the South Shore.

And although Michelson, 26, doesn't have a French accent or a ship named "Calypso," he does share Cousteau's love for the sea and enthusiasm for sharing his knowledge of it.

In his recently published book, "An Introduction to Underwater Photography in New England," Michelson combines his enthusiasm for the sea with his other interests, scuba diving and photography.

A Randolph resident, Michelson wrote, edited published and supplied photos for the 38-page soft cover book which covers topics from I-stops and depth of field to diving technique and approaching marine life.

A professional photographer and certified scuba diver and dive master, Michelson says he wrote the book to show how much fun underwater photography can be.

"There are some very

BOB MICHELSON

pretty things down there," says Michelson. "Any photographer would fall in love with scuba diving."

"It's so pretty, calm and serene. It's the closest to utopia I've ever encountered."

With special waterproof housing, any type camera can be used, says Michelson. And there are also specially designed cameras for underwater photography, he says.

However, Michelson doesn't recommend that anyone go scuba diving without proper training through dive shops or instructors.

He encourages anyone considering learning how to scuba dive.

"The average person can be trained in scuba diving. It's not scary. If you wear the proper wet suit that fits properly, the temperature is comfortable."

"It's fun. It's like flying through the water."

Those who venture into the New England waters will be happy with what they see, says Michelson.

"Diving in New England is fun," says Michelson, who stresses the natural beauty of water in this area.

"There's more to photograph here than in the Caribbean. There's more marine life."

Michelson, who began planning the book five years ago, is happy with the result.

"I'm thrilled with how it came out," says Michelson of the book available in New England dive shops and by writing to him c/o P.O. Box 781, Randolph, Mass. 02368.

"It's a life long dream come true," he says.

Now, if he could only work on that French accent...

S.O.S. Program At QHS, Vo-Tech

The SOS Program (Save Our Students) has been developed through a federal grant to provide intensive review of both basic and business skills for students who have left Quincy High School or Quincy Vocational Technical School prior to June, 1983, or those who might be considering doing so without a high school diploma.

The Program began Sept. 12 at Quincy High School. Its main objective is to prepare those students for graduation to higher education, or future employment on a flexibly scheduled day, with courses geared to each student's needs.

Today, a high school education is essential if students are to compete in the job marketplace and be self-sufficient.

Classes will be held at Quincy High School's Business Education Department, and staffed by a certified business education teacher with several years of experience in business and education, on the high school, as well as the two-year college level.

Students or parents interested in knowing more about this program may call our guidance office, the business education department office, or the principal at 786-8754 for an appointment.

Christopher Kennedy Elected MAS Treasurer

Coronary Risk Factor Evaluation And Exercise Testing At YMCA

What are the effects of physical activity on your heart? Should you participate in active sports? How much exercise should you do? These are questions that can be answered by Coronary Risk Factor Evaluation and exercise testing.

Healthstyle, a division of Brigham / Beth Israel Medical Group, will be performing Exercise Testing after a thorough medical evaluation which includes an electrocardiogram. During the test, the participant pedals a stationary bicycle at different work levels while Healthstyle staff continue to record your electrocardiogram. Pedalling is then stopped and staff will continue to record your electrocardiogram while you rest. The response of your heart to the work of pedalling is then compared with results obtained from thousand of others. Your blood pressure, heart rate, and electrocardiogram measured and recorded during the test provides Healthstyle with the information necessary to determine whether your cardiovascular function is normal or whether you have serious risk of disability from cardiovascular disease in the future.

In addition to the exercise test, Healthstyle will obtain samples of your blood to be analyzed for serum cholesterol, triglycerides, and plasma concentration of glucose. The test does not stop here! As part of the program, they will follow up and make recommendations to you to help decrease your risk of developing serious cardiovascular disease. A second test will also be offered. The test, a Heartscreen Analysis, is similar to the exercise testing mentioned above but excludes the resting EKG, the bicycle test, and recovery EKG.

These programs of exercise testing, risk factor evaluation, and exercise prescription will be carried out at the South Shore YMCA by the doctors and staff of Healthstyle. The testing date is Sunday December 11, at the South Shore YMCA by appointment only. There is a testing fee of $40.00 for the Heartscreen and $105.00 for the Exercise Testing and Coronary Risk Factor Evaluation.

Any person interested must register in advance of the testing date. Contact Bill Johnson at the South Shore YMCA for further information. (479-8500)

Wahlberg Named To Energy Board

Rosemary Wahlberg, director of Quincy Community Action, has been sworn in as a member of the Governor's Energy Advisory Board, which was formed to assist in the formulation of a state energy policy.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who officiated at the swearing in of nine board members, said the state "can only benefit from the input of such a diverse group of public and private viewpoints."

Condon Appointed To National Committee

City Councillor Joanne Condon has been named to the Community and Economic Development Policy Committee of the National League of Cities.

Condon will represent Quincy and Massachusetts as the League attempts to define proposed urban policy for the entire nation.

She will be closely involved with the development of a comprehensive report for President Reagan on the subject of community and economic development of cities.

The work will involve the future of community development block grants, urban development action grants and the role of federal, state and local governments in economic development. "It is very important that local officials become involved in the development and implementation of our federal urban programs," said Condon. "In this fashion we can attempt to ensure that the programs initiated at the federal level will sufficiently address local needs."

Belles, Beaux Club Celebrates 35th Anniversary

The Belles and Beaux Club of the South Shore recently celebrated its 35th anniversary at the Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy.

The group started entertaining in 1948 with a parish show at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, under the direction of Andrew Dirksmeier Sr. The group decided to stay together and since then has performed at every military hospital and many military bases in Greater Boston, including Fort Devens, Fort Banks, Fargo Bldg., Coast Guard Bldg. and Squantum Naval Air Station.

When many hospitals and bases closed the club presented civilian shows for hospitals, the Jimmy Fund, prison and police, churches, senior citizen housing and mainly nursing homes now. There was an impromptu appearance with the Donahue Orchestra aboard the Boston Belle Cruise ship when the club was asked to perform during their outing.

In 35 years, the club has appeared in over 130 places and presented over 1300 performances.

With the death of its founder Mr. Dirksmeier in January at the age of 88, his daughter Trudy, manager and co-director, took over as director.

At the anniversary celebration, Trudy accepted on behalf of the Belles and Beaux Club a National award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars for entertainment over the years.

Detective Bill Maher from the Cambridge Police Department also presented her with an award for work the club has done in helping the department with its Senior Citizen Protection Program.

Awards from Quincy Nursing Home for 1982 and 1983 were displayed.

A memory book contained many congratulatory letters and certificates of award from Veteran hospitals and nursing homes. The letters commended the Belles and Beaux on their shows, the tireless efforts put forth by its members, but especially the love from each person, the personal contact, as they perform with their audiences.

In the past 35 years, there has been a large turnover of talent. Many have gone on to make it their life's work.

Many old and new faces re-appeared for the evenings festivities. Bill Glassman, who was unable to return from London where he is Ballet Master and advisor of the Royal School of Ballet, sent photos and a greeting via his parents.

Club members are drawn from Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Holbrook, Scituate, Rockland, Milton, Abington, Hingham, Brockton, Medford, Dorchester and Mansfield.

Joe Dirksmeier, who alternates as MC with Jim Martel and Joy Wylie, was MC for the evening.

Art Program At Long Island Hospital

ing sessions at the hospital in collaboration with the Recreational Therapist, June Sutfill, in partial fulfillment of the Art Education curriculum offered at the college.

These meetings provide the patients with an opportunity to express their emotions on paper.

Activities include drawing memories, events and people from their childhood, making Christmas cards, free choice drawings, and marbelizing paper.

The isolated geographic location of the hospital seems to exclude patients from the nearby community, says Miss Smyth.

One solution to this problem is the Long Island Arts and Crafts Fair held every fall at Nickerson Post, on Post Island Rd in Squantum, she says.

A number of Long Island Hospital patients are participating in an art program Monday mornings through the fall and winter.

DeCristofaro Optimistic Quincy Opens Season Dec. 13

By TOM SULLIVAN
Rick DeCristofaro, Quincy's new basketball coach, is working his squad hard for the opening non-league game next Tuesday at Walpole and he is pleased with what he has seen.

DeCristofaro, a former Quincy captain, has taken over for Joe Amoroso, who resigned after 10 years to take a position as assistant coach at Boston University.

"We had a fine turnout and there is a lot of interest here," said the new coach. "We have 15 players on the varsity, 17 on the junior varsity and 16 on the freshman squad."

"The boys are working very hard and have a lot of desire. I am pleased with our showing in scrimmages and I am eagerly looking forward to the season."

DeCristofaro has nine seniors and six juniors on the varsity squad but several of the seniors did not play last season. All but one of the juniors played either varsity or jayvee ball last year.

"We have some pretty good height and good speed," said the new coach. "We are in a very strong league but I think we can play with any team."

The seniors are returnees Jim Stasio (6-2) and Denis Downing (6-4), and John McLaughlin (6-4), Paul Marsters (6-1), Shawn Foster (5-11), Pete McCarron (6-2), Mike Flynn (6-5), Joe Shea (6-2) and Mike Bates (6-2).

The juniors are Max Johnson (6-1), Bill Shaughnessy (5-11), Daron Tucker (5-11), Mike Farrand (6-2), Pat Faherty (6-6) and Mike Draichio (5-9).

Faherty and Flynn

should give us a lot of strength on the boards and several players show good scoring potential," said DeCristofaro.

The new coach played at North Adams State College, where he was freshman coach for a year and was North Quincy coach Ed Miller's assistant the last three years after a year as freshman coach and two years as girls' jayvee coach.

Two other former Quincy players are assisting DeCristofaro. Bob Dacey, who played at Eastern Nazarene College, is the junior varsity coach and Mitch Finnegan, who played at Springfield College, is the freshman coach.

Following the season's opener Tuesday at Walpole, Quincy will host Hingham Dec. 20 in another non-league game.

Quincy, North Square Off In Hockey Opener

The Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams will face each other in their season's opener next Wednesday at 6:40 p.m. at the Youth Arena and neither coach is happy about meeting in the opening game.

"I don't like it at all," said veteran Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "A traditional rivalry like this should not see the teams playing in the opening game, but that is the way it is this year due to the rotating schedule of the Suburban League uses. Other traditional rivals are also playing in the opening games."

"Games like this should be played later in the season," said second-year North coach Kevin Jago.

Both teams are playing in the Quincy Youth Arena jamboree Saturday night starting at 6:40.

Quincy will face Milton at 6:40 and Christopher Columbus at 7:10 in games consisting of two 15-minute periods, while North Quincy will meet Milton at 7:40 and Don Bosco at 8:40.

Petracca Breaks Rodgers' YMCA-Caruso Record

Quincy Flyers member Bart Petracca, after three years of trying, finally broke Bill Rodgers' eight-year-old South Shore YMCA-Caruso 5-mile race record.

In 1975, prior to the first of his four Boston Marathon wins, Rodgers set the mark with a 23:06 timing. Last month Petracca, former North Quincy High and Cornell star and currently boys' coach at North Quincy, set the new mark of 23:03.

Petracca, also assistant manager of Running Sports in Weymouth, is pointing to the Olympics in the 10,000 meters and seems headed in the right direction with impressive wins in the Presidents half-marathon, YMCA-Caruso five-mile race, Bucks Tavern 10,000 meters, Morrisette 5.2 mile race, Braintree 10,000 meters and other races.

"The Quincy Flyers appreciate the time he has spent assisting the running club with clinics and coaching tips and wish him well on the road to Los Angeles in 1984," said Don Knight, a spokesman for the Flyers.

Connolly Captains B.U. Team

T.J. (Thomas Joseph) Connolly of Quincy, a three-year starting defenseman, is captain of this winter's Boston University hockey team, which looms as one of the best in the East.

season and was one of our real leaders," Coach Jack Parker said. "Obviously the players felt the same way as he was their clear cut choice for captain."

In his junior year Connolly finished sixth on the team in overall scoring with 22 points (four goals and 18 assists).

In his sophomore year he skated with Jerry August all year to form the Terriers' top defensive pairing. He scored two goals and had 13 assists.

As a freshman he scored one goal and had eight assists.

Connolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Connolly of Wampatuck Road, played in the 1981 National Sports Festival.

Track Club Runners Sparkle

Quincy Track Club runners turned in many outstanding performances in recent championship meets.

At the Junior Olympics at Rhode Island Community College last Sunday the QTC qualified four athletes for the regional competition and had four others waived into the regionals due to their involvement in state school competition the previous day.

In 9-10 girls Amy Janus placed fourth, Brian Barrett held off a late challenge to win the boys' 11-12 race and in 11-12 girls Marta Martinez placed ninth and Karen Cashman 25th (the top 25 in each age group qualified).

Those waived on to the regionals were Finn Kelly in 13-14 boys and Sutee Sirikaajanchai in 11-12 boys, who were in the N.E. prep school championships, and Harry Morash and Patricia Barrett, who represented North Quincy in the Eastern Mass. high school championships.

In the Road Runners Club of America (RRCA) championships at Van Courtland Park in New York City, five QTC runners won medals.

In 5 and under girls' 600-yard run, Millie Martinez placed 16th (the top 25 got medals).

In girls 8-9 Amy Janus took ninth and Regina Murphy 23rd.

In 12-13 boys Brian Barrett, a veteran of national meets, placed 19th and Finn Kelly, another national standout, won the 14-15 boys race with a vicious kick over the final 100 yards to pick off a New York runner who had led the whole way. Kelly's time of 9:06 was a record for the 300-meter Van Courtland Park course.

Kelly was picked the outstanding RRCA runner of 1982 for winning and setting a course record in the 12-13 division last year.

ON ALCOHOLIC SMOKERS

Last year, 137,800 fires were caused by smoking an average of more than 375 a day. The careless use of smoking materials is the number one cause of fire deaths, accounting for 31% of the total and leading all other causes by an enormous margin.

In the majority of fires where smoking is the culprit, alcohol and bedding or upholstery are accomplices. The victim is often not the smoker but someone else, many times an innocent child. One such case occurred in Pennsylvania where an intoxicated mother dropped her ashes on the mattress of her 11-month-old daughter resulting in the baby's death.

A study of fire deaths found that 14 out of 16 persons who died while smoking in bed had been drinking. The risk of fire deaths increases with any increase of alcohol consumption.

If you have suicidal tendencies, marry an alcoholic who likes to smoke in bed.

Miller Counts On Speed Raiders Host Cathedral Dec. 14

The North Quincy basketball team opens its season next Wednesday night at 8 p.m. at home against non-league opponent Cathedral.

And when the Raiders open their Suburban League season Jan. 4 against Waltham, it appears to be another case of David and Goliath.

"We have a very small team," said Coach Eddie Miller. "Every other team in the league has much bigger players than we do and it is going to be awfully hard to compete with them. We have the smallest enrollment in the league and the Suburban League is awfully strong.

"We will rely on our speed as this is one of the quickest teams I've coached. We will use a pressure defense and press all teams. We do have the second leading scorer in the league last year in Chris Bunker and Eel Paul Ryan is one of the finest guards in the league."

Bunker (6-1) and Ryan (5-10), both seniors, are the only returning varsity starters, while the other prospective starters, 6-3 senior Nick Gelsomini, 6-1 senior Steve Higgins and 6-2 junior Ken Runge alternated between the varsity and jayvees last year.

The rest of the varsity players are up from the junior varsity except 5-9 senior Jim Kyrlo, playing for the first time.

The others are senior

Nunzio Carbone (5-8), one of the Raiders' standout soccer players this fall; senior Steve Warren (6-3); junior Jim Martin (5-9); junior Steve Dever (6-3); junior Sal Barresi (6-0) and junior Dave Zurons (5-10).

Following the opener, North Quincy will host Somerville Dec. 23 in another non-league.

QJC At Cape Cod Friday

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, which suffered its first Greater Boston Small College Conference defeat last week, will face Cape Cod Community College Friday night at 7 p.m. at Barnstable, will play Essex Agricultural Tuesday at 7 at Danvers and will host Northern Essex Community College next Thursday at 7 at the Vo Tech gym.

QJC is 3-1 in the conference and 4-3 overall.

Emerson handed QJC its lone conference loss, 83-30, after the Jaguars had taken a 50-38 lead at halftime.

Steve Belcastro had 21 points, Paul Gill 15 points, John Purland 12 points and 10 rebounds and Fran McEachern, who played a fine game at point guard, nine points.

In its previous game QJC had defeated Bunker Hill Community College, 89-82, after leading, 43-40, at the half.

Will Smith led the Jaguars with 28 points, Gill had 27 points and 10 rebounds, Purland 20 points and 10 rebounds, Belcastro eight points and a fine game on defense and Bill Grey six points and a good game on the boards.

Cahill Named QHS Head Wrestling Coach

Tim Cahill, an assistant to Carmen Mariano for the past four years, has been named Quincy's head wrestling coach, replacing Mariano, who stepped down as coach after nine phenomenal seasons.

Mariano was the Presidents' only coach since the sport was renewed in 1975 and his teams compiled an amazing 144-29-1 record and were 129-10-1 since 1976. The Presidents won five Suburban League championships and five South Sectional titles in six years.

"I know I am filling some awfully big shoes, but we have some excellent wrestlers and a lot of boys back from last year and I think we should do all right," said Cahill. "Carmen is still actively involved in the program and I know he will be a big help to me. I learned a lot

TIM CAHILL wrestling for him and assisting him for four years."

Cahill wrestled on Mariano's first team in 1975 and wrestled at Boston University before becoming an assistant coach at Quincy.

Back as assistants are 82-year-old Joe Streadwick, who is in his ninth year as a Quincy assistant and has been actively involved in YMCA wrestling for 55 years, and Rich Schiarizzi, a former North Quincy and UMass wrestler, in his second year as an assistant. Schiarizzi won the New England crown while wrestling at North Quincy.

Joining the coaching staff this season is Tony Akoury, a former Quincy grappler who is now attending UMass-Boston.

Quincy will open its season next Wednesday at Duffee in Fall River at 7 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 17, will open its home season against Plymouth Carver at noon. This is homecoming day. Also on the 17th at 2:30 the Presidents will meet an Alumni team.

WJDA Gets Permission To Extend Hours On Air

Radio Station WJDA has been given permission to extend its broadcast hours from 4:15 p.m. to 6 p.m. with diminished power.

The first day of operation under the new hours was Monday, Dec. 5.

WJDA has been operating under a sunrise to sunset license due to the fact that radio waves have a wider range after sunset and would interfere with other stations on the same frequency.

James D. Asher, president-treasurer of the South Shore Broadcasting Co., said WJDA was granted permission to extend its hours by the FCC at the end of October but it was not until last Friday that the Canadian government also gave permission.

In addition to the FCC, stations within range of the border are also governed by international treaties.

Asher said the new hours "should provide better radio service to the South Shore."

Public Library Topic On Cable Talk

Atty. L. Paul Marini will be the special guest on Cable Talk, the QCTV public affairs program on Ch. 3 Thursday, Dec. 8 at 9 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 11, at 9:30 p.m.

Marini will discuss the background and operation of the Quincy Public Library system. He has been a member of the library Board of Trustees and chairman of the board longer than any public official now holding appointive office.

Marini was first appointed in 1948 to the Board by former Mayor Charles Ross and has been reappointed continuously to that post ever since by each succeeding Mayor. He has also been chairman of the Board every year with one exception.

Marini has also served on the Quincy School Committee.

He discusses the many changes that have taken place over the years in an interview with Cable Talk host John Noonan. He also reviews some of the future plans the library will be implementing.

Warren Watson, library director, is also interviewed.

about the library architecture and plans in a special segment taped at the library. Bob Gohl is the film director assisted by Edna Solander.

STARSCOPE by Clare Annsell

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 8, 1983

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Watch words carefully. For anything you save even in jest—is taken literally. Bonus for hard work is achieved by Wednesday. Weekend party is more stimulating than expected.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Challenge is keyword in career or related matters — the greater the demands, the better you respond. Platonic friendships are accented over romantic relationships.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
One of the most enjoyable weeks of the season and an excellent time to express deepest feelings to those you love. There's just one warning: watch leaning toward extravagance.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Social life brightens and self-image improves noticeably. Understanding in both sides of debates makes you diplomat of the week. Learning to make clean break is most important lesson.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Fractured friendship shows signs of recovery but don't rush the matter unnaturally. Critical relative becomes strong ally. Weekend announcement can catch you off-guard.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Travel and travel planning are accented; but avoid moody companions if you can. Weekend accents bargain-hunting — whether or not you make a purchase. Long-range goal comes into view.

LEO - July 23-August 22
People around you are more cooperative, and a chance to make extra holiday cash is yours for the asking. Loved one becomes considerably less mysterious.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Highly profitable week if you make a point of being observant. But though it's important to read between lines of financial documents, don't look for hidden meanings in love messages.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Self-indulgent streak can play havoc with your diet, but discipline brings to return after the weekend. Exciting job can be yours for the asking, don't hesitate to be outspoken.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
As vixen draws to a close, you make renewed commitment to professional goals. Creative juices are perking, so make personal gifts while there's still time to add special touches.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Friends want to share deep secrets, but don't feel that you have to return the favor. Recent financial setback shows signs of reversal by Tuesday. Shaky relationship is stabilizing.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Taking a firm stand on controversial matter brings results within days. Friend's loyalty is questioned, but check your own motives. Family party offers news of celebration.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
When people speak of you, they use phrases such as late bloomer, eternal student, loyal friend and world traveler. By mid 1984, you may find someone to share your love of foreign places. By year's end, you can be expanding or changing your profession.

BORN THIS WEEK
December 8th, comedian Flip Wilson; 9th, comedian Redd Foxx; 10th, actress Susan Day; 11th, actress Rita Moreno; 12th, singer Dionne Warwick; 13th, actor Dick Van Dyke; 14th, actress Lee Remick.

Sparks Tune-Up Opens In Quincy Point

Sparks Tune-Up, a companion franchise to Maaco Auto Painting and Bodyworks, has opened its first shop in the Boston area at 664 Washington St., Quincy Point.

Owned and operated by Bernard Waggenheim of Sharon, the franchise is the 35th opened in 11 states in the scant two years since the organization was founded.

Sparks Tune-Up was founded by Anthony A. Martino and Daniel L. Rhode, who are also the founders and owners of the highly successful Maaco organization.

"We felt the time was right and the demand vigorous for a fast, one-low-price tune-up organization," said Rhode.

"The motoring public has been thirsting for a quality preventive maintenance service for their cars to keep them in good operable condition, increase gas mileage and extend the life and performance of their vehicles."

The Sparks center is based on a one price, all inclusive electronic tune-up, including all parts and labor, completed within 45 minutes while the car owner waits and watches.

A written warranty is provided good for 6,000 miles or six months, whichever comes first.

Waggenheim, a member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and the National Rifle Association, formerly worked as an auto damage appraiser and an electronic technician.

His wife, Debra, is assisting at the new Sparks center.

Marie Campbell Receives Certificate

Kelly Seeks Cutback On 24-Hour Stores

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly would like to crack down on 24-hour convenience stores in Quincy but fellow councillors expressed some doubt about the legality of his proposed ordinance.

Kelly's proposal, introduced into the Council Monday night, would prevent any new convenience store of less than 5,000 square feet from being open between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Kelly said he was prompted to propose the zoning change by reports that the White Hen Pentry on Sea St. in Merrymount plans to seek permission to remain open 24 hours a day.

"Merrymount is up in arms," he said. "These 24 hour operations in a neighborhood have a disruptive effect on the residential areas."

The ordinance would specify that "the operation of these business establishments between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. has a particularly disruptive effect on the health, safety and general welfare of the city."

Assistant City Solicitor Jay MacRitchie said in his opinion the city can regulate the use of any building that effects the health, safety and welfare of the community.

But Councillor James A. Sheets said he recalled that when the matter came up a few years ago then City Solicitor Robert Fleming had ruled the city did not have the power to regulate convenience stores.

"There may be some legal issues," said Sheets.

"Mr. MacRitchie says it is totally legal," replied Kelly.

The order was sent to the Ordinance Committee for consideration.

Great Hill School Set For Demolition

It appears that the city is going to demolish the abandoned Great Hill School in Houghs Neck after all.

The school was closed two years ago and bid out for demolition but the Houghs Neck Congregational Church stepped in and was given a lease option to take it over as a community center.

The last year of the lease option expired last October, said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, and no move has been made to develop the school building.

"I have asked the Planning Department to go out and get demolition bids," he said. "The school has been badly vandalized and has become a hazard to safety."

Sons Of Italy Lodge Gives $10,000 To City

The City Council Monday night voted to accept the annual $10,000 gift from the Sons of Italy to the city for capital improvements.

The money will go for the purchase of a new vehicle for the auxiliary police.

With any left over going toward the purchase of radios for the auxiliary.

Councillor James A. Sheets said the $10,000 brings to $120,000 the gifts from the Sons of Italy for the past 12 years.

No Vacancy But:

Civil Service Exam For Police Chief Feb. 4

Civil Service will hold an examination Feb. 4 to establish an eligibility list of candidates for police chief of Quincy.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said that Police Chief Francis X. Finn, who underwent quadruple heart bypass surgery last December, has given no indication that he plans to retire.

"We called for the exam just in case," said the Mayor. "It would be another year before we could get a list and we didn't want to wait that long."

"If Chief Finn does not retire then we will not have lost anything by asking for the test."

City Personnel Director Donald Hanson said that by holding the exam in February, 1984, all five captains and eight lieutenants will be eligible to take the test.

"Civil Service law specifies that you need two captains who have been in that grade for a year to limit the test to captains," said Hanson.

Right now, only Capt. Paul Nestor has been in that grade for a year or more.

Four captains who were named last July—David

Rowell, William Murphy, Frederick Laracy and Walter Frazer—are eligible because they were lieutenants for more than a year.

Other lieutenants eligible to take the exam are Robert Salvaggio, Donald Riley, Neil MacDonald, Francis Mullen, John Mulligan, John Flaherty, Walter Lynch and John Morton.

Hanson said the exam has not yet been posted at the police station. After that, he said, the captains and lieutenants will have until Jan. 15 to indicate whether they want to take the test.

'Free' Christmas Parking To End In Quincy Lots

"I hope no one takes that story as gospel," said Robert Denvir, the man who has the sometimes thankless job of collecting money for parking tickets in Quincy.

The story to which Denvir was referring appeared in Tuesday's Patriot Ledger and announced that: "Quincy's gift shoppers: no tickets in parking lots."

"There is no free parking in Quincy," he said. But he conceded that "we are not chasing the parking lots as much as we would at other times of the year."

Denvir said that, starting a couple of weeks ago, the city has been pulling its meter mads out of the Hancock and Ross parking lots earlier in the day than usual.

This, he said, was calculated to snare the all-day parkers, particularly the Boston commuters who park in Quincy and take the MBTA, while easing up on Christmas shoppers in Quincy stores.

"I guess now we'll have to go back to the old hours and tag all day," he said. "The city was quietly trying to give the shoppers a break but I guess there are those who can't keep their mouths shut."

Special License Board Meeting

The License Board will hold a special meeting Thursday, Dec. 29, to consider the following requests from:

- Voreleo Inc., 625 Southern Artery, for storage permits for 250 gallons of gasoline in tanks of motor vehicles, and 1,000 gallons of waste oil, underground.

- Voreleo Inc., 625 Southern Artery, for storage of 40 gallons of gasoline in tanks of 60 motorcycles.

- 200 Newport Ave. Realty Trust, for 7,500 gallons of gasoline in tanks of motor vehicles, above ground, at 200 Newport Ave., Ext., and for 500 gallons of diesel fuel underground.

The board will not hold its regular Tuesday morning meetings Dec. 20 and 27 because of the Christmas and New Year holidays.

McCauley's 'Recommendations' 88,125 Per Cent Classification To Council In Feb.

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he plans to submit his "recommendations" for classification of property in Quincy to the City Council at its first meeting in February.

Indications are that his recommendations will be to tax residential property at about 88 per cent of value and business and commercial property at 125 per cent.

"Both the mayor and I could be comfortable with that," said City Councillor James A. Sheets, who has the votes to be Council president for the 1984 session.

McCauley said last week he had been advised by the State Department of Revenue that it was up to the City Council to initiate classification percentages.

But, said the mayor, City Solicitor Dean Nicastro told him that that is not necessarily so; that the state law leaves room for the mayor to send "recommendations" to the Council.

"The law is confusing on that point," said McCauley. The key phrases in the state statute refer to the "City Council, with the mayor's approval" and "if the mayor vetoes the City Council's percentages."

"The Department of Revenue said that meant the Council should originate the percentages," said McCauley. "That would give the mayor a more passive role than it would be under our city charter."

"But it makes more sense to have the mayor set the direction rather than nine city councillors."

A month ago, when the first impact notices of 100 per cent revaluation were mailed to Quincy property owners, McCauley projected a sample tax rate of $22 for residential property and $32 for commercial.

He emphasized that the figures were estimates only.

But, starting with an overall tax rate of $25 and equating every $1 rise in the commercial rate to a 43-cent decline in the residential rate that comes out to 88 per cent residential and 125 per cent commercial.

Sheets called the mayor's $22 and $32 estimates "a method of giving taxpayers something to measure their taxes under revaluation."

"But," he added, "it was also a trial balloon. There was no major reaction to it. The mayor and I could be comfortable with that. I don't think there will be a lot of controversy between the mayor and the Council."

"The figures that are out there have been somewhat accepted by the general public."

Sheets conceded that the law creating classification is unclear.

"The language is unusual," he said, "but if the intent was to place the initiative in the hands of the Council it would have said so. So I don't think that's the intent of the law."

"The issue of classification is one of the more significant issues to come before the Council in the past decade so I am sure the Council will work closely with the mayor on it."

"I hope," said McCauley, "that we can get the classification process underway early in February. Hopefully, Municipal Appraisal Services will be finished its readjustments by then and the state will have certified the new values."

"We can't really act until the state has set a minimum residential factor."

"We plan to give information to the City Council as we go along so that they will have time to look it over and get a good idea of what the law says."

Meanwhile, an extended deadline for filing appeals from the new valuations passed last Friday and Dennis Flis, supervisor for Municipal Appraisals Services, said some 3,350 filed appeals.

Flis said his group will be hearing residential appeals until tomorrow (Friday) and commercial appeals until Friday, Dec. 23. Field reviews of protested revaluations will start Monday, Dec. 19.

Board To Hold Pollard Hearing Thursday

Opponents of the sale of the Pollard School will have another chance to tell the city how they feel today (Thursday) at 3 p.m. when the Planning Board holds a hearing on the matter.

The City Council's Land Conveyance heard a determined delegation of Quincy Point residents declare their opposition at a hearing last Thursday night.

Mayor Francis X.

McCauley and the Planning Department have proposed that the abandoned school on Southern Artery be sold for $152,650 for development into some 30 apartment units.

Those opposed to the sale have claimed that the city did not give them an opportunity to develop and present an alternative plan to convert the building into a community center.

The residents brought documents to back up their claim that the city purchased the school in 1926 for $175,000 some $23,000 more than is being offered now by developer Anthony Losordo.

McCauley said the Quincy Point residents were given every opportunity to present their plan but missed the deadline for submission.

Proposals to sell two other closed schools, the Willard in West Quincy and the Mass Fields in Wollaston, were heard Thursday without opposition.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a tag day permit to the North Quincy High School Wrestling Boosters for Dec. 16 and 17, with no soliciting at intersections.

- Agreed to hold in abeyance a request from Dacey Bros. Dairy, Inc., 213 Samoset Ave., for a common victualer license.

Ward Councillor Leo Kelly asked that the matter be continued until the issue of the White Hen Pantry, 200 Sea St., is resolved.

White Hen Pantry requested common victualer-take out only and Lord's Day licenses and was told by the board to talk to area residents about the request.

Kelly said White Hen is talking about staying open 24 hours. He recently submitted a proposal for an ordinance preventing new convenience stores of less than 5,000 sq. ft. from being open between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

- Granted a request from Kamal N. and George N. Chahine for transfer of the common victualer license for Mae Fare Coffee Shop, 552 South St.

Hours will be 5 a.m. to 4 or 5 p.m., according to the applicants.

- Continued to the first meeting in May, 1984, a hearing on extension of the Motor I (new car) license for Tom O'Brien Datsun, Inc., 479 Washington St.

O'Brien said he will install landscaping in the spring.

- Granted, pending satisfactory testing of storage tanks, a request from Thomas Carleton for transfer of licenses held by Park's Auto Repair Service, 555 Southern Artery. The licenses are for 9,000 gallons of gasoline underground, a repair shop and two car lube.

- Continued to the first meeting in January a request from Marine and Generator Service, Inc., 12 Denmore St., for a Motor II (used car) license. Applicant Thomas J. Whipple is to submit a plan for parking cars.

Restraining Order Sought On Donut Shop Extension

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A temporary restraining order was to be filed yesterday (Wednesday) in Norfolk Superior Court on behalf of a West Quincy resident seeking to halt construction of an extension at Donut King.

Atty. David M. Rogers said Robert Campbell of Common St. was seeking to prevent further construction of the controversial extension at the 151 Copeland St. shop.

Rogers said he wasn't sure how much of the extension had already been built. Basis for the action was Campbell's contention that the building permit was issued without approval of the License Board, Rogers said.

The matter was debated, sometimes hotly, at Tuesday's License Board meeting by board members, West Quincy residents and Ward Councillor, James A. Sheets.

In June, Donut King owner Joseph L. Melchione had withdrawn without prejudice a request for a two-story addition for storage and office space because of complaints by West Quincy residents and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald's concern that parking spaces would be lost. A request for a 7 1/2 ft. by 25 ft. addition was also withdrawn without prejudice in September because of neighborhood opposition.

However, construction of an addition began after a building permit issued by the Building Dept. in March was amended in November for a 10 ft. by 25 ft. extension.

MacDonald said Tuesday if an addition doesn't increase capacity or violate laws, he issues building permits after discussing it with board chairman John Gillis.

Because of angulation of parking spaces, the same number of cars could be parked in the lot with the addition, MacDonald said.

"At the time I didn't think it was hurting anything," MacDonald said. "If I made a mistake, I made a mistake."

MacDonald also said he thought the addition was only for storage. The amended application listed storage and office use.

In a Nov. 17 letter in response to an inquiry by Councillor 2 Sheets, City Solicitor Dean Nicastro said that Donut King must obtain License Board approval for such an addition.

"If I had known that," said MacDonald, "I wouldn't have issued the permit."

Campbell told the board the matter was a "sham" and said the implications would affect the whole city with regard to additions to establishments with common victualer licenses.

"You knew the people were upset about the addition," said Sheets, "yet you allowed the addition."

Sheets also noted that differences between the West Quincy neighbors and Donut King were irreconcilable.

"I don't think we have the authority to tear down the addition," said Police Chief Francis Finn. "I don't know what to do."

MacDonald suggested Campbell get a restraining order and "let the court decide."

The board approved a motion to adopt the position of the city solicitor in matters regarding common victualer licenses as of that meeting.

Police Officer Critical Of Some Help Agencies

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Many agencies and services for the physically or mentally disadvantaged, both publically and privately sponsored, fall significantly short in practice from fulfilling the goals of assistance to the individuals needing their help which these organizations so amply publicize their willingness to deliver.

On several recent occasions, I have tried to assist people in desperate need of help from service agencies, in my capacity as a Quincy police officer. I have encountered a number of instances in which hot-lines are left off the hook during early morning hours, and I have learned that on-call social workers need the most articulate and repeated coaxing, right onto verbal arm-twisting, to be prevailed upon to discharge their duties to individuals in need.

Several nights ago I tried to gain assistance for a desperately ill girl whose attempt at self-destruction was very nearly successful. Several suicide prevention hot-lines rang busy over a long time span, and the phone company operator confirmed that the lines were not in actual use but that the receivers were off the hook. Help for this sick young lady was only obtained from South Shore Mental Health social worker on call after an extended imploring, and then the assistance was tendered most reluctantly.

As a police officer I am proud to be a member of the first line of help to the physically and mentally disadvantaged. However, I feel totally frustrated in my efforts when the back-up response by agencies and services whose publicity trumpets the ready availability of assistance is either lacking entirely or is only given with a substantial time delay and then with much footdragging. The scantiness of support from these agencies as actually found in the real world is a far cry from the abundance their public statements promise.

Editor's Note - Dr. Harry Shulman, director of the South Shore Mental Health Center, said he would have no comment on the incident reported by Officer Lamb.

"I would have to know more about the situation," he said. "If the policeman would give me a call directly we could sit down and discuss it. We are not perfect in every instance."

Dr. Shulman said his center has 24-hour a day, seven-day a week emergency service for children and adults that operates after regular hours on an on-call system.

The center also maintains a two-bed "respite house" for adolescents and children in psychiatric distress.

"It's a very successful, good quality emergency service," said Dr. Shulman.

Federal Aid Outlook Not Good

Quincy Planning Director James Lydon is skeptical about the future of federal aid to the nation's older cities like Quincy.

He got that impression at the recent five-day annual meeting of the National League of Cities in New Orleans.

"Here was a meeting of 7,000 municipal officials from all over the country," he says, "and not one presidential candidate except Jesse Jackson showed up. Last year President Reagan was there."

Lydon attended the meeting with City Council President John Lydon, Jr., his cousin, and Councillor Joanne Condon.

Emergency Food Center Seeking Donations

The Quincy Emergency Food Center, which opened almost a year ago as an alternative way of bringing food to the hungry in this community, is seeking donations of food and money.

Organizations and businesses of any size can participate in this effort by donating salvageable food, by sponsoring a food drive, or by contributing money toward transportation and operating expenses.

The Tax Reform Act (PL94-445) allows eligible corporations to donate edible but non-saleable food to private, non-profit organizations that feed the needy and deduct cost plus 50% of anticipated profit.

In Massachusetts, the Good Samaritan law protects donors from civil liability with regard to food donated to emergency food providers.

To offer assistance, or for more information, call Mary Brelsford, Director of the South West Center at 471-0796 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Patients To Get Itemized Bills

Every patient or resident of a health care facility now has the right to receive, upon request, an itemized bill for all services, notes Sen. Paul D. Harold.

Under new legislation, all patients or residents of nursing homes, hospitals, and all other institutions administering health care, are entitled to receive an itemized statement of the care received by the patient. The patient may also have a copy of that bill sent to the attending physician.

Harold noted that the new law clarifies existing law which did not provide for itemized bills or copies to the doctor.

Express Mail Service To Israel Resumes

The United States Postal Service announces it has resumed Express Mail Service to Israel.

Express Mail to Israel was suspended in late October because of a labor dispute. The United States Postal Service has been advised by Israel that the labor issue has been resolved, and they are prepared to accept Express Mail items originating in the United States.

Customers can Express Mail items weighing up to 33 pounds to Israel and get a 3rd day delivery by using this service.

Walter and his wife, Jenny, spent many years in Italy during and after World War II so three or four years ago they decided to take a trip to revisit some of their old haunts in Rome.

Walter slept on the plane and Jenny watched a movie so she was ready for a nap when they arrived at their hotel. Walter went for a walk alone. The old AP office by the Spanish Steps was long gone but his favorite restaurant was still open for business.

He went in and ordered a rice ball and a glass of wine and he was paying his check when the proprietor looked at him and observed casually, "I haven't seen you around lately."

"Of course, he hadn't seen me around," said Walter. "I hadn't been in the restaurant for 32 years. And he remembered me."

Sheets Would Have Handled General Dynamics Differently

By TOM HENSHAW
Had he been mayor at the time, said City Councillor James A. Sheets, he would have approached the settlement of the General Dynamics tax case differently from Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

"I think we tried to do it too much in house with too few people and with not enough real muscle behind us," he told interviewers on the Quincy Cable-systems program "News-makers."

Sheets said he would have put together a task force that would have included former Mayors James McIntyre, Walter Hannon, Joseph LaRaia and Arthur Tobin, Cong. Brian Donnelly and state officials to look into alternatives.

"I think by doing that we could have presented to General Dynamics a much stronger posture for negotiating," he said.

"It's very, very important that when you begin to negotiate with a giant like General Dynamics that you appear to be a giant, too. It was very important initially that we put together as many influential people as we could.

"That was not done. I think as a result we did not get as good an agreement as I would have hoped.

"Of course, there's no way that can be proven either way but I do believe that when you have a major problem like the $28 million debt to General Dynamics you must bring in all the help you can get."

Sheets said he is concerned that the city's sanitary landfill in West Quincy has only five years of life remaining and "at the present time I know of no conceptual plan for the future."

"If we do not have a plan in hand for dealing with our rubbish we are going to have to pay to truck it to areas as far away as Lakeville. That's going to cost an additional $2 to $3 million," he said.

"I'm not optimistic that we're going to meet the crisis deadline. I think we're going to wait until maybe two years before the limit has been met and then take action and we'll be about three years behind."

He said he has been watching very closely Braintree's plans for reactivating its incinerator and the possibility that Quincy could help operate it and share some of the cost and burn its rubbish there.

Sheets said he is in favor of draining Swingle's Quarry in West Quincy to recover the body of downing victim Paul Gooch but he suggested that the city go slow in formulating plans for filling it in.

"There are enormous problems involved in filling a quarry the size of Swingle's that goes down some 400 plus feet," he said.

"We filled Badger's Quarry about five years ago at a cost of about $100,000. We had at least eight public meetings and it was very difficult to come up with an agreement on how it should be filled.

"If you put demolition material in there you bring vermin along with it. That creates a problem for those who live adjacent to the quarries.

"I would have to be guaranteed by the mayor's office that the people of West Quincy would be adequately protected. Historically, this has not been the case."

In other matters, Sheets said:

"My top priority for Ward 4 is to find a method of dealing with flooding and sewer surcharge. It is a threat to public health. The problem with finding a solution is that you're talking in the 10s of millions of dollars."

His position on property classification "is to seek a realistic balance between the needs of the homeowners and the needs of business. There is going to be some type of classification. Exactly what that figure is remains to be seen."

As the councillor with enough votes (five) to become the next council president, he has "not made a firm decision on committee assignments. I think it's too early to do that."

Instead of creating new committees as council president he would "activate many of the committees that are in existence but never meet because there are no problems brought to them."

"One area that I'm very, very concerned about is the Police Department and particularly the condition of the police station. It is deplorable. I don't see how they can operate efficiently out of that building."

Sheets was interviewed on the program by John Noonan of The Quincy Sun, Herb Fontaine of WJDA and Ray McEachern of the Patriot Ledger.

O'Connell Points Out Gains From Parking Lot

William A. O'Connell, executive vice president of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, told a City Council hearing that the city stands to gain about $290,000 annually in new taxes by the building of a 1,000-car parking lot, the so-called West of Tracks project.

But John W. Kapples of the Lincoln Stores drew a round of applause when he told the hearing, "I am opposed to municipalities buying all parking space. Anybody in the retail business will tell you that Quincy is overstored."

"I don't think that is anything to cheer about," noted Councillor Edna B. Austin, "that business is moving out of Quincy."

NO TAX CUT

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa said there is not much chance of cutting the tax rate from last year's $74 per thousand. "I didn't try to kid anybody before the election and I'm certainly not going to start now," he said.

The greatest single factor in the increase of taxes in Quincy in the past 15 years, he said, was the increase in the city payroll — up from $2.9 million in 1944 to $13 million in 1959.

Tax equalization, he added, could make a substantial reduction in the tax rate and encourage new business to come to Quincy, where "we have all the advantages except a low tax rate."

STATE FUNDS FOR COLLEGE

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard said the city plans to file an application to have Quincy Junior College selected as one of the three state-sponsored community colleges that have been proposed for opening in September, 1961.

What to do if your phone rolls over and plays dead.

With the Bell System breaking up on January 1, a lot of people have become concerned about how they'll get telephone repair service.

Not to worry, New England Telephone will still be your local phone company. And we'll still maintain and repair phone lines. Just as we always have.

However, New England Telephone will no longer provide home telephone equipment. So we can no longer repair telephones.

Therefore telephone repair service is now being divided into two parts: phones and phone lines.

Understanding the new policy will save you time and money. And give you the service you need when you need it.

How to get your phones fixed.

Just think of your phones the way you think of any other appliance. The company that sells you the appliance generally provides repair service.

So, if you buy phones—whether from AT&T or any of the many companies that now sell phones—check into their repair policies. And make sure you get a good service warranty.

If you bought your phone from New England Telephone, it will be serviced by AT&T after January 1.

If you decide to lease your phones, simply keep the ones we've provided. After January 1, you'll automatically be leasing from AT&T. And they'll maintain them.

The new number to call for phone repair is 1 800 555-8111.

What if the problem is in the line?

After the break-up, New England Telephone will continue to maintain and repair phone lines so you'll continue to get the good service you've always been able to count on.

If your problem is not with your phone, but with your phone line, call us. We'll come out and fix it right away. Free. As we always have.

The number to call for line repair is 1 555-1611.

How can you tell whether it's the phone or the line?

If you're not sure whether the problem is in the phone or in the line, here are some suggestions. The problem is probably in the phone if the phone is obviously damaged.

Or if you have more than one phone and only one is not working, chances are the problem's in the phone.

But if none of your phones work, the problem is probably in the line.

You can test your phone by unplugging it and trying it at a neighbor's house. Or, if your phone's from AT&T, you can test it at an AT&T PhoneCenter.

It's important to determine whether it's the phone or the line that needs repair. Because, after January 1, if New England Telephone sends a repair person out to fix the line and it turns out the phone is broken, we can't fix it. And we have to change you for a service call.

It's not as easy as it was.

Nor as difficult as you feared.

After the break-up, New England Telephone will maintain and repair phone lines. Whoever provides your phones will be responsible for their repair.

It's that simple.

But if you have any specific questions about the kind of repairs you need or who should provide them, call us at 1 555-1611.

If you have general questions about the changes outlined here, call our toll-free "Let's Talk" number. It's 1 800 555-5000. Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Or watch for more detailed information with your bill.

Keeping you informed about all the changes that are taking place is part of our commitment to giving you the best phone service we possibly can.

The Bell System is breaking up, but New England Telephone's got it all together.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Are courtesy and consideration for others dead? One might think so if auto drivers' manners in public parking lots are any indication... A visit to a shopping center lot reveals many troubling offenses. One sees drivers speeding in clearly posted zones. One sees drivers ignoring pedestrians; showing indifference to no parking zones; parking without consideration for the car in the next parking space; opening car doors and banging the next car; letting a shopping cart scratch and bang another car...

These offenses can be seen many times daily. These motorists that blithely ignore the rules, courtesy and consideration for the property of others are the same motorists that ply the public highways and streets where ignorance of consideration and courtesy can mean DEATH.

And, too, - the inconsiderate damage done to others is reflected in our pocketbooks... What can we do about it? We can prove that courtesy and consideration are not dead by OBEYING THE RULES. Isn't it worth a try?

Sermon On Handel At Squantum Church

The life of George Frederic Handel, particularly his composition of the oratorio "Messiah", illustrated a sermon entitled "The Price of Redemption" at the second service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday. It was the second in a series on the themes of Handel's "Messiah". Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin was preacher.

The Chancel Choir sang "Behold the Lamb of God" as the offertory anthem. Later in the service, the congregation heard "All We Like Sheep." Both pieces are from Handel's oratorio.

Greeters for the service were Don and Barbara Frazer. Ushers were Harry Holmes and Tore Wallin.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Chris Young and Carolyn Chisholm.

At the earlier service at 8:30 a.m., Dr. Langevin spoke on the subject, "God's Gift to Us." Kristy Shafon and Michael Stamos assisted the pastor in lighting the third candle in the Advent wreath. Ushers were Amanda Young and Lori Ogilvie.

This Sunday, there will be only one service for all at the First Church of Squantum at 10:30 a.m. The Sanctuary will be decorated with poinsettias, evergreen boughs and candles. Three Choirs will take part.

The sermon by Dr. Langevin will be "The Power of Redemption." It is the third of the series of sermons on the themes of Handel's "Messiah."

Before the service, young people of the church are sponsoring the annual Christmas Breakfast at 9:15 a.m. to help raise money for camperships at Christian camps next summer.

The Menu includes orange juice, French toast, sausage, hash, brown potatoes, a muffin and a beverage. For reservations, call the church office at 328-6649.

After the service, children and adults will gather in Fellowship Hall for the Baby Jesus Birthday Party at which cake and other refreshments will be served. Those attending the party will each be placing a pair of new mittens on the Mitten Tree. All of the mittens contributed will be taken by several young people of the church to a church in Roxbury for poor children.

The public is invited. On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, there will be two Christmas Eve Candlelight services at the church: the Family service at 7 p.m. at which the Junior Choir will sing, and the traditional service at 11 p.m. at which both the Chancel Choir and the Youth Choir will sing.

Luminars (outdoor Christmas candles) will be set out along the front walks of the church after each service.

On Christmas Day, the regular Sunday service will be held at 7 p.m. No morning service is scheduled.

The following week, on New Year's Day, the service will be held at 10:30 a.m.

Nativity Program Held At First Parish Church

The program included readings by Robert Throne of First Parish Church from Isaiah 9:1-6 and by the Rev. Charles Higgins, associate

The Sacred Heart Youth Choir sang the selections "The King of Glory", "Children Run Joyfully", and "What Child Is This?" while all joined in the carols "O Come All Ye Faithful", and "Joy to the World".

The statue of the Christ child was carried across Hancock St. following the program and placed in the Christmas Creche in the Hancock Cemetery.

Refreshments were served in the church hall by George White and members of the Christmas Festival Committee. The Rev. Keith Munson, pastor of the First Parish Church, greeted participants.

Walsh's Restaurant Celebrates THE OLDEST EATING & DRINKING IS STILL FAMILY OWNED & OPERATED

Customers of 50 years ago at Walsh's Restaurant, or Norfolk Cafe as it was called from 1933-38, would recognize the restaurant today at its original site on Billings Road in North Quincy.

Not much has changed in the family-owned restaurant. It's still supported by the local business community during lunch and offers a cozy family atmosphere at dinner time.

It's the oldest restaurant in town. It has remained in its original location and still caters to the same type of customers.

"We never became a nightclub . . . we never changed to fast food. We've always been an independent family business," said Andrew T. Walsh, president of the restaurant.

MICHAEL WALSH, founder of Walsh's Restaurant.

A Restaurant With a History

December of 1933 was not an easy time for Michael Walsh, Andy's father, to open up a restaurant and pub. But it was that month that Norfolk Cafe and Norfolk Tap began under Walsh family management.

Norfolk Tap could only serve beer and wine until it was granted an "all liquor" license in February, 1934. Prohibition had ended in 1933 and prior to that Quincy was completely dry for 50 years. Opening a tavern in that day was not an everyday occurrence.

But Walsh's survived through this period, "when eating out was something that a traveling salesman did," said Andy. And it survived another battle through the Depression.

"We survived the Depression mainly because my father was also the advertising man for Hire's Root Beer. He used part of the restaurant building for a sign-painting shop."

CORRECTION: V. CT. ALDER Paid $200.

I hereby apply for a license to sell wines, and beer at restaurant - to be drunk on premises.

NAME Michael J. Walsh & John E. Murphy

BUSINESS ADDRESS 7 Bellings Rd. Norfolk Downs

HOME ADDRESS 18 Highland Ave Quincy 46 Glouce Ave Quincy

DESCRIPTION OF PREMISES One story brick bldg. 18 x 35 formerly a restaurant

OWNER OF BUILDING Michael J. Walsh

CITIZEN? Yes VOTER? Yes

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN CONVICTED OF A VIOLATION OF LIQUOR LAWS? No

HAVE YOU PREVIOUSLY HELD A LICENSE IN QUINCY? No

WHAT KIND OF A BUSINESS DO YOU CARRY ON? Unemployed

I warrant the truth of the foregoing statements under the penalty of perjury.

W. J. Walsh
Dec 24/83

A true and correct copy of the original license is hereby certified to be true and correct.

THE ORIGINAL LICENSE lists Michael Walsh as unemployed. "If you ever knew my father you'd think that was funny," said Andy. City Clerk John Gillis said he probably wrote "unemployed" because persons without jobs had a better chance to obtain a license for a new business.

It wasn't until 1941, the start World War II, when Walsh's became a flourishing business. Industry in the area at the time included Boston Gear, Pneumatic Scale, Tubular Rivet, and Bethlehem Steel at Fore River Shipyard.

Hidden away on a side street off Hancock Street, Walsh's remains a popular eating and drinking establishment for workers and families.

WALSH'S RESTAURANT as it looked in the 1930s.

tes 50 Years In North Quincy

NG ESTABLISHMENT IN TOWN

RATED BY THE WALSH FAMILY

"We're totally out of sight from the main street," said Andy, "but we have a flourishing business."

At one time the location of Walsh's received a lot of exposure. The Old Colony branch of the New Haven Railroad would roll into the stop called Norfolk Downs next to the restaurant.

Andy remembers that during this time, up to 1954, the men would stop at Walsh's for a drink after work. Around four o'clock they would start gathering at the bar.

ALTHOUGH the interior looks different than it does in this old photograph, the restaurant remains in the same structure as when it first opened.

It was a social event for women and children to board the train for day-long shopping trips to Boston. The location gave the restaurant exposure to working people and families — customers they still cater to in this day.

Andy attributes the success of the restaurant throughout the years to "a devotion to certain principles my father laid down years ago to satisfy your customers and to get involved in the community.

"I expect my children will do the same. I think it's that type of thing that keeps you an entity and not the gimmicks," said Andy. "You can see it already in my children . . . they are all interested in long-term investment, not the fast buck."

NORFOLK TAP looks much the same today, except that beer is more than 35 cents a pitcher.

WALSH'S RESTAURANT as it looks today.

A Family Business

Michael Walsh, who passed away in 1972, had the support of his family at the restaurant. His wife, Catherine, still gives support and encouragement to her son and grandchildren who work at the restaurant. Andy's two sisters and a brother, who now works with a food service business in Washington, D.C., worked in the family business at one time.

It was a family business then and it is a family business now. Andy's wife, Patricia (Halligan), has given a lot of support, as have each of their eight children. Three of their children are still very much involved in the restaurant.

Andrew, Jr. runs Walsh's of Marshfield, which opened earlier this year; Margaret, a recent graduate of Emmanuel College, is controller and function manager at Walsh's in Quincy; and Peter, the youngest son, is chef at the Quincy restaurant.

Kathy is an executive with Warner-Travenol in Chicago and an MBA graduate of Babson College; John is a student at UMass/Boston; Mary Slodden, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, lives in Palmdale, Calif.; Moira is a senior at Emmanuel College; and Patricia attends Mt. Holyoke College.

"They have all made their own decisions on whether they want to stay with the restaurant," said Andy, who returned to the business after receiving a Master's in Philosophy from Fordham University in New York, serving as an Army officer in the Korean War and later as a special agent with the FBI.

ANDY WALSH, president of Walsh's Restaurant, is very active in the community. As past president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, Andy practices his violin at a weekly meeting of the orchestra.

Andy has continued in the tradition of his father to remain active in the community.

Andy has served on the board of directors of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce of which he is a member, is past president of the Quincy Rotary Club and is active in the Quincy Symphony Orchestra where he served as president. He is past president of the North Quincy Local Development Corp. and is a member of the Former Special Agents of the FBI and also a member of the National Restaurant Association.

A FAMILY BUSINESS — A few of the family members who are currently involved in the business are: Margaret, controller and function manager; Mrs. Catherine Walsh, who lends her support to her son and grandchildren at the restaurant; Andrew Walsh, president; and Peter Walsh, chef at the Quincy restaurant.

Original Structure and Location

The restaurant remains at its original site, although the building has been expanded throughout the years to accommodate the increased number of customers. It now has a total seating capacity of 300, including function rooms on two levels.

The building is now at the limit of its physical boundaries. Originally a restaurant of 18 by 37 feet, it is now comprised of 5,500 sq. ft. on the first floor. But the building structure remains the same as when it opened its doors in 1933.

The restaurant now employs 45 people, including full- and part-time help.

WALSH'S OF MARSHFIELD opened earlier this year. Daily operations of the restaurant are handled by Andrew Walsh, Jr., one of the Walsh children who remains in the family business.

Another 50 Years

As for the future of the restaurant, Andy is optimistic.

"There will always be a place for the independent restaurant. It has roots in the community. It is not only a place to frequent for good food, but a place to socialize as well. Walsh's has a history and serves as a landmark for those who have grown up in the area. Hardly a week goes by without someone stopping me in the restaurant to identify themselves and relate some story about a wedding, anniversary, or birthday party they attended here years ago. When I hear such things I take great pride in continuing the tradition my parents started here fifty years ago and my children will continue for another fifty."

Reservations are now being accepted for a New Year's Eve celebration at Walsh's Restaurant complete with dinner, dancing, and champagne. Celebrate the 50th anniversary of Walsh's and toast to their next 50 years.

From Fire Dept.

Christmas Safety Do's And Don'ts

The Quincy Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau has issued a list of safety rules and precautions that should be taken to avoid holiday accidents. They are:

Christmas Trees

Buy a tree that hasn't dried out from prolonged storage.

Cut end of tree one inch up from original cut.

Stand the cut end of the tree trunk in water until taken indoors.

Place the tree securely in a stand that has a water receptacle for the cut end of the tree trunk.

Keep the water receptacle filled by checking at least once a day.

Use a stand that will support the tree properly.

Place the tree away from fireplaces, radiators and stoves.

Place tree where it will not block a door or exit.

When needles become dry and start to shed dismantle and discard immediately.

Lighting

Do not use candles on or near a Christmas tree.

Use only electric lighting sets that are approved and bear the U.L. label.

Before using electric set check for frayed wires, loose connections, and broken sockets.

Use only 15 ampere fuses on electrical circuits for lighting sets.

Extensive holiday wiring is dangerous unless done by a qualified electrician.

Avoid plugging too many cords into one outlet.

Turn off all tree lighting before retiring or leaving the house.

Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights off and on.

Decorations and Wrappings

Dispose of Christmas wrappings immediately after gifts are opened.

Decorate the home with non-combustible material whenever possible.

If combustible material is used make sure it is flame-retarded.

Santa Claus whiskers and clothing, cotton batting, and certain papers ignite easily and burn intensely.

Use only if flame-retarded.

Do not use the fireplace or stove to burn Christmas wrappings or decorations.

Toys

Avoid buying toys operated by flammable liquids such as alcohol, kerosene, gasoline. They are extremely dangerous.

Buy electric toys that are approved by the Underwriters Laboratories.

Electric trains and other electric toys are not to be used under or close to a natural Christmas tree, an upset may cause an electrical spark that may result in a fire.

General Suggestions

Avoid smoking near the Christmas tree, or amidst decorations.

Use a substantial fire-place screen to guard against flying sparks.

Keep matches, lighters, and burning candles beyond the reach of children.

Plan on what to do if a fire breaks out.

Plan an escape route and an alternate escape route.

Have a fire extinguisher within easy reach of the Christmas tree.

In case of fire, immediately call the Fire Department.

The city of Quincy has an ordinance on the installation of smoke detectors in all residential property, make sure you have smoke detectors in the locations required under the State Building Code. If you have any questions on these locations call the Fire Prevention Bureau of The Quincy Fire Dept. Remember it is against the law if you don't have them.

And last but not least, the use of un-vented kerosene space heaters in any places used for human habitation is against the law.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

BEWARE OF MATTRESS SMOLDERING

The situation is more commonplace than it should be. A smoker is awakened in the morning by his alarm and discovers a smoldering hole in his mattress caused by a burning cigarette. He pours some water into the black hole, assumes it is out and goes to work. Upon his return, he finds his home is in ashes.

In upholstery and mattresses, smoldering usually occurs deep within cushions or padding and can branch out in several directions. For this reason, it may go undetected if left alone, smoldering can continue for hours. Eventually as heat builds up, the smoldering material will burst into flames.

Pouring water on smoldering bedding or upholstery is like treating the symptoms without curing the disease. You can't be sure that enough water will penetrate deep enough or far enough. To be sure smoldering is completely extinguished, call the fire department. They know what to do and will not think you overly cautious.

Problem Turnabout For Sylvia

Quincy's Hockey Concern Shifts To Offense

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last year Quincy hockey coach Bob Sylvia's main concern was defense. He felt the Presidents would score plenty of goals but was worried about holding down the opposition.

This fear was borne out as the team was engaged in several high scoring games until Sylvia shifted Rich Monahan from forward to goalie. The Presidents barely missed the state tournament with a 10-5-1 record.

This season the veteran coach's big worry is offense as he starts his 18th season at the helm.

"I feel we will be in good shape defensively with two fine goalies and some excellent defensemen, but the big question is how many times will we be able to put the puck in the net," he said.

The Presidents opened their season last night (Wednesday) against cross-town rival North Quincy. They will play at Brockton (Asiaf Rink) Saturday at 4 p.m. and next Wednesday will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Seniors Brett Loud and Greg Keefe make up the No. 1 defense pair, juniors Mark Abboud and John Kelley make up another duo and seniors John Di Pietro and Rick Kelly are the No. 3 pair.

"Loud and Keefe are solid defensemen, Abboud has looked very good and John Kelly has been a most pleasant surprise," Sylvia said. "The defense looks good with balance and depth and the goaltending is strong."

The first line is made up of senior Ed Boyle at center and junior Mike Hays and senior Mark Chambers at wing.

The second line has junior John O'Connor at center and junior Tom McGrath and senior Brian Provenzano at wing.

At this writing the third line was uncertain with several promising players fighting for the jobs.

"We don't have much varsity experience but we have a lot of potential," Sylvia said. "We held our own against strong opposition in scrimmages and if we continue to play like that we should do all right."

For the first time in many years Sylvia has a new junior varsity coach in Walter Troup, who had been the freshman coach. George Peachy is the new freshman coach.

"I have lost Jack Crowley as my assistant and he certainly is going to be missed," Sylvia said. "He has been a part of this program as far back as I can remember as a player and my assistant. He is now teaching in Marshfield. You can't replace a person like him but I have two excellent assistants in Walter and George."

Sun Sports

ELIZABETH NORTON of Quincy is a member of the Bridgewater State College volleyball team. She is a graduate of Quincy High where she was voted Most Valuable Player on the gym team. She also played volleyball and soccer at Quincy High.

Jago Optimistic

Raiders Host Newton N.

Second-year North Quincy hockey coach Kevin Jago has had more time to prepare for the season than he did a year ago and was pleased with the outlook as the Raiders opened their season last night (Wednesday) against cross-town rival Quincy.

North will host Newton North Saturday at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and on Friday, Dec. 23, will be home to Waltham at 6:40.

Last season the school committee appointed Jago to replace Kevin Lewis but not until after much deliberation and he had little time to practice before the season opened. He was unable to schedule any non-league games and played only a 12-game Suburban League schedule, finishing at 5-5-2.

This season the Raiders and the other league teams are playing each other three times, giving them an 18-game schedule.

"I've had a lot more time getting the team prepared this season and I've been pleased with our progress," Jago said. "We have our two top scorers, Co-Captains Keith Smith and Scott Messina back and have two solid lines. We have three fine goalies, all of whom will see action, and a strong defense. If our inexperienced third line comes along, we should be in pretty good shape."

The third line is made up of junior John Reinhardt at center and sophomore Dave Fasano and junior Mike Doherty at wing.

Also hoping to see action on the forward lines are seniors Jim Burgess and Dave Edgren.

"McGlame is an excellent prospect and could be one of the best in the league," Jago said. "He played regularly last year as a freshman and looked good."

The goalies are junior Matt Higgins, senior Dan Ceurvels and senior Jim Clary, a transfer from Abp. Williams.

Higgins started a few games last season and was unbeaten. The three look about even and Jago was uncertain who would be the starter.

There is a definite Quincy tinge to the North coaching staff. Jago played for the South Shore Braves, coached by Quincy coach Bob Sylvia, assistant coach Rich Hutchins was one of Sylvia's assistants and freshman coach Rick Avery played for Sylvia at Quincy High, playing with the 1976 tournament team.

Mariano Happy With Cahill's Appointment

By TOM SULLIVAN

For the last nine years Carmen Mariano was Quincy's only wrestling coach since the sport was renewed in 1975.

This winter Mariano will not be coaching but, in his words, "They are not losing a coach, they are simply gaining a fan, spokesman, supporter and believer."

Mariano stepped down as the Presidents' coach after compiling an amazing record to devote full time to his new post as director of personnel, but he will still be involved in the wrestling program.

The new coach is Tim Cahill, who wrestled for Mariano for three years and has been his assistant coach for the past six years.

"I am delighted with Tim's appointment," says Mariano. "As a 10th grade student, he was our then program's first captain and he served in that capacity through his three-year career at Quincy. No one knows our program better, or more clearly represents the personal characteristics of manhood upon which our program is based than Tim."

I could not be more thankful that he is available to succeed me in what has been to me so precious a position."

The Presidents, who again will face the best teams in Massachusetts, opened their season last night (Wednesday) at Duxbury and Saturday will host Plymouth-Carver at noon. They also will meet an Alumni team at 2:30 p.m. the same day. Next Wednesday they will wrestle at Stoughton at 7 p.m.

Quincy will face Northern powers Burlington and Reading as well as Suburban League opponents Newton North, Waltham and always strong Brockton. South Shore power Marshfield has been added and the team again will compete in the Lowell and Sanford, Me., tournaments offered in New England.

Quincy is led by Co-Captains Mike Notarangelo and David Coulter.

Notarangelo was 5-0-0 in dual meets last year, the South sectional champion and state runnerup at 114 pounds, while Coulter was 13-0-1, third in the Kevin Cabezas, 11-1-0 last year, south sectional champ and third in the states at 167, and Joe Monahan (7-3-0) are two more experienced seniors.

Other outstanding seniors are Chris Conner and John Cacciatore, who had outstanding football seasons, as did Notarangelo, and Chris Constar, Dan Macauley and Gary Minassian, also fine football players. Seniors Ed Dilworth, Mark Stephens and Dan Kenney are other key performers. Kenney was hampered by injuries most of last season.

"We are pleased to have a number of seasoned underclassmen returning as well," Cahill said.

They include Matt Colbo, Tony Souza, Paul Miller, David Murphy and Brian Mahon, who had success as varsity wrestlers last year and are looked upon for major contributions this season, as are Sean Cahill, Ron Luisi and Ken Southwick.

Other returning underclassmen are John Heath, Brett Satkus, Jeff Solomon, Steve Curran, Jim Thompson, Steve Brennan and Jerry Mullin.

New additions include Mike Pugliesi, Chuck Morgan, Rick Smith, Dave Southwick, Paul Munaf, Ted McLelland, Chris Mackley, Peter Melly, Dennis DeCoste, Joel Rogers, Bob Cabezas, Jim Ross, Norman Hassan, Dan Bythrow, Pat Sopp, Sean Joyce and Bob Dever.

"We have fine assistant coaches in Joe Streadwick (82 years old), who has been an assistant here for nine years; Rich Schiarizzi, a former North Quincy wrestler, and newcomer Tony Akoury," Cahill said.

"Tony wrestled for me for three years through 1979 when he was instrumental in the team's first Suburban League championship," said Mariano. "I feel Quincy has as fine a coaching staff as is available to any high school wrestling program in the state."

GD, Broad Meadows Bills Ready For Governor

Two bills of considerable importance to Quincy have reached Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' desk to be signed into law, possibly as early as the end of this week. One measure authorizes the city to borrow $28 million to repay General Dynamics for seven years of tax overassessment on the Fore River shipyard.

The second bill would return to the city of Quincy 108 acres of land in Broad Meadows that was given to the state some 15 years ago as the site of a South Shore Community College.

Recently, state mental health people have sought to construct a residential facility on a portion of the site. The move has been opposed by residents of Merrymount and Adams Shore.

"Local residents feel that it should be preserved as a marshland," said Rep. Thomas F. Brownell.

There will be a hearing Monday, Dec. 19, at 6:45 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall on a proposal to change the zoning of the 108 acres from Industrial A and Residential A and C to Open Space.

A spokesman for governor's legislative office said the governor's advisors are researching the bills and will make their recommendations today (Thursday).

Midas To Correct Disposal Problem

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board voted Tuesday to continue for six months a hearing on disposition of salvage material at Midas Muffler Shop, 100 McGrath Highway.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that discarded parts such as pipes are being piled higher than the receptacle for them.

MacDonald also said one of the pipes landed in a neighbor's yard.

Atty. Joseph Antonucci, representing Midas, said the muffler shop has spent $20,000 to correct problems such as drainage and accumulated salvage material.

MacDonald suggested Midas install fencing on top of the receptacle to prevent the pipes and other material from spilling out. He also praised Midas' earlier efforts to correct problems.

"You people are going to fix this," said Police Chief Francis Finn. "If there are any more problems, then they'll be very serious consequences."

Car Knocks Down Live Wires

A man from Downers Grove, Ill., was injured early Sunday morning when his car struck a pole at 260 Southern Artery, scattering live electric wires around the street.

Police said Edward D.

Gorczyca, 24, told them he fell asleep at the wheel. He and a passenger, Chip Reardon, 26, of Brighton were treated and released from City Hospital.

The wires were repaired by Mass Electric.

McCauley Studies Removing Chief From Civil Service

Mayor Francis X. McCauley says he is looking into the possibility of removing the post of chief of police from under Civil Service regulations.

"It is an option that we are thinking about," he said. "but it may not come up in the near future. In fact, it may not come up in my administration."

McCauley has received approval for a Civil Service examination Feb. 4 to establish an eligibility list of candidates for police chief should Chief Francis X. Finn retire.

Finn says he is not ready to retire, even though he underwent quadruple heart bypass surgery a year ago.

McCauley said an unnamed member of the City Council inquired about taking the chief's job out of Civil Service and "we told him we thought about it but we made no decision."

Right now, once he is appointed from a Civil Service list, the chief of police in Quincy holds the job until he retires.

If the post were taken out of Civil Service, McCauley said, the chief's tenure could be made coterminous with that of the mayor or he could be hired under contract for a fixed term of years.

Since becoming mayor two years ago, McCauley has taken the jobs of personnel director and labor negotiator away from Civil Service.

The personnel director (Donald Hanson) now serves coterminously with the mayor and the labor negotiator is an outside lawyer (David Grunbaum) who has a contract with the city.

Until the job was placed under Civil Service in 1911, the police chief served at the pleasure of the mayor, which is why Joseph W. Hayden, Amos L. Litchfield and Walter H. Ripley alternated in the job.

"During my travels around the country," said McCauley, "I have found that the police chief is often considered to be the most important appointment that a mayor can make."

"When I was in Denver at the Mayors' conference, the big issue in the election campaign going on out there was whether or not the police chief would be retained."

McCauley said that if the police chief served at the pleasure of the mayor he might be more responsive to the aims of the administration.

"You can argue both sides," he said.

but thus far they had been unsuccessful in finding a new location.

District Manager Michael Daley said the company plans to remodel its store in South Shore Plaza and the 15 employees in Quincy will be offered jobs there and elsewhere.

18 years in Quincy.

"They never contacted us about alternative space," said McCauley. "We would have been glad to help."

The company, which has 109 retail outlets in New England, may open another Quincy store, officials said.

McCauley Reconsidering

Quincy Point Residents Win Pollard Fight

By TOM HENSHAW

Residents of Quincy Point appear to have won their fight to keep the Pollard School.

The City Council decided Monday night not to sell the abandoned school on Southern Artery and Mayor Francis X. McCauley indicated Tuesday that he is having second thoughts on the matter.

"I have been in touch with Councilor Ted DeCristofaro," said the mayor, "and I have asked him to head a task force to look into the disposition of the school."

The Planning Board has recommended that the Pollard School be sold for $152,650 to Manel Property Trust, headed by Anthony Losordo, for development into some 30 apartment units.

Area residents, however, were pushing for retention of the building as a community center. DeCristofaro, the ward councillor, was a leader in the fight to keep it.

The matter came up for a vote at the City Council meeting Monday night and Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, chairman of the Land Conveyance, let it die in committee in the Council's final 1983 meeting.

"The mayor can introduce it into the 1984 Council if he wants," said McGrath.

"At the present time," said McCauley, "it appears that the City Council is not interested in selling the school. The councillors seem to agree with the neighborhood group."

"My problem is that I would like to see a plan for the future of the school. I don't want to see that building lay idle for a long time and subject to vandalism."

"But before I let it go I want to know who will run it, who will staff it, and who will pay for the utilities. This task force will be the first step in finding out those things."

McCauley said he will announce the composition of the task force after the first of the year.

He indicated that it will be composed of two city councillors, and representatives of the Planning Department, the Law Department and the Public Works Department and will work with the neighborhood group.

In related actions Monday night, the Council voted to:

Sell the Massachusetts Fields School to the Fafard

Co. of Ashland for $247,000 plus 3 per cent of the cash flow for five years for development into 28 condominium units.

Sell the Willard School in West Quincy to Furnace Brook Associates, headed by Louis J. Grossman, for $916,500 for conversion into office condominium units.

Betty Houston Named To Conservation Commission

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named Elizabeth P. Houston, the recently retired executive secretary to the school superintendent, to the Quincy Conservation Commission.

Mrs. Houston, who lives at 33 Puritan Drive, Quincy Center, opened her own business, the Pearce Word Processing Secretarial Assistance, in April.

She is a member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Women of Boston, the South Shore Council for Children, the Quincy Community Theater and the Quincy Educational Secretaries Association.

Recently she chaired the Quincy Looking Great Committee in conjunction with Beautification of Quincy and the Quincy Historical Society.

Koch Club Gives Baskets To 55 Needy Families

The Koch Club Christmas charity committee reached out to 55 families in the Quincy area through church, community and social service agencies to provide turkeys, fresh fruits and vegetables and canned foods along with Christmas wrapped gifts for children.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, noted the program was initiated 28 years ago with two baskets delivered in the North Quincy area and has continued to grow to serve the entire city as well as a number of families in neighboring communities.

Along with the Quincy distribution of food and gifts, hundreds of new toys were also delivered through local charitable agencies.

In a second major effort following a pre-Christmas fire in 1971 leaving several hundred families in Boston homeless and their Christmas belongings destroyed, the Koch Club provided 300 gifts for the children. The Christmas Charity Committee continued this practice and during the ensuing years the Koch Club established a drive to conserve, renovate, clean and package new and good used toys for delivery to church, community and social service organizations in the Boston area for distribution to the needy.

It is anticipated that approximately 2,000 new and used toys will be made available to needy children in Quincy, the South Shore and the Boston area through Little Christmas and that approximately 20,000 items have been donated, wrapped, cleaned and transported during the past 13 years. One of the most popular activities of this program is the Dress-A-Doll project where hundreds of used dolls have been cleaned, groomed and dressed by volunteers for those children receiving them.

A number of women have hand knitted childrens mittens, scarfs and hats for boys and girls serviced by the holiday activity.

Newest and most extensive of the projects has been the donation of clean used clothing for young and old. Thousands of articles have been collected, sorted, packaged and delivered to several areas where the need is greatest and the people are grateful and appreciative of the items received.

Houghs Neck, Merrymount Residents For Open Space

By TOM HENSHAW

There was little doubt of the feelings of a crowd that overflowed the City Council chamber Monday night for two open space hearings on land in Houghs Neck and the Merrymount-Adams Shore section.

Forty two people recorded themselves in favor of rezoning 30.46 acres in Rock Island Cove, known locally as "the Crusher," from Residence A to Open Space.

One hundred and thirty seven turned out in favor of rezoning 114.41 acres in Broad Meadows from Industrial A and Residence A and C to Open Space.

There was no recorded opposition at either hearing, although a Milton man started to speak, found he was at the wrong hearing, took some heckling from the crowd and didn't stay for the right hearing.

The Broad Meadows land had been turned over to the state as a possible site for a community college but lately the Department of Mental Health had been contemplating it for a group home.

Arnold Rinkofsky, 62, of Milton started to tell the hearing about his 26-year-old multi-handicapped daughter when Chairman Leo J. Kelly pointed out to him that he was at the Rock Island hearing.

When someone in the crowd heckled him about living in Milton, Rinkofsky offered to "meet you outside" and left the hearing.

The Broad Meadows hearing drew the most attention.

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell told the hearing that the State House of Representatives had passed a bill 141 - 0 returning the land to city ownership and that Gov. Michael Dukakis was expected to sign it.

"Early next year," he said, "the land will be under the governance of the city and I hope it will be preserved as open space."

Most of those who spoke in favor of rezoning both tracts of land to open space talked about wildlife and the need for preserving the little open space left in Quincy against the ravages of development.

Ernest Biancuzzo of 47 Calvin Rd., Merrymount, spoke of leaving for work in the morning and watching the pheasants and rabbits cavorting in the Broad Meadows marsh.

"We have enough big building in Quincy," he said. "Let's have some air."

"There is only so much land in the world," said Mary Ann Lencki of 10 Homer Rd., Merrymount. "We have moral obligation to save this land for future generations."

Louis Mazzini of 164 Samoset Ave., Merrymount, noted that development of the land would "add to the sewer problems by building single family, multi-unit dwellings or commercial buildings."

Richard Riley, archaeologist for the Quincy Historical Society, told the hearing that there were three or four prehistoric archaeological sites per acre in the area.

"They could be used as a laboratory for archaeological research by the schools without hurting the land at all," he said.

Robert Anastasi of Rockland St., Houghs Neck, called the Rock Island Cove area "our most valuable asset. It has to be preserved. Once it is developed, it's gone."

Sen. Paul Harold also spoke in favor of open space.

Gas Station Robbed

The BP gasoline station on Franklin St., South Quincy, was robbed Monday night by a man who grabbed money from the attendant's hand and fled in a gray Chevrolet.

Briefcase Taken

A briefcase valued at $70 was reported stolen Sunday by Carmine Carlucci of 56 Newcomb St., Quincy Point, from his 1983 Ford van.

Nova.

The attendant, Steve Richmond, told police the man pulled up in the car and asked for $5 worth of gas. When he took out a roll to change a $10 bill, Richmond said, the man grabbed it and drove off.

The robber was described as white, in his 20s, with brown curly hair, a mustache and glasses.

Lydon Urges Moderate Classification

City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., in his farewell address as Council president Monday night, urged his colleagues to show "moderation" in classifying property for tax purposes.

"Classification is an issue which any member of the elected municipal government could use for his or her own political aggrandizement," he said.

"It is also an issue which could jeopardize the positive flow that we have been able to achieve with the administration.

"Recognizing that 100 per cent could have been a windfall for business, we will move toward classification. But, in turn, classification should not be made a windfall for residents.

"A course of reasoned moderation is that which is best taken. Windfalls are always at someone's expense and our responsibility on this City Council extends to the city as a whole."

Lydon will be a member of the 1984 Council but a four-year-old Council rule forbids a president from succeeding himself. Councillor James A. Sheets claims the five votes needed to be 1984 president.

Councillor Stephen J. McGrath, on behalf of his fellow members, presented Lydon with a plaque and a gavel in observance of his two years in the presidency.

Lydon, quoting Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt, said that his successor's duty will be to achieve consensus.

"The achievement of consensus is the key, perhaps the very essence of the position of president," he said.

"The new president must be prepared to deal with the thorny and controversial issues, forging required coalitions to bring this municipality forward through the continuum of our historic development."

Lydon acknowledged that there had been controversies during his regime "but we did achieve consensus on the major issues that have come before us."

Some of those major issues, he said, were the tax settlement with General Dynamics, a major commitment to the neighborhoods, and "the largest boom period for economic development in the history of the city."

Also during his term, he said, he implemented the televising of Council meetings on cable TV and meetings of the Council office so that "individual councillors can better respond to the needs of our citizenry."

Heidi Peterson Receives Baker Research Grant

Heidi Peterson, daughter of Muriel Peterson of Quincy, is the winner of the 1983-84 Baker Research Grant from the Department of Biology at Eastern Nazarene College.

Miss Peterson's research proposal entitled, "Protein Polymorphisms in Wingless and White Eyed Mutations of Drosophila Melanogaster," is designed to begin a search for "transposable genetic elements" or "jumping genes" similar to those in corn for which this year's Nobel Prize was awarded.

Miss Peterson will work under the direction of Professor Cynthia Mingle. During the spring semester, she will present a public seminar outlining her research efforts.

The Baker Research Grant was established this year by Kenton Baker of Baker Associates computer firm of Quincy, and is supported by an endowment. The award is designed to help meet the expenses of senior research projects for students who show a high degree of need and motivation in Biology.

Students must submit a written proposal to a panel of faculty members and alumni who are active in Biology research. The panel then chooses one winner whose project will be funded as the budget allows. Proposals submitted by Randy Bryner and Jon Twining were also funded in part by the grant.

Poison is may be relieved with the use of meclizemate, an arthritis drug, according to a report in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Diabetes has been eliminated in some laboratory animals with the transplant of pancreas glands from fetuses of the same species. Tests in humans are still years away.

Canadian doctors have found that magnesium, given immediately after a heart attack, helps limit damage to tissue and aids in controlling irregular heartbeat.

With the help of a CT scanner and computer-guided probe, neurosurgeons are now able to reach parts of the brain that used to be untouchable, removing clots and tumors that were inoperable before.

Severe chest pain may not be heart-related at all, say surgeons at the University of Chicago. Pain is often laid to esophagus problems, such as reflux or spasms.

ENRICH YOUR HOLIDAY COME TO CHURCH THIS CHRISTMAS

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her first-born Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you. Who is Christ the Lord."

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

The church sanctuary had been decorated for the occasion with green boughs and ornaments in all the windows and with candles and poinsettias in the chancel.

Three choirs sang during the service. The Junior Choir sang "The Procession"

Before the service, the combined choirs sang some Christmas carols. Two instrumentalists, Blythe Bumpus on the clarinet and Amanda Young on the flute, played some more.

All of the scripture passages used during the service were taken from the oratorio "Messiah" by George Frederick Handel. The sermon preached by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, "The Power of Redemption," was the third in a series of three based on the themes of Handel's oratorio.

Just before the sermon, violinist James E. Sumner played "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott on the organ. This piece too is from Handel's "Messiah."

Kristen Fluhr, Ruth Adams, Miriam Lensen, Blythe Bumpus and Karen Reister assisted the pastor in lighting the candles in the Advent wreath.

Carols sung during the service included "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "Bring a Torch, Jeannette, Isabella," "Joy to the World" and "Angels We Have Heard on High."

Greeters for the service were the pastor, his sister, Mrs. Patti Hurd and their mother, Mrs. Minnie Langevin, who is visiting for the holidays from Ferndale, Mich.

Ushers were Tore Wallin, Dianne Ahearn, Stewart Scott and Bonnie Adams. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Barbara Fluhr and Pat Olson.

After the service, the children of the church attended a "Baby Jesus' Birthday Party" at which they sang "Happy Birthday" to Jesus, left their gifts of mittens (for poor children) on a Mitten Tree and shared in the fun of the party refreshments, including a large decorated birthday cake.

"JOY TO THE WORLD" and other carols were sung during the Nativity Program at First Parish Church, Quincy Sq. From left, are Dianne Monteith, 10; Jennifer Flynn, 10; and Theresa Quinn, 10.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It is a good thing to observe Christmas Day. But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas Day, and that is, keeping Christmas.

Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what they have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you, and to think what you owe the world; to stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children; to remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you, and ask yourself whether you love them enough?

Then you CAN keep Christmas!

Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world - stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death - and the blessed life which began in Bethlehem is the image and brightness of the Eternal Love?

Then you CAN keep Christmas! And if you keep it for a day why not always?

BUT YOU CAN NEVER KEEP IT ALONE...

Readers Forum United Way Says 'Thank You' For Most Successful Drive

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thanks to the generosity of thousands of local residents, the United Way of Massachusetts Bay has completed its most successful fund-raising drive ever. We topped our goal for the second year in a row, raising $32,029,836 for a 12.3 percent increase over 1982 - one of the highest percentage increases in the country in areas of comparable size.

The United Way South Region (19 communities south of Boston) also topped its area goal, raising an outstanding $681,365 - a 15 percent increase over last year - to support 97 United Way agencies serving local residents.

What makes these record-breaking results so gratifying is that they come at a time when the need for health and human services is increasing. More and more people now seek food and shelter, day care, home health care, and alcohol and drug counseling - and these are some of the contemporary services offered by the United Way. The need for traditional services is also great - and the United Way continues to support community centers, youth recreation, family counseling, and many related services.

All told, nearly one million residents in eastern Massachusetts - one out of three - will be touched by United Way funds this coming year. That includes our families, friends, neighbors...and often ourselves.

A successful campaign makes us all winners because the quality of life in our community will improve as the delivery of health and human services improves. So, here's to all of you who share this triumph. Thanks to you, it does work for all of us.

Dear Santa:

DEAR SANTA:

Here I am again, Santa, late as usual. I know I keep promising to write sooner and I keep trying too, honest. But the time just zips by. You know what they say about time flying when you're having fun. Well, sometimes it's fun.

It Wasn't Bad Enough But Now...

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Now they've done it.

It wasn't bad enough that they started displaying Valentine's Day cards in the stores practically before the noise makers had stopped on New Year's Eve.

Or that they started putting Halloween decorations in the stores before we'd emptied the sand from our beach bags.

Now they've delivered the final blow.

Two weeks before Christmas, it arrived in the mail. No, not a cheery holiday greeting from friends or family.

But a glossy circular from a department store announcing the one, the only, After Christmas Sale!

No rest for the weary. One can only imagine the exhausted holiday shopper collapsing into an easy chair after a hard day at the shopping mall, hoping to find a bit of Christmas cheer in the day's mail.

But instead, there's a preview of yet another coming attraction. It's enough to make a person join shoppers anonymous!

Maybe we can all get together and declare an end of the year moratorium on the frantic holiday treadmill that always leaves us nervously anticipating the next occasion, while missing the spirit of the present one.

A short break might be just the thing to refresh us and send us back to the stores with bright eyes and a light heart.

But most importantly, it will allow us to appreciate what Christmas and the holidays are supposed to be all about:

Peace on Earth and Good Will To All

Relatives who illegally take children not in their custody outside the state face a $5,000 fine and prison term of up to five years. Sen. Paul D. Harold reports.

Under new legislation, a relative, including a parent, who entices a child away from the person having custody and takes the child out of state intending to keep him there for a protracted period, faces the punishment.

Harold noted that the new law amends existing law which provides for a $1,000 fine and a year in jail for a relative who entices the child away from the lawful guardian and keeps the child for a long period within the Commonwealth.

The $5,000 fine and five-year prison term also apply where the child is unlawfully taken and exposed to a risk which endangers his safety, whether within the state or outside, Harold said.

QUINCY CITY HOSPITAL FLOAT

QCH Float: A Crowd Pleaser

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
What weighs 400 pounds, has 99 windows, and drew a lot of applause during the annual Christmas parade in Quincy?

The answer is Quincy City Hospital's float on the theme, "A New Hospital for Quincy--A Christmas Dream Come True."

The float, which was awarded first place in commercial judging, features a miniature of the hospital's administration building as it looked on its first Christmas in 1936.

The original building was constructed with WPA funds in a classic federal style with columns and cupola.

The nine feet four and a half feet miniature was constructed by hospital maintenance carpenters using 24,000 miniature bricks and 4,320 gray slate pieces for the roof.

The steps are made of granite, as the originals were, by Monti's of Quincy. The pillars were made and donated by Quincy Public Schools.

During the parade, a truck to pull the float was donated by Daley and Wanzer Co. of Hull and driven by Jim Belmarsh of Hull who volunteered his services.

The low-boy trailer was donated by Mass. Engineering of Whitman.

The sign on the front lawn of the miniature is a copy of the sign that was in front of the old 1890 Cottage Hospital.

Pillars and molding for the building are hand made.

The remainder of the float was a "Thank You Christmas Card" comprised on a 24 ft. by 8 ft. sheet of plywood.

On one side was an artist's rendition of the new replacement facility. The other side had a thank you message to Quincy residents.

The project was headed by John Felci with the in-house talents of Joe Cuddahy of the Engineering Department who provided the labor.

Christmas In Service Station A Real Treat

By JOHN NOONAN

The true spirit and meaning of Christmas is demonstrated throughout Quincy in many varied and unique forms.

One rather unusual and festive occasion is the annual gathering which takes place in a most unlikely setting, a family owned community service station and automotive repair garage.

For more than 20 years the Pagnani brothers, owners of the Quincy Adams Super Service gas station located at the traffic laden intersection of Liberty and Water Sts., have been inviting their customers, who number in the hundreds, to join with them in a genuine family-style Christmas party at their place of business.

Brothers Lou, Pepe, Tony and Clem say it is their special way of expressing their heartfelt appreciation to their many loyal customers who patronize the station throughout the year.

Once a year, usually on the Saturday a week prior to Christmas, the three bay service station area is transformed into a mini social center.

The hydraulic lifts and pumps which are in constant daily use are discreetly covered or set aside. The noisy grease guns, acetylene torches and welding gear, tires and other automotive supplies are cleared away to make room for several rows of tables and chairs arranged family style.

The brothers with the assistance of longtime employee, Joe Ciccolo, do not stint in their efforts to make the surroundings homelike and appealing. Amplified Christmas music fills the air.

The festive board is then put on display for all of the customers to enjoy. Hot foodstuffs deliciously prepared, the spicy meatballs with the pastas, homebaked goodies, beverages of all types and strengths, and the ever-tantalizing Italian delicacies are plentiful.

The party runs for several hours getting underway just about noon. There is a steady stream of customers including grandparents, parents, brothers, sisters, children of all ages (many in their very early years), aunts, uncles, cousins, friends and neighbors. All are welcomed by hosts Lou, Clem and Pepe.

Even a few customers bring their small dogs that are greeted by the station mascot, a very friendly Bassett hound, who serves as host for his canine friends.

At the height of the festivities there is a visit from Santa Claus who has checked in with the Quincy Police Department to insure proper directions to the party location.

Each child is given an opportunity to chat with Santa and reinforce their Christmas lists of gifts wanted. All children are given an appropriate gift by Santa.

The Pagnani brothers have been doing this for past 20 years or more. They say that they never tire of showing their appreciation to their customers. When the brothers all get together for their own celebration on Christmas Day, it is another extension of that time honored family tradition which began with their parents many years ago.

The brothers are quite well known throughout the southwest section of Quincy. Lou is an avid bowler and competes in local tournaments. Pepe owned a trucking and express company several years ago. Clem works for the town of Brintree school department and Tony is a Conrail employee. Joe Ciccolo who is an automotive mechanic has been employed by the Pagnani brothers for more than 21 years.

When asked to comment on what they thought about today's automobiles. In a chorus they replied, "...they don't make them like they use to."

The group has seen many changes in the vicinity of their location over the years. Preliminary work is now underway on clearing buildings for the Burgin Parkway Extension which will run by the front door of the service station.

A couple of the brothers will admit that they recall when street car tracks ran by their station. All remember the old Quincy Adams railroad station and the railroad freight sidings nearby. Several business firms and warehouses in the immediate vicinity have been demolished to make way for the new Burgin Parkway extension which will hook up with the new Quincy Adams MBTA station and ramps.

The brothers hope that the changes taking place will result in a positive note for the community and their place of business.

One thing is certain. If their business should continue to expand and the number of customers who will join them in their annual family style Christmas celebration escalates in the years ahead, it may be necessary to move the gathering into the Quincy Voc Tech gym to handle them all.

When preparing for this year's party the brothers planned on more than two hundred regular customers plus friends, relatives and neighbors.

Every customer and guest is greeted individually and made to feel at home like a member of the family.

City Government Reorganized Under Plan E Principles

The City Council passed an ordinance streamlining the city government in accordance with the principles of Plan E, including creation of a general finance department, consolidation of the treasurer's and tax collector's offices and institution of centralized accounting.

Five councillors voted for the ordinance with David J. Crowley voting against it and Carl W. Anderson walking out of the meeting before the vote was taken.

"I had already recorded myself in opposition to the whole ordinance," said Anderson, a foe of the entire Plan E form of government. "I saw no use sitting around discussing any further something against which I had already expressed myself."

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. indicated that he would appoint City Treasurer Mildred Tyler to the combined post of treasurer-collector and make Collector Frederick C. Smaail assistant collector and director of the budget.

German Town 'Adopts' Quincy Fire Department

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

When Quincy resident Robert Dano visited Eggenfelden, Germany, and its volunteer fire department recently, he couldn't always understand the language but the message was clear: "willkommen", or "welcome."

Dano, a native of Eggenfelden who came to this country with his parents at the age of one, brought to the fire station a helmet from the Quincy Fire Dept. which delighted his hosts.

In a letter to Quincy Fire Chief Edward Barry, they stated:

"This fire helmet from the Quincy Fire Department will always have an honored place in our Fire Department Museum, and will remind us of our comrades in America."

"We all hope that the friendly association between our fire department and the Quincy Fire Department will be strengthened."

Quincy's Fire Department also sent along a breast badge and hat badge.

"When I pulled the helmet out of the bag, they were floored," said Dano, who noted that they were especially impressed with the helmet because it had been in service.

In return, they sent to the Quincy Fire Department a 100th anniversary medal, volunteer fire department patches, a 100th anniversary booklet and print of the town in the 15th century.

"They have a partner city in France, but they've adopted the Quincy Fire Department now," said Dano, a resident of President's Lane, Quincy Center.

Dano, 35, a freelance graphic artist and illustrator, was escorted to the German fire station by his cousin, Ludwig Schuster, a member of the volunteer fire station.

"He told me to get dressed up, that the press would be there," said a surprised Dano who found himself photographed and interviewed for the weekly regional paper.

He was given a tour of the station where he found that the oldest piece of equipment was five years old.

Dano also learned that, except for the drivers, firefighters go to fires in vans for safety reasons, and the fire chief drives a Bavarian Motor Works (BMW).

"They don't have as many fires," added Dano, "because everything is concrete. Wood is not as available."

Dano said his German hosts were very friendly. "It was a really nice morning."

"At 10:30 a.m., they took me to a restaurant for a breakfast of sausage and sauerkraut and a big glass of beer," he said with a smile.

Dano made the trip with his mother, three sisters, and brother-in-law, Gitta Dano, Louisa Dano and Martha Dano, all of Quincy, Maria and Gary Graves of England.

Quincy's Chief Barry expressed appreciation for the gifts to the QFD.

"I'm delighted such interest was taken by our peers in Eggenfelden."

"Hopefully, from time to time we'll be able to correspond with the Eggenfelden Fire Department and exchange information," he said.

The etching of the town and other items will be kept in the chief's office for now. Barry said, and later some will be sent to the Quincy Historical Society.

Dano said he looks forward to returning to the town of about 10,000 people.

And he passes along this information to local residents planning a trip to that area, "anyone from Quincy would get a wonderful reception."

Group Acquires Quincy Sq. Building For $700,000

A major purchase of property in the heart of Quincy's business district was concluded recently with the transfer of papers on ownership of the building at the juncture of Temple and Washington Sts. in Quincy Square.

The transaction, conducted in the name of the 37 Washington St. Realty Trust, was set at $700,000.

Principals in the trust are a quartet of young real estate executives: Arnold Feinerman, Newton; Bruce Roberts, Brookline; Gary Widett, Newton and Stephen Roberts, Wayland.

The Quincy complex comprises 20,000 square feet in a combination of 10 street level retail and service establishments and second story commercial and professional offices. The new owners plan extensive exterior and interior renovations including the design of a new front entrance to the office area on Washington St., interior landscaping and subdivision of second floor office areas to suite the space requirements of new tenants.

The purchase of the Quincy property is the second acquisition by the newly formed real estate group which recently purchased a strip of stores and offices in downtown Natick.

Resident To Take Appeals Route On Donut King Extension

A West Quincy resident, seeking to halt construction of an extension at Donut King, will pursue an administrative appeals route through the city before seeking a temporary restraining order.

Atty. David M. Rogers said Robert Campbell of Common St. will seek to establish that the extension violates zoning ordinances.

Rogers said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald volunteered to show Campbell plans for the extension next week.

West Quincy residents and Ward Councillor James Sheets expressed their displeasure with the extension at last week's License Board meeting.

Campbell said the building permit was issued without License Board approval.

MacDonald said he routinely issues building permits after discussing it with board chairman John Gillis if the addition doesn't increase capacity or violate laws.

What Christmas ... And Chanukah Mean To Me

Students in Quincy's public elementary and middle schools again this year have submitted holiday articles on the themes "What Christmas Means to Me" and "What Chanukah Means to Me."

The Sun is happy to share their thoughts at this season with you.

Publishing these articles has become a tradition to which all of us at the Sun look forward to and we hope you do, too.

We celebrate the Birth of Christ on December 25th. I like Christmas because it is a time of sharing and caring with lots and lots of love.

Wayne Boyd
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

It is nice to be with family and friends on Christmas Day. It is fun opening Christmas presents. It is also fun watching family members open their gifts. The most important thing is to give thanks to God for everything there is on the earth.

Eris Sprague
Merrymount, Gr. 5

Christmas is a joyful day for everybody but the poor. I wish they could at least have two presents and for them to spend it with someone.

Paul Fahey
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

Chanukah is a Jewish holiday where we light eight candles once every eight days and we get presents every day. We get a present or money and we eat and have fun. We play a game where we spin a top that has letters on it. It is called a Dreidel and the candle holder is called a Menorah.

Keith Tanofsky
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

I love Chanukah! I get toys. We pray and light candles.

Michelle Barba
Parker, Gr. 1

We were swamped again this year with entries and because of space limitations are unable to print all of them. We are sorry because so many, many others were worthy of publication.

However, we will print more next week as space permits.

To all who participated we wish a Merry Christmas, a Happy Chanukah and a Healthy New Year.

Thank you all, most sincerely.

Chanukah - It is a time to thank and pray to God. It is a time to love your family and Grandparents and relatives. It is a time to share our feelings with our family. I think Chanukah is a great holiday.

Steven Parsley
Parker Gr. 3

Christmas is a time for love and happiness. It's a time when the whole family comes together. During Christmas you should give something to the needy, to your family, and to your friends. A good reason for being happy during Christmas is the birth of Jesus Christ.

Teddy Stevenson
Atlantic Middle, Gr. 8

I think Christmas means that it is a time to rejoice throughout the land. It is when God was to be the Son of Mary, to be celebrated every December 25, in honor to our God.

Kelley Cronin
Montclair, Gr. 4

Christmas is a time of giving not only receiving. And also a time for remembering the night when Baby Jesus was born and the three Kings brought Jesus gifts. And remembering that Jesus lay in a hay stack not a cradle or crib that most babies lie in.

Colleen Doyle
Montclair, Gr. 4

Chanukah is a great holiday. I like to look at colorful candle lights. Children spin dreidles and sing songs. Adults give gifts and eat potatoe latkes. Chanukah reminds me of the miracle of so long ago. I like Chanukah because there is something for everyone of all ages.

Sharon Goodman
Point Middle Gr. 7

Christmas means happiness and receiving presents and giving presents to one another. I also think that Christmas is when Jesus was born. Christmas is for loving. Christmas is for sharing. That's what I think Christmas means.

Jessica Hoel
Parker, Gr. 3

Chanukah means going to temple. It is the time candles glow. It is a time to love one another.

Moria Lynn Levine
Parker, Gr. 1

Christmas means to me that it is a time to share my love with others. It's a time to think about Jesus, for it is his birthday. We should go to Church and thank God for what we have and what we are about to receive. We should not forget about the poor, who are not as wealthy as we are and won't be able to celebrate as we can. We should pray and try to help them.

Kristin Joyce
Squantum, Gr. 5

I think Christmas is the most important part of the year. Every Christmas I share my toys with my brother and sisters. I like Christmas because alot of children get toys. Christmas can bring alot of happiness into people's lives! I think Christmas is the most special day of everyone's life!

Michael DeRoche
Furnace Brook Gr. 3

It means time for fun. We put up a tree. We hang stockings. We wait for Santa.

Angela Bohl
Parker, Gr. 1

What Christmas means to me is that it is Jesus' birthday and that Jesus was really nice to us. He never got into fights with anyone. I'm thankful for him. Aren't you? He's the best!

Louise Mahoney
Furnace Brook Gr. 3

Christmas means getting presents and getting together with your family and giving presents to people. Christmas is the day that Jesus Christ was born. Some people go to church to hear stories about Jesus.

Joanna Dyer
Furnace Brook School Gr. 3

Christmas means presents and Santa Claus and lots of fun. It means sharing and giving and getting together with family and friends. It's the time we celebrate Jesus' Birthday. We have a good time. Christmas is my favorite time of year.

I love Christmas because it's a joyful time of year. People give presents to each other. Christmas is for people to have fun. Merry Christmas everyone!

Koon Chaw
Sterling Middle, Gr. 6

To me Christmas is a time for celebrating new life, hope, and joy. I think too many people are going commercial for the holiday. Take the Cabbage Patch Caper for instance. Fighting, grabbing, pushing and yelling for a doll (which in my opinion are ugly). Many people are forgetting the true meaning of Christmas this year.

Lorrie Swanton
Central Middle Gr. 6

It means love and happiness. It means sharing, caring, and the birth of Jesus. It is the time a family gets together to say prayers. It is a happy time for me too. It is not a time to think of the jolly old man. It is the time to think of Jesus.

Christine Howard
Squantum, Gr. 3

Well what Christmas means to me is giving love and joy.

Robert Picciano
Furnace Brook, Gr. 2

Last Christmas was very special. I learned an important lesson. What Christmas is all about.

We were having a student from Italy over to spend Christmas with us. At first I was reluctant, but then I was told she had no family to spend Christmas with. When she told me she had a wonderful time she gave me the best present of all - the feeling that I helped someone and made them happy. I'm going to miss her this Christmas!

Dominique McDonald
Sterling Middle, Gr. 6

Looking out from the window in my living room, I can see the white snow is falling down on top of the pine tree. I can also smell the fresh scent that comes from its branches. Sitting by the window, I keep thinking about how happy tomorrow will be. I wish that Christmas will bring joy and peace to all of us for a whole year. Tomorrow, Christmas, will be everywhere in our country. It's a day that all people should gather around with their family.

Phuc Ly
Point Middle Gr. 8

Each letter in the word Christmas means something special to me:

C - stands for the birth of Christ, Our Lord.

H - stands for Happiness on Christmas.

R - stands for Reindeer on Christmas.

I - stands for ice that hangs on our windows.

S - stands for snow that we all hope to have.

T - stands for thankful and we are all truly thankful.

M - stands for Merry. We are all merry at this time.

A - stands for Angel, a symbol of this holy time.

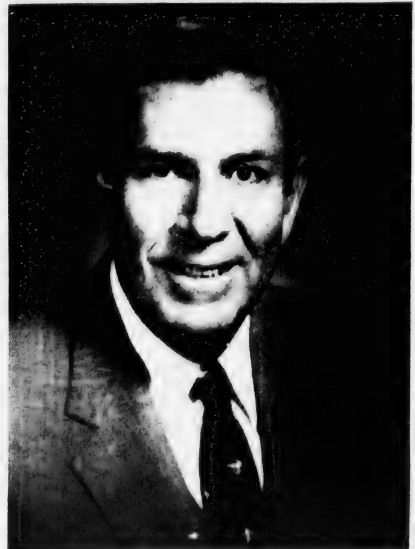

S - stands for Santa a very special man.

Robert Gordon
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

Christmas means Christmas trees with ornaments and shining bulbs. Christmas means happy children writing letters to Santa Claus and wishing very hard for the toys they've always wanted and hadn't had.

What Christmas... And Chanukah Mean To Me

Christmas means to me that people get their presents and when it is Jesus's birthday. I like when it is Jesus's birthday because I am happy that he grows big and is able to take care of himself. That's what Christmas means to me.

Leanne Espe
Parker, Gr. 3

Christmas is meant for showing, caring, and loving each other. When you have a little or even a big brother or sister, share some of your things with them. When someone in your family is sick, go and visit them. It will make them feel better. When your parents give you something you've really wanted, tell them that you love them.

That is what Christmas means to me.

Kim Ricottelli
Point Middle Gr. 7

Christmas means happiness. Christmas means joy. Christmas is for boys. Christmas is for families. Christmas is for girls and boys.

Sibyl Shop
Furnace Brook, Gr. 5

On Christmas we celebrate Jesus birthday. Also we give gifts to each other to show friendship and love. We give them to our friends and relatives to show we care.

Christine Miele
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

Christmas means celebrating Jesus's birthday with my family. It also means going to church and exchanging gifts. It is not getting new things. It's a day to praise the Lord.

Peter Ehrlich
Squantum, Gr. 3

Christmas to me is like giving gifts to friends and families, and to celebrate the birth of Jesus. I like to have the families get together for a big dinner, and to play games with everybody. It's best to give gifts than to receive.

David J. Erickson
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

On Christmas Eve I get curious as to what I got for Christmas and I think of what I wanted and what I would get. Well then I go to sleep and at 4:00 in the morning I get up and I see all the presents and I am happy. My father takes pictures of me. And we're all happy and glad. That's what Christmas means to me.

Kathy Brown
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

What Christmas means to me is loving, sharing, and giving.

Nadine Fallon
Furnace Brook, Gr. 3

Christmas is a very special holiday to me and to my family. Christmas means celebrating and rejoicing the birth of Christ. Not only is Christmas a time to receive, but also a time to give. Christmas is a very thankful and loving holiday for everybody. Christmas is my favorite holiday of the year because of all of these things.

Michael Walsh
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is a time when you get together with the people you love. It's a time to have fun and do the things you like best. This is a time to give as well as to receive. During the Christmas Season you feel free and forget about all your problems. This is what Christmas means to me.

Kerri McDonald
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

What Hanukkah means to me is a joyful time. When it's Hanukkah all my relatives get together and talk with each other like a reunion with all the people you love. I get presents and I make and buy presents for people. Sometimes, by giving a present to a person who is unhappy, a present might cheer him or her up.

Hanukkah means to me making people happy all around. It also reminds me of when the Jewish people were slaves and then became free. That's what Hanukkah means to me.

Diana Goldberg
Parker, Gr. 5

I like decorating Christmas trees. That's something that makes me proud.

Every time we celebrate Christmas our grandparents come to our house.

I like opening presents on Christmas Day. I like Christmas because I get toys and give away food. Gregory Slipkovich
Merrymount, Gr. 3

Christmas makes you feel emotional. It may bring parties or thoughts devotional.

Sometimes Christmas gives you something you really can't say.

Something good - a great feeling, a feeling that lights up your day.

Or perhaps Christmas gets you excited and you really can't bear it.

So that kind of leaves you in that Old Yuletide Spirit. Whatever happens or what may be, that is what Christmas means to me.

Steve Freil
Point Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is a time of joy and fun. It is a time of giving and receiving gifts. You also remember Christ on Christmas. Decorating is fun to do, too. I love Christmas.

Sharon Kavanagh
Furnace Brook, Gr. 5

Christmas is a time to be happy, not to be sad. On Christmas you give presents to your family and friends to show that you love them. I think it's better to give presents than receive presents.

Maria Kalantzis
Furnace Brook, Gr. 5

Christmas means a tree, real or artificial with an angel or star on top. It means you give and receive gifts. My family eats dinner over my house on Christmas. That's what Christmas means to me.

Amy Baker
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

When Christmas comes around, you may get a toy or a game, and this holiday reminds us when Jesus was born. After Christmas there is one week vacation! You can travel to Florida! Or you can make decorations for the next years tree and visit the circus and look at the tree by the Prudential! You can sing lots of Christmas carols before you go back to school.

Jeffrey Earnest
Squantum, Gr. 3

Christmas is sharing, giving, receiving and going to Mass to celebrate God's birthday. God is important, very important. I like it because you have no school and get a lot of presents.

John Timcoe
Squantum, Gr. 3

Christmas, as either a concrete event or an abstract concept means many things in my life. The celebration of Christmas brings many traditions and rituals to my mind. Among the most important of these is fellowship with my friends and family. However, upon arrival of every Christmas I experience many different kinds of growth in my spiritual and material life. I seem to learn just a little more about myself and others every year. On the other hand, often I think of Christmas as a concept rather than a day, because it represents everything I'm striving to become in life. I have made the idea of sharing and love one of my year long goals. It is resolved in my heart to preserve the spirit of Christmas in my life always and to eternally remember my dream of peace.

Merry McLaren
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is the time of year. With lots of fun and lots of cheer.

Everyone is full of joy. And every child receives a toy.

Suchitra Mattai
Sterling Middle, Gr. 6

At Christmas time I like to be kind and caring to my family. It is a time to be thankful for my mother, father, my good brother, and my grandfather. It is a time of year to be happy. I think it's time for all boys and girls to be happy.

Robert Hough
Atherton Hough, Age 11

This year Christmas means something very special to me because my mother had a baby boy on Friday, Dec. 2, 1981. His name is Danny Galigan. He is the best Christmas present in the world.

Timmy Galligan
Atherton Hough Gr. 3

Christmas is a time to forgive your enemies for the things they have done to you in the past. It's a time to be with your family and open presents.

Lisa Archibald
Atherton Hough Age: 12

Chanukah means getting together with my family to celebrate the Festival of Rededication because the Maccabees defeated the Macedonians and the first thing they did was clean the Holy Temple and rededicated it to God. It is called the Festival of Lights because we light a candle for each of the eight nights of Chanukah. Another Jewish custom is to give one present to each of the members of the family each night.

Faith Steiner
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

Christmas to me means more than just giving, getting, and having fun. It also means that you have to stop and think about the people who are poor and can't even have a nice dinner. These people to me are the real meanings of Christmas, because they have to make do with what they have. This is very sad and hard to understand, but this is what happens. If I could help all these people in the world who are poor and in need, that would be a Christmas in itself.

Michelle Lamie
Point Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is a time to share and love. On Christmas people come to my house Jesuses birthday, is on Christmas day. At Christmas time a lot of people share. On Christmas we get lots of present and love. People gives lots of gifts. If you are good you will get lots and lots of gifts. If you are bad you will not get any gifts. People love Christmas time. My friends get gifts to. I get lots of dolls. I love Christmas. I will be good for Christmas. My Christmas Story.

Leanne Byrne
Merrymount, Gr. 3

A little before Christmas my father, my brother, and I go to New Hampshire. We cut down a couple of big Christmas trees that we get for relatives or friends. Sometimes our friends come with us. After we get our tree, we go home and decorate it with bright lights, shiny silver tinsel, delicious candy canes and a bright glowing angel on top.

Most of all, the celebration of Christmas means remembering Jesus' birth.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas is all about Jesus because it's his birthday. Jesus is why we celebrate Christmas.

Brian Franklin
Squantum, Gr. 3

I like Christmas because you get a lot of presents. A lot of people celebrate. A lot of people sing Christmas carols. You get to decorate your Christmas tree. Santa comes and gives us presents, a whole lot of presents. You don't have to go to school because it is a special day.

Dorothy Livingston
Squantum, Gr. 3

Christmas means to me sledding down a hill and skating on a lake with all my friends. It means having a snow ball fight with my neighbor. It means opening my presents and singing Christmas carols. It is having a nice dinner with my family. Christmas means going into Boston and watching the Christmas parade. But most of all, Christmas means that I spend a Christmas vacation with my family.

Mike Franklin
Squantum, Gr. 5

I like Christmas because it is a time to think about people.

Christmas is a time to be generous and to be kind.

Enik Oster
Furnace Brook Gr. 2

Christmas means a lot to me. It means the birth of Christ. It taught us to love everyone. On His birthday we celebrate by giving and receiving gifts and showing that we care for each other.

Jacqueline Freel
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

Christmas is a time of great happiness and joy. People are full of love and remember the poor. If your little, like me, it means getting up on Christmas and seeing a beautiful tree with lots of presents underneath.

Nicole Noseworthy
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

Christmas is a joyful time when we celebrate a grand occasion that comes once a year on Dec. 25. Maybe some people can't have gifts, but Christmas is not only gifts. It's the happiness of the tree and the lights and Christmas itself.

George Rozanitis
Parker, Gr. 5

Christmas means being happy and being with your friends and family. Presents are nice, but what matters more is that people care for one another.

Frankie Lenardis
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

Christmas means childrens smiles, songs to sing, gifts to give and all kinds of friendly things. Christmas also means peace on earth and love carried on angels wings. But most of all Christmas is to me the birthday of our savior, the king of kings.

William F. Willhauck
Montclair, Gr. 4

Giving, Receiving, Opening, Decorating Holiday.

Sтивен McDonough
Snug Harbor, Gr. 4

Christmas means going out and buying presents for my family. I help other people get their cars out of the snow. It is helping my sisters put the Christmas tree up. I feel that Christmas is a great day.

Shawn Bulman
Parker, Gr. 3

Through the weeks before Christmas, people are busy shopping, purchasing, and wrapping gifts. It's a busy time, but Christmas is more to me than just spending money on someone else.

Christmas is a family celebration. A birthday party to which everyone is invited. A birthday for Jesus. A party when everyone sits with one another and gives and receives specially selected gifts.

Lori Riddle
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

It's time to share and give. It's lots of fun. We give our family lots of gifts. The Christmas tree is pretty colors.

Rachael Lahage
Furnace Brook Gr. 2

To me Christmas means sharing and loving with other people. The real reason for Christmas is the birth of Christ. One of my favorite holidays is Christmas because of the gifts and the clothing. This year we are going to get a big, nice tree probably at The Winfield House. We usually get one there. I hope nothing bad happens on this Christmas Eve. Last Christmas Eve my grandfather died.

Danny Walty
Parker, Gr. 5

Thanking God for the toys. Thanking God for my family. I love God. I love my friends.

I hope my mom is well in heaven. It is hard to live with out her. I love her very much.

Peggy McGowan
Parker, Gr. 2

Christmas means a lot to me. It is a time for good love and cheer. Time for special friends and relatives to gather 'round the Christmas tree and sing carols to show our unity. Christmas is a time for peace, a time for new friends to meet. It is such a lovely time of year.

Barbara White
Central Middle Gr. 6

What Christmas means to me, is when you pack food in a basket, and presents, and bring the baskets to the poor families. If they have no money to buy a tree, presents, or even food to celebrate Christmas, I think someone should give them money so that they can enjoy Christmas, too!

But, I really think people should stop thinking about themselves and presents and start thinking about Christ's birthday, like going to church or saying prayers to thank god for your good fortunes. If Christ hadn't been born we would never have Christmas today!

Melissa M. Young
Snug Harbor, Gr. 5

Christmas means love, giving gifts, like a new bike or even a new red truck, and plenty of other toys. It means getting together and celebrating Christ's birthday. Christmas is a very fun holiday.

David Chapman
Snug Harbor, Gr. 5

Christmas means to be thankful for all the people you love and all the people that love you. It also means you can put up your Christmas tree. On Christmas morning you will see presents under the tree. On Christmas I feel nice and I feel happy, too.

Jennifer Head

Christmas means to give love and to be happy because it is a very special day. You would not like to spoil it and ruin the fun. You have to remember to give your presents away.

Kerry Akin
Squantum, Gr. 3

Christmas means giving presents to each other to show that you love them. It is decorating the tree and smelling good food in the kitchen. It is a time to have fun and play with your toys. I love Christmas.

John Kelley
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

Christmas means loving and caring for all the people in the world. It is a time of joy and happiness. We give presents to your family and friends. Every Christmas my family and I go to Church to celebrate the Birth of Jesus.

Michael Lyons
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

Christmas is bright lights in every one's houses, and decorations on all the trees. Christmas is presents under the tree, with big bright wrappings all waiting for me.

One Christmas smell I love the most is when we bring in the tree. The smell of pine is wonderful.

I also enjoy the sounds of carolers singing, bells ringing, and horns playing loudly.

But best of all, is setting up the tree with my family and me.

Gregory Amante
Point Middle Gr. 7

Christmas, Christmas everywhere. Bells, wreaths, toys.

A merry time for all adults, as well as girls and boys.

To receive, to give, to love, to know, to share.

Especially - is - to care.
Michelle Burke

Marika Bellas
Montclair, Gr. 3

Christmas means a lot to me. Christmas is my favorite time of year because you get all kinds of toys and clothes. Santa brings all kinds of joy all over the world. It would mean a lot to the poor people and the people in the hospitals if we share our happiness with them.

Gerard Walsh
Montclair, Gr. 3

Christmas is my favorite holiday because it always has a special meaning to it. Everyone on that day helps each other. Christmas is a time of giving and receiving. It's a time when families and relatives meet each other again, and feel secure. I personally think this should happen all the time, but unfortunately it doesn't. If your birthday is on Christmas, you should feel extra special because Jesus, who is special, was born on that day.

What Christmas And Chanukah Mean To Me . . .

Christmas means it is time for your family to come together sharing presents. You also have a Christmas tree decorated with lights and ornaments.

Christmas is also the day Jesus Christ was born.

Lisa Reeves
Snug Harbor, Gr. 5

I like Christmas because I get to give gifts and receive them. I like the lights, the decorations, and the Christmas tree. Most important of all Jesus was born, and that's why I like Christmas so much.

Have A Nice Christmas.
Kimberly Anne Wilson
Snug Harbor, Gr. 5

When we think of Christmas, we think of Santa Claus, Christmas Trees, stockings and presents. But what is the true meaning of Christmas? To me Christmas is the Christ child who was born upon this day. It is the Herald Angels who came down from Heaven with good will for man. It is the three wise men who came bearing gifts. It's the magnificent star that shone so bright. It's the Holy that hid Christ. It's the spirit of giving in you and in me. That's What Christmas Means To Me.

Theresa Rutherford
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is a time to love and to share. Jesus was born Christmas Day. Christmas is a time to give and to be nice to everyone. You should be thankful that Jesus was born or we wouldn't be having Christmas.

Merry Christmas to everyone.

Lauren Rexford
Daniel Webster, Gr. 4

Christmas is a time of year when people smile, not frown. Families get together, have dinner, open presents, laugh, talk, play games, and have fun. It's too bad the spirit of Christmas isn't here all year around because people might not fight as much. You would not get a bad word from someone walking by you. Instead you would get a kind word like "Hi" or "Hello". People would talk to each other, not hide and say nothing. Christmas is a great time of year to me because I think people are nice to each other and get along better.

Clifford Jeli
Point Middle Gr. 8

I think about my family and friends and especially God. Christmas is giving and receiving lots of toys.

Adam DeYoung
Daniel Webster, Gr. 3

Christmas means to be with family and friends, receiving presents and giving presents. Thinking of Santa Claus and elves and thinking of Jesus.

Christine Marie Cullen
Daniel Webster, Gr. 5

Christmas means to be with my family and giving presents to each other. Christmas is my favorite holiday because it is a time for joy and happiness. I really love Christmas it's the peaceful time of the year.

April Kenney
Daniel Webster, Gr. 5

Christmas means a time for caring and sharing for other people. It's not being greedy and wanting all the presents to yourself in your family. I think it's better to give than receive presents. You can always buy for yourself later. But you get to share your presents with people who aren't so lucky. On Christmas you celebrate Jesus' birthday. I think Christmas is the best holiday.

Vickie Hicks
Point Middle Gr. 8

Christmas means Baby Jesus. It is the day He was born.

Shelly Spaulding
Parker, Gr. 1

Christmas means many things to me. Some good things and some bad things. One of the bad things though is Christmas shopping for all my relatives, because I have so many of them. Some of the good things are not having any school, getting all those Christmas presents, and even decorating the Christmas tree.

Bob Thomas
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is a season of joy and laughter. You wake up and you receive and give gifts. You go to church and then you come home. Your cousins come over and you talk to them and eat dinner with them. After dinner you might go out and sing carols, or people might sing them to you. You might play games and have fun. That is what Christmas means to me.

Derek Nickerson
Atlantic Middle Gr. 8

Christmas is a time of joy. Giving gifts and receiving gifts. It is loving, sharing, and caring. All those things are wonderful.

Deborah Gray

Christmas means a time of sharing and caring about the sick and lonely people. Best of all I get a lot of presents. You also get to see your relatives.

Maureen Flavin
Furnace Brook Gr. 3

Christmas is a wish made out of dreams and there is no limit for what you want and don't want.

Christmas is just a day, but it's a day of joy and peace. It's togetherness and love in your family. In so many ways Christmas is a really special day!

Stuart Slicis
Point Middle Gr. 8

Hanukkah, the Festival of lights is a happy, funny and joyous occasion. It is fun to get all those presents for eight days in a row. What I like most is when we light the candles on the eighth day and see them glittering in the dark. It's really great!

Sometimes I sit alone and read the story of Chanukah. Here's how it goes. The Jewish army was waging war against the Syrian Greek army. The Jewish army was led by the Maccabees. The Syrian Greek army was led by a man named Antiochus (Anty-Okas). Now they obviously didn't have lights at this time (165 B.C.E.), so, they burned olive-oil.

The head of the whole Jewish Army was Judah the Maccabee. In English that means "Hammer". Before the war ended in 162 B.C.E. the first Jewish temple was destroyed. The only thing remaining was a small dish of olive-oil. It would take the Jews a while before the temple was rebuilt, and like any building they needed light to see what they were doing.

So, they worked quickly. The oil was thought to only last one day, but a miracle happened there. The oil lasted eight days! The temple was rebuilt. The Jews won a great victory. All was well again.

Craig Chernov
Atlantic, Gr. 6

I like Hanukkah because I like the presents. My family likes Hanukkah. People lived in the land of Israel and every day of Hanukkah they lit the Shammash.

Diana Charam
Webster, Gr. 2

Chanukah is going to my grandmothers and lighting the Menorah and saying a prayer or two. Giving and receiving gifts from one another. We eat traditional foods like potato pancakes and we all play games like dreidle. Most of all is loving and caring.

That's what Chanukah means to me.

Jason Dressler

A time of red wrapping paper. A room lit up by a silver taper.

And lit up the world on that holy night.

Christmas to me means everything - in the morning sitting there under the tree, turning on the lights and catching the Christmas spirit. It means opening presents, going to Church, listening to the carolers, unfilling your stocking, and playing with your gifts.

Patrick Faherty
Squantum, Gr. 5

Christmas means being with my family and opening presents and eating good food. It means giving and receiving presents. It means going to Christmas Mass and celebrating Jesus' day of birth because that's what Christmas really is all about - the birth of our savior. Its not just opening presents or Santa Claus. We enjoy our presents and thinking of Santa, but there wouldn't be a Christmas without Jesus Christ.

Michael Lomanna
Point Middle Gr. 7

It is the day of Christ. You also get presents. You get toys. You get to see your grandparents. You say a prayer for sick people. I like to wake up and get presents!

Scott Breksa
Furnace Brook Gr. 3

Christmas means to me people being especially nice to each other, and sharing happy thoughts.

It's the sound of people saying, "Merry Christmas", as they pass each other. It's having that delicious turkey dinner with all the fixings on Christmas night. It's the smell of pines from the Christmas tree spreading through your entire house. It's the wonderful dreams you have at night. It's Santa Claus in his big fat red suit. Christmas means many things to me, but most important, it is remembering how it all started with the birth of Christ.

Christmas is a time for giving and remembering; we remember when Jesus was born and the presents from the kings.

They were such beautiful things; one king gave him riches and jewels while shepherds spread the glorious news; another king gave him Frankincense, the priceless odor; the king had excellent sense; a final king gave his precious perfume as he watched his face in rosey bloom. On Christmas day Jesus is born. Easter day for Jesus we mourn.

Christopher Greene
Merrymount, Gr. 5

Christmas means sharing joy and happiness with the people you love.

It's rewarding to have people open the presents you get for them and let them be happy because of your gifts. Christmas is fun for everyone in the world.

It's fun to bring in Toys for Tots so that millions of poor children can have something special.

That's what Christmas means to me.

Kelly Le Blanc
Parker, Gr. 5

Christmas means wrapping presents and giving them to each other. It's laughing and giggling and kissing under the mistletoe. I love Christmas.

Keith Norris
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

Christmas is my favorite holiday because I love getting presents from Santa, and from my mother and father, and from my two grandmothers. They are so good to me. I hope every one has a very Merry Christmas.

Clinton Fullerton
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

Christmas is something that comes to me every year. It is a very special, and exciting time. It is special because it is a time of loving, caring, helping, and giving. It is exciting because you wait anxiously to open your presents on Christmas Day. It goes by so fast, but I don't worry because it will be back again next year.

Chris Bentley
Atherton Hough, Gr. 4

What Christmas means to me is special lights on a tree or the beautiful glow of a freshly fallen snow.

It's wonderful toys for good girls and boys.

And something special for Mom and Dad to make them feel special and glad.

It is nice to receive. But it's better to give. It's a time to love and to live. It's a time to spread joy through out the land and make everyone's time very grand. Last year we see put out the tree.

And cuddle tight oir a cold Christmas night.

Andrea Carty
Broad Meadows, Gr. 8

A Christmas spirit is in the air.

A spirit of friendship and a time to share.

A time of giving from the Heart.

To those special people whom you owe a lot.

It's a time to think of the years in the past.

And hope that good times will always last.

So as you celebrate this very special day.

Remember the best gift is sharing your heart in a loving way.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

I like Christmas because you get a lot of toys and you can put up the Christmas tree.

Olimpio DiPlacido
Furnace Brook Gr. 3

I think Christmas is sort of weird because we are getting presents for someone else's birthday. I also think it is exciting because when you wake up there is an air of excitement in the house. Then when I go downstairs I think of what would've happened if Jesus hadn't been born.

Scott McNicol
Central Middle Gr. 6

I like to be helpful and put up decorations. I like to be nice. Christmas means so much to me.

Walter Spadorcia
Webster, Gr. 2

Christmas means toys and joys to me. Many fun things to do and special foods to eat.

William Brown
Furnace Brook Gr. 4

Christmas is a time to celebrate Jesus's birthday. It is a time to give presents to friends and relatives. A time for brightly decorated trees, lots of toys, and a time to love and care for one another.

Meissa Lucas
Furnace Brook Gr. 5

Christmas means a lot to me. It is a time for friends and relatives to get together to share their love and joy with one another. At this time, people may spend more time praying and thanking God for the lovely things he has given us. Also, it is a time to gather around the Christmas tree and stare at the sparkling lights. So this is what Christmas means to me.

Rachelle Crowley
Central Middle Gr. 6

Christmas means getting and giving gifts to and from the one's you love. It means carolling and playing in the snow.

Christmas means celebrating the birth of Jesus by having fun and enjoying the holiday with family.

To me Christmas means enjoying a week off from school and playing in the snow and having a good time with the one's you love.

Kerry Northup
Atlantic Middle, Gr. 8

Jesus was born on Christmas Day. The elves helped Santa because he had to go to a lot of houses. I wish I was an elf!

Nick Kesaris

It means to praise Jesus. It means to have fun. It means to share and care about people. It means to be thankful for what you are.

Lori Ann Pierce
Squantum, Gr. 3

Christmas means loving, giving and sharing. It is the yearly celebration of the birth of Christ. We decorate the Christmas trees and await the arrival of Santa that brings gifts to fill up our stockings with goodies.

Christine Ross
Merrymount, Gr. 5

To me Christmas means presents, Christmas trees, candles, giving, loving and decorations. Christmas is a time when people give to each other and everybody is happy and merry and the stores are filled with toys and holly. Christmas means love and joy and happiness. That's what Christmas means to me.

Sara Buckley
Merrymount, Gr. 5

Christmas is a time for giving. A time for loving and a time for sharing. I like Christmas not for getting gifts but to give gifts. It is a time for spending lots of money. A time for plays and giving and going away. I think Santa likes to see happy faces. Christmas is a happy holiday but not really for poor people. Christmas is my favorite holiday. Christmas is a time for sleigh rides and snowball fights. I like to make snowman in my back yard. I wish Christmas came every day.

Sarah Nelson
Merry Mount, Gr. 3

My youngest sister trying to write her name on a Christmas card.

My aunt who lives far away and hasn't spoken to me except in letters sending me a Christmas present that I have wanted for a long time.

The whole family getting together and not even kidding each other or "play fighting."

Altogether Christmas means getting together and having a good time, no matter what!

Rachael Kipp
Central Middle Gr. 6

Christmas is a happy time for me. It is a very special time of the year. I think Christmas is a time to think about not just yourself, everybody. Christmas means a lot to me. I wish Christmas came two times a year.

Christmas means fun and happiness. You can play in the snow and throw snowballs at your friends. I like Christmas because friends and families can get together. I like Christmas because I can play with my new toys. It's a time to give gifts.

Jeffrey Jones
Parker, Gr. 3

Christmas means a time when the whole family is together. Christmas is a time for opening presents, and thanking people for the gifts. Unfortunately some of us don't get to have Christmas because some of us are poor. I hope someday the poor will get to have a nice Christmas too.

Christmas is when Christ was born. He did wonderful miracles for the unfortunate. He cured very serious diseases like leprosy. I am very thankful to him. Love is the whole meaning of Christmas, and Christ is love, and that's what Christmas means to me.

Robert Trifone
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

Christmas means to me that it is a time to be happy. I enjoy Christmas time. It is a time to give to your friends and family. But most of all Christmas is a time to celebrate the birthday of baby Jesus. He was born on Dec. 25.

Christmas is also a time for thinking about the people who are not as fortunate as we are, like the soldiers in Lebanon who don't have a family to be with during Christmas.

I hope that this Christmas will be a happy one for me, and also for people throughout the world.

Hanukah is the celebration of religious freedom. A long time ago the king of the Jewish people said they had to pray to his statues. Some families hid in the mountains to escape the king's soldiers. They were the Maccabees. They learned to fight the soldiers to get their temple back. They defeated the enemy after many battles. They needed holy oil for their holy lamps that always burned in the temple. They found one bottle. It was only enough for one day. This one bottle lasted for eight days. That's why we celebrate Hanukah to remember the miracle of the light and the Maccabees victory. At dinner we have potato latkes. After dinner we have all the kids get a present from their parents. I really like Hanukah a lot and I'm glad I celebrate it.

Aaron Silverman

We think about the poor children who have no mother, father, sister or brothers to give them presents. We give to these children so they will have a good Christmas.

Susan McGunagle, Age 10
Atherton Hough

Chanukah means to me happiness and festivity. It's the joy of giving. It's the suspense when you open your gifts. It's seeing everyone's happy smiling faces when they open their gifts. It means getting Chanukah gelt (money), and also eating my mother's delicious homemade potato latkes. It means eating the peanuts you just won in your game of dreidel. All in all Chanukah is a wonderful time of the year for me!

Christmas means waiting impatiently for old Saint Nick to visit us and fill our stockings. It's a time when your neighborhood is lit up with lights. # What Christmas Means To Me . . .

It is a holiday and it is a Special day. You get lots of toys and stuffed animals. Santa comes on Christmas eve and gives out toys.

Joanne Casey

Christmas means a lot to me. It means happiness for everybody. It means being with your family. It means having fun too.

Nicholas Mastrogiacono
Parker, Gr. 3

Christmas is my favorite holiday because it is when Jesus was born. I like it because remember when they were giving Jesus presents. Well that's what I want to do this Christmas. This Christmas I won't take a lot but, I sure will give a lot.

A. J. Kobilian
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 4

I like Christmas because it has joy and love especially caring for others. I want a mini bike for Christmas too. I would like to share to the poor and others that don't have money. Because I feel bad for them. That's what Christmas means to me.

Robert Dunkle
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 4

To me Christmas means a lot. It means caring, sharing, and having fun. It means celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ. It means celebrating being with your family and friends. It means much more than Santa Claus and Christmas presents. It means "to be merry".

Christmas means that every girl and every boy should get a swell Christmas toy and that parents mean a lot to us too. They should get a present just the same as me and you. I think that the day will be filled with joy when we receive a Christmas toy.

Michael Kowalski
Central Middle Gr. 6

Christmas time is a time to share with the people in the world everywhere. On this great day we celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ, the son of God. With the jingle bells jingling and the carolers singing we celebrate this day in a very special way. That is what Christmas means to me.

Jonathan Dyer
Central Middle Gr. 6

Christmas is a time for gift giving, tree trimming, and feasting. Even though we have these customs, we must not forget the true meaning behind all this. It is the time when we remember Joseph and Mary, having their child, Christ. In our house we remember this holiday by placing a manger with Christ, Mary and Joseph in our livingroom.

Karyn Mosher
Central Middle, Gr. 6

The true meaning of Christmas is that you share your love and joy and celebrate the true meaning when baby Jesus was born. That's why we give presents to one another. It is giving, not receiving. And I love Christmas the most because I share it with my family.

Robin Parker
Point Middle, Gr. 6

It's a time to give to those you care about. It's a time to share your thoughts with one another. We celebrate this day because it was when Jesus was born. I like to see all the lights in the city and to go to different places on that special day. The special reason why I love Christmas is because I like giving to people.

Michelle Burns

What Christmas really means to me.

Matthew Giese

...sharing, caring and loving.

...the joy of giving.

...the precious squeals and happy faces of little children as they tear open their presents.

But most importantly, Christmas is the day we celebrate the birth of baby Jesus.

Eileen Sullivan
Point Middle Gr. 7

Christmas time is always a big celebration in my house. It starts off with Christmas Eve. My whole family gets together on this night. We have a very big dinner which includes spaghetti with lobster sauce. Then, my mother brings out lobster and seven different kinds of fishes. Dinner lasts until 11 p.m. and during this time we play Christmas Carols. When we get through eating it's late, but some of the adults go to the midnight Mass. Finally, we put our stockings up and go to bed.

When morning comes, my sister awakens and gets everyone up. No one ventures down stairs until everyone is up.

We thank our Mother and Father for all the wonderful gifts. Then we go to the manger scene and put baby Jesus in the crib.

We all have a lot of fun and can't wait to do it again the following year.

Tricia Lomanno
Point Middle, Gr. 8

Brian Hayden

Christmas has always been the best time of the year for me. It's one of the few times in the year when all of my family gets together. On Christmas Eve we always meet at my grandmother's house. When we enter the house is full of joyous voices and happy faces. There is a buffet with sweet smelling treats and you could smell the spicy aroma of the baking turkey.

In the other room, there's a beautiful Christmas tree. After we eat dinner we start opening our gifts and exchange loving holiday kisses.

Tracy McNeill
Point Middle, Gr. 8

Christmas Eve is one of the best nights of the year for me. That night is very special because I see all of my aunts and uncles, cousins and grandparents. As my relatives come in, I notice their happy faces bringing smiles to ours.

I get to open the presents my relatives have brought to me. I have to wait till Christmas morning to open up the gifts I got from my mother and father.

After everyone is gone, I toss and turn in my bed anticipating the morning and wondering what I'll get.

Quincy Bows But DeCristofaro Optimistic

Although Rick DeCristofaro's debut as Quincy boys' basketball coach resulted in a heartbreaking loss, he was extremely pleased with the Presidents' performance and sees good things in the future.

Quincy, dropped a 49-48 squeaker to Walpole last week, played Hingham Tuesday, will play at Weymouth North Friday night at 8, will play in the Christmas Tourney at Weymouth South Dec. 27 and 30 and will face Arlington Dec. 28 at 5:15 p.m. at Boston University.

In the Weymouth South Tournament Quincy will face the host team at 8 o'clock on the 27th while North Quincy meets Weymouth North at 6:30. The championship game will be at Dec. 30 and the consolation game at 6:30.

"I was heartened by our showing at Walpole and the boys displayed a lot of character," said DeCristofaro, who replaced Joe Amoroso, who resigned after 10 years to accept a job as Boston University assistant. "We trailed all the way but by only a few points."

"We trailed, 24-20, at halftime and, although we moved to within a point several times, we never could quite catch up. We scored in the final seconds to again cut the lead to a point but time ran out on us. If the boys continue to play with as much desire and spirit, I feel we will do all right. I don't know if we are ready to play the top teams in the Suburban League yet, but we could pull a few surprises."

Bill Shaughnessy sparked the Presidents with 16 points and had five assists, while Jim Stasio had eight points, pulled down 10 rebounds and also had five assists.

DeCristofaro also had good words for Denis Downing, Mike Flynn and Mike Bates, all of whom rebounded well.

Somersault Gym Team Shows Promise

The Somersault Center Class III girls' gym team of North Quincy recently traveled to Stoughton for its first meet of the season.

The team has improved considerably over last year and shows much promise.

Two girls looked good in their first USFG meet ever. Stephanie Shamshak of Dorchester scored 27.5 for her first try at the compulsories, while Kelley Camcon of Milton made a fine showing for her first time out, scoring 28.04 all around and looking good in floor and vault.

Marianne Janik of Milton looked good as she placed fifth on vault and all-around, taking third on the beam and sixth on uneven bars. Her sister, Carolyn, improved her uneven bar routine to 7.75 and fifth place.

Allyson Lawrence of Quincy scored 28.15 in all-around, Anne O'Sullivan of Quincy scored 29 points overall and made it through a tough uneven bar routine, and Maureen Fures of Quincy finished seventh in all-around at 31.3. She placed third on bars at 8.1 and is expected to qualify for the states this season.

Gymnastics classes are held every day from 3 to 9 p.m. at the center in North Quincy and are for preschool through high school age boys and girls. Information regarding the center can be obtained by calling 328-9405 after 3 p.m. and asking for coach Tom Fontecchio.

North Rallies, Miller Likes What He Sees

The North Quincy boys' basketball team rallied to defeat Cathedral High of Boston, 53-51, last week in its opener and coach Ed Miller saw a lot of things he liked.

The Raiders will host Somerville Friday at 8 p.m. will play at Walpole Monday night at 8 and will play Weymouth South Christmas Tournament Dec. 27 and 30. They will play Weymouth North in the 6:30 opener on the 27th while Quincy meets Weymouth South at 8. The championship game will be at 8 Dec. 30 and the consolation game at 6:30.

"The boys played with a lot of desire against Cathedral and came back strong after trailing, 28-24, at the half," Miller said. "We are very small but this is one of the quickest teams I've had and our quickness paid off in this game."

Junior forward Ken Runge led the Raiders' attack with 17 points and he also had 12 rebounds for an outstanding night's work. But is was senior co-captain Paul Ryan who led the game, sinking three vital free throws in the late going. He wound up with 16 points.

"As I said before, Paul is one of the finest guards in our league and he played a fine game," Miller said. "He showed his poise in hitting those big foul shots. And Runge played a tremendous game."

12 Quincy, North Playing Suburban All-Stars

The Quincy and North Quincy football teams are well-represented on the Suburban League all-star team.

Named to the offensive team were Mike Notarangelo of Quincy and Jerry Martin, Steve Hogan and Jack Bolster of North.

Selected on the defensive team were John Cacciatore and Bill Shaughnessy of Quincy and Nick Gelsomini,

Upset Weymouth S.

North Girls Small In Numbers, Big In Pride

The North Quincy girls' winter track teams have compiled an amazing 34-1-1 record since Lou Tozzi took over as coach five years ago, the lone loss being to Weymouth South last season.

This winter Tozzi has a young team with only five seniors and his smallest squad ever in numbers.

"We lost some outstanding leadership with the graduation of 11 seniors including Linda Kennedy, Sheila Barrett and Mary Gannon," said Tozzi. "But we're hoping our great tradition, pride and motivation can keep us competitive."

He feels much better after last week's opening when the Raiderettes avenged last year's defeat and upset Weymouth South, 45-41, at Northeastern.

The North girls faced Waltham Tuesday and Friday will meet Brookline at 3:30 at Northeastern.

As usual, the Raiderettes will be strongest in the distance runs. The cross country team this fall was unbeaten Suburban League champion and won the Eastern Mass. crown for the fourth year in a row.

Leading the pack is sophomore Mary Ann Kelleher, who can run anything from the 600 to the two-mile. She was undefeated in cross country dual meets, was third in last year's state meet in the two-mile and holds the school record of 11:09.

Senior Tracy Corrigan is underrated, in Tozzi's opinion. She was sixth in the state meet two-mile last year and should improve this year.

Freshman Tricia Barrett, who won once and was second in her other six cross country meets; junior Linda Lindentelzer, who missed all of last season with an injury but made a fine comeback in cross country; junior Meg Leary, one of the league's most versatile performers; freshman Ann Toland, an impressive newcomer, and sophomore Tricia Leary, a much-improved veteran, round out the distance group.

The middle distances are question marks with junior Lisa Fitzgerald the best bet. She placed in the state meet 600 last year and should be one of the best in the league this fall. "But we need her in sprints," said Tozzi.

Other hopes in the middle distances are senior Alice Reilly, a veteran; sophomore Teresa Collings, who shows great potential; junior veteran JoAnn Zdzankowski and senior veteran Liz Toland.

Tozzi has no depth but good talent in the sprints with Fitzgerald leading the way. She will run the 50-yard dash and also the 300 when needed. Freshman Laura Ciulla, a fine looking newcomer who stars with the Quincy Track Club; and junior Georgia Traficante, one of the league's best athletes, are other fine sprinters and Traficante will also run the 300.

Maria McGurl, a senior and school record holder, is the only hurdler and she is being counted upon as a top scorer.

The shot put could be a strong event with sophomore Noreen Connolly doing 34 feet last year and expected to do better this winter; senior Eileen Crehan, trying the shot for the first time after excelling in the javelin in spring track; and juniors Missy Silkwood and Denise Sheilds making up a potentially good group.

"North is strong in the high jump with Traficante third in the state meet last winter at 5-4 and expected to be the best in the league this season," Fitzgerald and Collings.

Tozzi is undecided about his relay team but Fitzgerald is certain. Other possibilities are sophomore Laura and Sharon Barrett, freshman Leanne Fitzgerald, soph-

"We've got a lot of work to do yet but we could surprise and be very competitive if our veterans can carry the load while we develop some of our younger people," said Tozzi.

The North coach paid tribute to his assistants, Mike Burke and Jeff Hennessy. "Both are very much responsible for our success," he said. "They are hard working, dedicated and very loyal."

In the opening win over Weymouth South the Raiderettes' winners were Kelleher in the 600 (1:32.8), Meg Leary in the 1000 (3:01.1), Lindentelzer in the two-mile (12:33.9), McGurl in the hurdles (8.3), Traficante in the high jump (5-1), and Crehan in the shot put (34-8 3/4).

Fitzgerald was second in the dash, Ciulla third in the 300, Corrigan second in the 1000, Tricia Barrett second (a fine 5:29.8) and Walsh third in the mile, Tricia Leary second in the two-mile, clinching the win, and Connolly second in the shot put.

David Jennette scored nine points and dominated the boards. Anthony Battistone controlled the attack, dishing out several assists and adding four points; Mike Scolaro scored his five points in the first period to keep things close; Ricky Morris and Billy Hutton chipped in with a basket each and Joe LeFleur and Jimmy Shugrue helped the cause with some aggressive defense.

Ramponi Leads Quincy 42-39 Over North

Pete Ramponi put on a spectacular shooting performance that propelled the Quincy High School basketball team to a nine-point lead early in the third period but the Presidents had to hang on for a 42-39 victory over an underdog North Quincy team.

Quincy's Buzzy Ciriello fouled out in the first minute of the fourth period and Dick Drake was forced to play under wraps with four fouls, which enabled North to come up with three straight baskets late in the game for the three-point final margin.

Gus Cuneo, the only experienced player on Coach John Mullarkey's Raider team, led all the scorers with 23 points while Ramponi had 14 for the Presidents.

1 Goal In 2 Games

Quincy Icemen Sputter

Bob Sylvia, starting his 18th year as Quincy's hockey coach, said at the start of the season his big problem this season would be scoring goals.

This fear was borne out last week as the Presidents could score only one goal in losing to North Quincy and Brockton.

The Presidents played Cambridge Rindge and Latin last night (Wednesday), and Friday night will play at Brookline at 6 p.m.

Quincy trailed North Quincy, 3 - 0, after two periods and Sylvia felt the game was still within reach.

"We weren't worried when it was 3-0 because one goal and we're back in there," he said. "Billy (Cahill) played well in goal and kept us in the game in the first two periods. You have to give North plenty of credit, though, they hung tough and we ran out of gas.

North's first goal in the opening period came when Rich Horrigan's shot bounced off Cahill's chest and over his head to the net. The Raiders added two goals in the middle period.

Quincy turned in a good performance Saturday at Brockton but lost, 3 - 1, despite the excellent play of Cahill, who had 30 saves.

As good as Cahill was, the Brockton goalie was even better as he was peppered with shots but, with the exception of Mike Hays' goal, he couldn't be beaten.

Hays, who earlier had been robbed by the goalie on a breakaway, scored the Presidents' only goal of the week with Eddie Boyle having an assist.

North Wins, Bows

The North Quincy hockey team, with an easy win over Quincy and a tough loss to Suburban League power Newton North last week, will host Waltham Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will play at Brookline at 6 o'clock.

Kevin Jago's Raiders were impressive in their opener as they scored four goals in the third period and topped Quincy, 7 - 0.

North took a 1-0 lead in the opening period as Rich

Horrigan's shot bounced off Quincy goalie Bill Cahill's chest and over his head into the net. Bob Sylvia's Presidents outshot the Raiders, 11 - 8, in the period.

North kept up the attack in the early moments of the second period and Scott Messina and Mike Doherty scored less than a minute apart. John Reinhardt assisting on Doherty's goal.

The Raiders opened up in the final session as Messina netted his second goal with Bob Reidy assisting. Keith Smith scored unassisted. Dave Tapper scored with Messina assisting and Jay D'Angelo scored the final goal unassisted.

"I thought the kids were a little tense at the outset and we opened tight because we were a little nervous," said second-year coach Jago. "It is difficult to open with such an intense rivalry. We were making a lot of mistakes and weren't playing team hockey, but we adjusted and shut the door on them."

Matt Higgins was outstanding in goal for the Raiders.

Saturday night North turned in another fine performance but Newton North, one of the better teams in the league, held on for a 4 - 3 victory.

Reidy, who had scored in the opening period, scored his second goal and Smith scored in the third period but the Raiders couldn't quite catch up.

Barrett Has Good Season With Curry

Freshman quarterback Bob Barrett of Quincy had an outstanding season for the Curry College football team this fall.

Barrett, who played his high school ball at Cathedral, went to Curry with the intention of being a defensive back.

But first-year coach John Doherty made him the Colonels' starting quarterback and he broke the college's single season passing yardage mark with 1544 yards. The previous mark was 1507 set by Steve Leach in 1979. Barrett completed 95 of 198 passes for five touchdowns and was the top passer in the New England Football Conference.

One of Curry's top defensive players was sophomore Mike Donovan, who had several tackles and quarterback sacks.

One of Doherty's assistant coaches was Peter Cella of Quincy, who had been a Quincy High aide for several years.

BOB BARRETT

Watts 3rd Top Scorer For Manhattanville

Julie Watts of Quincy is the third leading scorer for the Manhattanville College women's basketball team, which is ranked fifth in the latest NCAA Div. 3 East poll.

Julie has scored 61 points in eight games for a 7.6 per game average, has the best foul shooting average (.722) hitting on 13 of 18 shots, and leads the team in blocked shots with 15.

The team has a 6-2 record.

Quincy Wrestlers Pin Durfee

Quincy's new wrestling coach, Tim Cahill, got off to a good start last week when the Presidents defeated Durfee to Fall River, 39-30.

The Presidents wrestled at Stoughton last night (Wednesday), will host Needham Friday at 7 p.m., will be at Braintree next Tuesday at 10 a.m. and next Thursday and Friday will compete in the Lowell holiday tournament.

Quincy trailed early but Larry Taglieri pinned his opponent at 134 pounds and Dan Macauley pinned his opponent in the 157-pound class as the Presidents came from behind for the win.

Other Quincy winners were Dave Coulter by pin at 114; Mike Notarangelo by pin at 128; John Cacciatore by forfeit at 140; Kevin Cabezas by pin at 188 and Chris Connor by 7-3 decision in the heavyweight bout.

Chris Mackey lost at 100 pounds, Ted McLelland lost at 107, Bob Cabezas lost at 121, Chris Constatos lost at 147 and Gary Minassian lost at 169.

4 Track Club Members Compete At Boys Town

Four members of the Quincy Track Club recently competed in the National Junior Olympic cross country championships at the famed Father Flanagan's Boys Town in Omaha, Nebraska.

More than 1500 runners from all 50 states competed in 10 different age groups. The footing was treacherous due to six inches of snow which had fallen earlier in the week.

In the Bantam girls (ages 9 and 10) Amy Janus of Wollaston, age 9, finished 59th over the 3000-meter course. Amy attends St. Ann's School and was the Achievement Award winner during the past cross country season. She was also Rookie of the Year in track and field for 1983.

In Midget boys, Brian

Barrett, competing in his third Junior Olympics, found the course and snow to his liking as he finished 15th and won a medal. Brian, 12, attends Central Middle School and was MVP this fall in cross country.

Patricia Barrett also enjoyed the snow and, running a 4000-meter course in the girls 13 and 14 division, she placed 12th, the highest any Quincy girl has done. Patricia was the Cinderella story this fall. Running as a freshman at North Quincy High under coach Lou Tozzi, she progressed from being above average to #2 runner on the squad and finished 13th in the all-state meet.

However, not everyone had a romp in the snow. Finn Kelly, 14, couldn't get the proper footing in the boys' 13-14 4000-meter race and slogged his way to 27th place.

Since 1979 when he won the National Junior Olympics as a 10-year old, he has placed no worse than third coupled with record-setting runs at Van Courtland Park in New York (he received MVP this year) in 1981 and 1983. It appeared this was his year.

"He'll be there next year, said Coach Jeff Hennessy. "All these kids deserve credit for trying. It's like a rainy, muddy football game, anyone can win it, you just flip a coin. It really doesn't prove who's the best, but we're trying to bring the kids along slowly, and give them a little exposure. The fact that they only run twice a week attests to the fact that they are truly talented. You'll be hearing about them for a long time."

Stay Alive!
 By John Valante
RED DYE # 4 SEESAW
 For almost half a century, starting in 1929, the chemical food coloring known as Red No. 4 has been used in maraschino cherries and many other foods. In 1939, it was approved for drugs and cosmetics. Then, in 1964, a warning signal was hoisted. Studies showed that when ingested, the coloring adversely affected dogs. On the basis of that finding, the order went out: No more Red No. 4 in food or anything else taken internally. A year later the processors of maraschino cherries were back at the FDA arguing that limited use of the additive to color cherries would not hurt anyone. FDA relented - for cherries and short-term use for some drugs.
 Then, in 1976, the FDA concluded it had acted too impulsively. New studies raised doubts about the safety of the dye, no matter how little is consumed. A request that industry provide evidence to the contrary drew a mute response. Result: 47 years after it was first used, Red No. 4 has been permanently and irrevocably banned from maraschino cherries and drugs taken internally.

Favorite friend is in a lavish mood while you're feeling pragmatic and thrifty. Long-distance communication can be directly linked with your future plans.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Local Groups Aid Needy 332 Families, Hundreds Of Others Helped At Christmas

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The spirit of Christmas was extended to some 332 needy families in Quincy and the South Shore by several local organizations which distributed food baskets and toys.

Hundreds of people confined to hospitals, homes or institutions were also remembered this holiday season.

The Koch Club of Quincy provided 55 families with turkeys, fresh fruits, and canned foods as well as wrapped Christmas gifts for children.

The club was able to continue its 28 year tradition with the help of church, community and social service agencies.

Hundreds of new toys were also delivered through local charitable agencies, as were knitted items and clean used clothing.

Richard J. Koch, Koch Club executive director, thanked those who assisted with the program and "made the holidays a more enjoyable occasion for hundreds of those in need."

The Quincy City Club distributed clothing to Pine Street Inn and Rosie's Place, gifts to Wollaston II and Medfield State Hospital, pajamas to a detoxification center on the South Shore and presents to residents of a half-way house for alcoholics.

Patients at Long Island Hospital were presented two 12 inch T.V.s, two table radios, tapes and other items.

The City Club also provided gifts for the annual Christmas party for the retarded.

The club's ninth annual Christmas holiday project has been the most successful, said Koch, also City Club president.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks distributed 127 Christmas baskets with turkeys and all the trimmings for a holiday meal.

About 30 club members spent their own cars and trucks to deliver the baskets to needy families.

The money for the baskets was donated by the members, said lodge secretary George Alcott.

Alcott said the organization helped about the same number of families this year as last year. Thomas Walsh, esteemed leading knight, was this year's chairman.

Alcott noted that the lodge received many thank-you calls from grateful families who had received the food baskets.

Capt. Gerald Stephens, commanding officer of the Quincy Temple Corps of the Salvation Army in Quincy, estimated his organization would assist 150 families with food and toys.

Families that applied to the Salvation Army were to visit the Salvation Army this week to select toys which they wrap and give to their children.

Parcels of food including canned goods, flour, butter, cheese, turkey stuffing and vouchers for turkeys according to family size were also to be distributed.

Stephens said the money from the Salvation Army kettles helps pay for the toys and food.

While donations at the kettles have been up from last year, they are down from last year's mail donations, he said.

But when it's all over, that's when we'll be able to tell, Stephens said.

"The people on the South Shore have been very generous and kind."

"I want to say thank you for everything, not just at Christmas but all year."

Apartment Owners Protest 10 Per Cent Tax Exemption

By TOM HENSHAW

Roger Lyons, spokesman for Quincy's apartment house owners, has charged that Mayor Francis X. McCauley's proposed 10 per cent tax break for small homeowners "discriminates against those who pay rent."

"We thought that 100 per cent revaluation would straighten out an old injustice," said Lyons. "Apparently it is not. Apparently rent-paying tenants are going to continue to support others in Quincy."

McCauley said earlier this week that his administration is studying the provision of a state law that would make it possible to exempt up to 10 per cent of the average assessed value of an owner-occupied home.

This would mean that a home that is valued at $65,000, which will be roughly the average assessed value of Quincy homes under 100 per cent reval, could receive a $6,500 exemption.

McCauley said the exemption would reduce the residential taxes for owner-occupied buildings but at the same time the taxes on apartment buildings would go up.

"It is part of the law and we have to look at it," said McCauley. "The option is up to the mayor to recommend to the City Council. We will make no determination until late January."

Lyons said the apartment house owners were aware of the state law that allowed tax credits in "certain situations."

"We interpreted that as meaning housing cases," he said. "That's fine. But a 10 per cent exemption across the board is a gross injustice."

"We proved in court three years ago that we were being asked to pay more than our share. 50 per cent more than the small homeowners. The tenants had to make up the difference."

"We thought that under 100 per cent reval we would be treated equal but now the mayor wants to give a 10 per cent tax break to home owners and he's telling the tenants to pick up the difference."

McCauley said the possibility that rent-payers would pay more under the 10 per cent exemption "is a good question. That is something that will require some analysis."

North Quincy Breaks Foiled

Two attempted house-breaks on East Squantum St., North Quincy, possibly by the same two men, were foiled Monday when they were scared off by residents who happened to be home.

Donna Bulka of 331 East Squantum St. told police someone rang her bell and she found no one at the door. Later, she heard noises at the back door and whoever it was fled when she investigated.

About 20 minutes later, Mrs. Mabel Hayford of 226 East Squantum St. said she heard her doorbell ring but she ignored it. Later, she heard a noise at the door and two men fled when she approached.

Mrs. Hayford described them as in their late teens, thin, with dark hair and dark clothing. One was about 5-foot-5 and the other about 5-foot-8.

A radio cassette player and some tapes were reported stolen Saturday by Denise Correla of Hull from her 1980 Datsun at the North Quincy MBTA station. Entry was gained by breaking a window.

'Mystery' Surrounds Second Inaugural

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will be sworn in to a second term as mayor of Quincy Tuesday, Jan. 3, amid an atmosphere of intrigue.

McCauley, who speaks from notes, not text, declined to disclose any of the contents of his inaugural address except to say it will go 20 minutes at a maximum.

"There will be nothing startling," he said, adding cryptically, "Of course, you never know."

City Councilor James A. Sheets, who claims the five votes necessary to be Council President, said he will nominate someone for the post of Clerk of the Committees but he declined to disclose her name.

"I have someone in mind," he said. "But I have not had a chance to talk to the councillors. I have an obligation to tell them before they read it in the newspapers."

Sheets said his nominee is someone "who has the skills to do the job — typing, shorthand, making machine transcripts and filing. She is well qualified."

The present clerk of the Committees, Jeanne Reardon, left the job this week to take over as the mayor's personal secretary.

Before the 1983 Council session ended, an effort was made to introduce a new clerk of committees, a relative of one of the councillors, but the move was beaten back by Sheets and his supporters.

"I think a majority of the councillors will support this appointment," said Sheets.

The School Committee is also scheduled to elect a new vice chairman but some question has been raised as to whether the favorite, Joan Picard, will be elected at the first meeting.

One of her votes, Mary Collins, the present vice

Was It A Good Or A Bad Year?

By TOM HENSHAW

The year got off to an incredibly bad start.

The State Supreme Court affirmed a lower court ruling that Quincy overassessed the General Dynamics Shipyard by many millions of dollars for the fiscal years 1977 through 1980 and would have to repay $12.1 million to the city's largest taxpayer.

If paid back in a lump sum out of tax receipts, the $12.1 million figure would represent about 30 per cent of the tax levy for fiscal 1984, which was expected to be in the vicinity of $44 million under the limits of Proposition 2½ after 100 per cent revaluation is completed.

The decision could be appealed to the federal court only on constitutional issues and, try as they would, the City Law Department could find none of those.

"There is no question that when we pay the money back there will be an adverse effect on city finances for many years," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. "It will impact everyone in the city, including the case that the city workers have for a raise in pay."

The mayor said two methods for repayment appeared to be open to the city.

One would be to obtain legislative preemption to float a bond issue for the $12.1 million, like Boston did in the Tregor case. It would be expensive since Quincy's bond rating stood at Ba, the lowest of any city in the state.

Or, said McCauley, the city could arrange with General Dynamics to waive future taxes on the shipyard until the repayment is made up, which would also be a belt-tightening proposition since General Dynamics accounted for 7.5 per cent of the city's tax levy.

City Solicitor William B. Golden was astonished that the Supreme Court had backed up the earlier decision by Superior Court Judge Hiller B. Zobel.

One of the key rulings by Judge Zobel was that the projected earnings of the shipyard should be taken into consideration when calculating its value, a radical departure from the normally accepted methods of evaluating property.

"The court took an assessment method that no one ever saw before and said that the assessors should have used it in 1977," said Golden. "You can't anticipate anything like that. It's like criticizing a person for going to a baseball game and not bringing a football with him."

But Golden found one potential bright spot in Judge Zobel's decision and its confirmation by the Supreme Court.

"If the company has a busy shipyard down there," he pointed out, "Quincy may make out better than before if its earnings go up. The burden of the past may be on the city but the burden of the future may be on General Dynamics."

City Hospital, which has pretty much vanished from the headlines since its management was taken over by Hospital Corp. of America in January, 1981, was back in the news when the Board of Managers asked HCA to remove Director James E. Lowenhagen. HCA complied, transferring him to a hospital in New Jersey.

But City Councilors Joanne Condon and John J. Lydon Jr. leaped to Lowenhagen's defense, charging that the executive sessions held by the Board of Managers on Dec. 21 and Jan. 18, at which Lowenhagen's performance as hospital director was discussed, were in violation of the State Open Meeting Law.

"We are concerned that the hospital is going backwards," said Condon, noting that prior to the

Cause Over $260,000 Damage Arsonists Blamed For 3 Christmas Fires

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
More than a quarter million dollars damage resulted from three Christmas night fires in the north end of Quincy and fire officials believe they were set by the same person or persons.

Damage from the three fires is expected to exceed $269,000.

The largest of the three, a four alarm fire, occurred about 10:30 p.m. Sunday at the Boston Harbor Marina where a warehouse sustained about $250,000 damage to the building and contents, said Dep. Carl Valenti.

Quincy's Fire Department was aided by that of Braintree, Milton, Weymouth, Needham and Boston in fighting the fire at the site of A & W Canvas Co. and Cott Beverages.

About a dozen firefighters sustained minor frostbite and three to four smoke inhalation but remained on the scene battling the fire at the building which was totally destroyed, Valenti said.

Another firefighter, John Martell, slipped on ice and received a laceration on his right hand. He was treated at Quincy City Hospital and released.

Fire Department apparatus were still on the scene Tuesday at the fire which Dep. Carl Valenti said was "positively set" because the building had been totally locked and there was no source of ignition.

Earlier at 7:01 p.m. the Fire Department responded to a two alarm fire at Church of the Good Shepherd, 308 W. Squantum St., which resulted in about $15,000 damage to the building and contents.

According to Deputy Chief Valenti, the church was broken into, vandalized and a fire started in the kitchen area.

Valenti said there was considerable damage to the church such as front door smashed, wine chalice thrown at the altar and boulder thrown through a window.

The fire was definitely arson, said Valenti, because the building had been locked for the night.

At 11:27 p.m., fire broke out at an Exxon Gas Station at 224 West Squantum St. resulting in about $4,000 damage.

Valenti said the Milton Fire Department assisted the Houghs Neck ladder company in fighting the fire which was started in the seat cushion of a car parked in the garage.

The car owner's name was not available. Valenti said the gas station had been closed for a few days before the fire occurred.

No injuries were reported at the church or garage fires.

Valenti said that because of mutual aid from neighboring fire departments, the rest of the city was in no danger while the three fires were being fought.

"We think all the fires are related," said Valenti, "because they all took place in such close proximity."

"The church is just a quarter of a mile from the gasoline station, and all the fires took place in the north end of the city."

Valenti said the fires are being investigated by the Fire Prevention Bureau, State Marshal's Office, and Quincy Police Department.

Pre-Christmas Fire Causes $10,000 Damage

A pre-Christmas fire in half of a Quincy Point duplex resulted in about $10,000 damage and no reported injuries.

Deputy Chief Carl Valenti said the Dec. 23 fire, at the home of Mrs. Shirley Olson of 14 Union St., appears to have been caused by a short circuit in a defective lamp and extension in the living room.

At the time of the fire, no one was home at the house owned by Mrs. Rose Kennedy of 18 S. Walnut St., Valenti said.

The fire did not extend to the other side of the house, said Valenti, but the apartment occupied by Mrs. Olson and her son was "completely destroyed."

"They lost all their Christmas stuff, too," added Valenti.

License Board Special Meeting Thursday

The Quincy License Board will hold a special meeting today (Thursday) at 10 p.m. to consider requests from:

- 200 Newport Ave. Realty Trust for 7,500 gallons of diesel fuels, under ground, at 200 Newport Ave. extension.

- Vorelec, Inc., 625 Southern Artery, for 250 gallons of gasoline in tanks of (25) motor vehicles, above ground, and 1,000 gallons of waste oil, under ground.

- Vorelec, Inc., 625 Southern Artery, 40 gallons of gasoline in tanks of (60) motorcycles.

- Nick's Volkswagen, Inc., a Motor I (new car) license, sales and service at 625 Southern Artery.

- Sumuki-Yamaha of Quincy, Inc., 625 Southern Artery, a Motor I license for sale and service of Sumaki and Yamaha motorcycles.

No meeting was held Tuesday because of a holiday recess.

Home Ransacked

John White of Morton St., West Quincy, reported to police Sunday that thieves smashed two windows in sliding panel doors to gain entry and ransacked his home. It was not determined immediately what had been taken.

Baharian Steps Down, Shipyard Lands Contract

advent of HCA the hospital was frequently the target of charges of political maneuvering.

"If the Board does not like someone and gets rid of him I am concerned that it is overstepping its bounds. The Board of Managers is the mayor's watchdog at the hospital. But the Board wants to call the shots on the everyday operation."

The Board of Managers promised a statement on l'affaire Lowenhagen shortly but, as the controversy raged, Chairman Lawrence F. O'Donnell released the crux of the Board's displeasure with the director.

Lowenhagen had said O'Donnell, signed a contract with a group of anesthesiologists in August "wherein $220,000 was given as an advance to the group without interest. This was not brought to the attention of the Board of Managers until December. This is not standard procedure nor is it something that we would have approved."

"All of us on the board are concerned about the wellbeing of the City Hospital," said board member Richard Corner. "We hated to see it come out in this fashion. But we couldn't let this thing go."

Another longtime city official bit the dust in the McCauley regime when the Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Planning Board for 17 years, asked the mayor not to reappoint him for another five-year term.

"I'm getting older," said the 67-year-old Baharian, who is pastor emeritus of the Quincy Point Congregational Church and director of the 1000 Southern Artery senior citizens housing complex. "I'm starting to wind down. This seems like a good time to bow out. The Planning Department is in good shape. With a new administration, it's a good idea to change direction."

McCauley and Baharian both denied that there was any pressure by the administration to get Baharian to go quietly.

"It was my idea," insisted Baharian.

"None of us here discussed the job with him," said McCauley.

But many were skeptical.

Mayor McCauley presented an optimistic but cautious picture of the city's financial situation — BGD (Before General Dynamics) — in the third year of Proposition 2½ in his mid-term address of the City Council and the public.

"In fiscal 1984," he said, "the city of Quincy should bottom out of Prop. 2½. We have about run the course on layoffs and closed school buildings and that type of approach to complying with Prop. 2½."

"What we have to do in the future is find better and more efficient ways to deliver city services to our constituency here in the city of Quincy."

But that was BGD. John J. Lydon Jr. was reelected to a second one-year term as president of the City Council but the usually routine vote was not unanimous. Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr. voted "present."

"I do not agree with the leadership of the Council," said Koch, a freshman councillor. "I feel that we on the Council are not showing the Council are not showing has been imposed on the other city departments. We have much too elaborate setup on the Council."

Koch was referring to the Council takeover of the suite of offices once occupied by the mayor in the old City Hall and the addition of a work-study student to the Council staff, which included Secretary Louise Brabazon and Clerk of Committees Jeanne Reardon. "It has made the Council much more responsive to constituents," defended Lydon.

The Quincy Education Association, frustrated by contract talks with the School Committee that had dragged on for more than a year, approved a "work-to-rule" plan, which meant, said president Herman ("Hank") Pasquarella, "that no member will perform any action outside of regular school hours unless that member is paid."

"I hope our actions bring our case to the public," he said. "What we're looking for is a one-year contract with guaranteed money, not multi-year subject to funding. We went that way in 1979."

The teachers had agreed to a contract giving them a 5 per cent raise in 1979 but it was "subject to funding" and the city never did raise the money to fund it. A court ruled that the city did not have to pay it and Pasquarella said the QEA might bring another suit against the city to get it.

"We were burned once," he said. "I don't see how they can expect us to sign two such contracts in a row."

The General Dynamics shipyard won a $409 million, three-ship Navy contract, bringing to $681 million the value of contracts at the Fore River yard to build five TAKX cargo ships for the Navy's Rapid Deployment Force. It was expected to increase the yard's work force to 5,000 by the fall of 1984.

But some of the enthusiasm was dulled when it was disclosed that some of the work was going to be farmed out to firms in Canada and Sweden. Jonathan Brandow, president of Local 5, said the farmed out work represented 75-100 jobs at the yard.

"All the work by politicians and the community to get these contracts was not done so that they could be subcontracted to foreign countries," he said. "Workers in Canada and Sweden have just as much right to jobs as we but not at the expense of the American taxpayer."

William B. Golden announced that he planned to resign as city solicitor, effective Feb. 7, and return to private practice of law after a year as the city's top legal officer. Dean Nicastro, his assistant for the past year, was named to succeed Golden.

Huge increases in rent for Quincy apartment dwellers, some of them as much as $110 a month, raised a furor in the Quincy Tenants Organization and set members to drawing up a rough draft of legislation that would give subpoena powers to the Rent Grievance Board.

Hospital Furor Ends, School Dispute Heats Up

"The tenants feel that they have their backs against the wall," said Jane Reikard, executive secretary of the Board. "We are going to take matters into our own hands. We feel there should be some sort of control over these rent increases."

Deaths during the month of January included:

George L. Tobin, 85, father of former Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, Jan. 1; M. Frances Mahoney, 76, retired principal of the Cranch and Standish Schools, Jan. 7; Bertha Munro, 95, first dean of Eastern Nazarene College, Jan. 19; Margaret Parsons, 103, an 80-year resident, Jan. 29.

FEBRUARY

The City Hospital furor ended abruptly when Mayor McCauley handed down a directive defining the responsibilities of the Board of Manager and the Hospital Corp. of America and, in effect, told all parties in the dispute to cut it out and get back to work.

Dean Nicastro had barely taken over the city solicitor's office on Feb. 7 when he was called upon to rule on the legality of the Dec. 21 and Jan. 18 meetings of the Board at which decisions were made to ask HCA to transfer Director James Lowenhagen.

Nicastro ruled that the Board had failed to comply with a provision of the Open Meeting Law which required that accurate records be kept of the executive session during the Dec. 21 meeting and had failed to give Lowenhagen prior written notification of the Jan. 18 meeting.

He suggested that the Board invalidate the actions that were taken behind closed doors at those meetings.

Earlier, the Board's Executive Committee charged that Lowenhagen "had repeatedly failed to recognize the legitimate role of the Board in formulating policy and carrying out its responsibilities" at the Hospital.

The four members of the committee, Lawrence F. O'Donnell, John Kane, Richard Corner and Arthur Good, also took a shot at City Councillors Joanne Condon and John J. Lydon Jr., who had asked for the city solicitor's intervention.

"Unfortunately," said the four in a statement, "some elected officials, either because they did not know all the facts or because of other reasons known only to them, have implied that 'political interference' may have been involved in the Board's request."

"The Board is committed to the de-politicization of City Hospital. Nevertheless, the Board of Managers has a duty to perform and responsibilities to shoulder and it intends to act to further the well-being of the Hospital."

A few days after Nicastro rendered his opinion, Mayor McCauley called a meeting with representatives of the Board of Managers and HCA and worked out a directive called "Points of Agreement," which spelled out the role of each in hospital affairs.

One point specifically gave HCA "the authority and responsibility to conduct, supervise and manage the day-to-day operation of the Hospital. Another point in the agreement gave the Board of Managers the right to approve or disapprove 'the initial and continuing appointment' of a director.

And, if there were any further questions, another point acknowledged that the "governing body" of the Hospital was the Mayor himself.

The School Committee's dispute with the Quincy Education Association heated up again when members of the committee placed an item in its budget covering payment for their services.

Herman A. (Hank) Pasquarella, president of the QEA, noted wryly that the committee "has budgeted $21,000 to cover a $3,000 stipend for each member of the committee not subject to funding."

It was a reference to a 1979 raise for teachers that was "subject to funding" but was never paid.

"Don't ever forget that the architects of the 1979 'subject to funding' fiasco are once again attempting to bury our economic future

PICKETS from the Department of Social Services in Quincy demonstrated in front of their offices at 1419 Hancock St., Quincy Center. The group protested over the amount of paper work, responsibility for cases and limited time to meet with families.

while promoting their own futures," said Pasquarella.

"Don't forget, that this School Committee is publicly announcing that it is worth $3,000 a year, making it the highest paid School Committee in this state, is the same School Committee that is denying us and forcing students to pay a users' fee for athletics."

To which School Committee Vice Chairwoman Mary Collins replies:

"The entire School Committee is in favor of giving teachers a raise. They deserve a raise. The problem is we're stripped to the (financial) bone and we can't afford more teacher layoffs. If the mayor doesn't give us the money, then we would have to have massive layoffs."

Meanwhile, the QEA instituted work-to-rule at Quincy High School, The Vocational Technical School and Snug Harbor elementary school, which Pasquarella called "a monument of benign neglect."

Snug Harbor is a physical disgrace," he said. "Level funding can do nothing but continue this offense. Both students and staff are prisoners of graffiti and crumbling masonry that is the litter and debris of level funding and zero growth in the budget."

"We have remained silent too long. It's time we took stock in the environment in which we are exposed to teach, and also consider the environment for students."

Mayor McCauley named Joseph F. McConville, 52, personnel manager of the Boston Gear-Income International in North Quincy, to replace the Rev.

Bedros Baharian on the Planning Board, which, said McCauley, will play a reduced role in the economic development of Quincy.

"The thrust in economic development will be in the Planning Department where it belongs," said the mayor. "The Rev. Baharian occupied a unique role in planning for the city of Quincy. When he came, the Planning Department was only a small department. Now, with increased involvement of federal and state funds, the Planning Department has come of age."

Mayor McCauley asked the State Department of Revenue to postpone implementation of revaluation for one more year so that the program can be completed "with the least possible cost and least possible disruption."

At the rate the revaluation process is going, said the mayor, the city will not only miss the April 1 deadline for mailing tax bills for the second half of fiscal 1983 but may go over into fiscal 1984.

The city, at long last, moved to crack down on parking scofflaws.

Parking Clerk Robert Denver said he was readying for the State Registry of Motor Vehicles a list of some 1,000 people who had more than 20,000 overdue parking tickets. The list represented $80,000 in fines and penalties.

"These are not shoppers who pick up an occasional ticket in Quincy," said Denver. "These are people who don't give a damn."

The mayor met with representatives of city

Gillis, Sheets Bow Out Of Mayoral Race

employees' unions to "clear the air" on his reported statement of "lean times" ahead for city workers due to the city's loss of the General Dynamics tax case.

McCauley's remark, said Mary Ellen Wade, chairman of the Quincy City Employees Union, in a letter to the mayor, "seems to indicate that you believe city employees should bear the burden of that unfortunate decision. It is our reaction that this is a community problem that all citizens must share."

Disconcerting echoes of the General Dynamics case were heard when the City Law Department went before the City Council for $45,000 with which to fight a tax case involving Mass Electric and New England Power Co. that could have cost the city $3 million.

Councillors Leo J. Kelly and Joseph J. LaRaia were agast to find that the money had already been spent but Mayor McCauley said it was a matter of having to defend the case at the last minute with no opportunity to consult with the Council.

The Council passed for legislative approval a condominium conversion ordinance that proposed nine months notice to tenants of approaching condo conversion, two years notice to handicapped and elderly and restriction of rent hikes to 10 per cent. Fines for violations were pegged at $200 a day per unit.

The U.S. Navy announced the award of a $12.5 million contract to the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard for the overhaul of the $16,500-ton submarine tender Fulton. It was estimated the contract will create 360 additional jobs at the yard.

"Rita the Meter Maid," alias Leroy (Sandy) Rounseville, proprietor of Beacon Fabrics, crusaded for a moratorium on parking tickets in downtown Quincy by donning roller skates and placing valentines on parked cars. The "tickets" could be redeemed for prizes at Beacon Fabrics store.

John R. Herbert, former executive editor of the Boston Herald Traveler and editor of the Patriot Ledger, announced his retirement as president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank after seven and a half years in the post. He was succeeded by Vice President and Treasurer Ronald A.

MARCH

City Clerk John Gillis, one of the best known and most popular men in city government, ended several weeks of speculation by announcing that he would not run for mayor—now, anyway.

"I talked it over with my family," said Gillis, 57, who has held the non-political office of city clerk since 1959, "and the consensus was that this was not the time for me to run. Perhaps sometime in the future I'll run with the full support of my family."

Gillis' announcement apparently left Mayor Francis X. McCauley without any heavyweight opposition for reelection to a second term in November but the mayor said he planned to "run scared" anyway.

"I don't see anyone running as of now," he said,

"but the picture can change quickly. I'm going to approach this election as if I had a responsible opponent who could not be taken lightly. I'd rather do this than sit back. If no opposition comes up then we haven't lost anything."

Another candidate bowed out of another race when James A. Sheets, who had pursued the dual role of teacher and politician for the past decade, withdrew his name as a candidate for president of Quincy Junior College.

Sheets, head of the Government Department at QJC since 1966 and a city councillor since 1974, said he preferred to remain a teacher and "pursue an expanded leadership role" in the political life of the city. He said there was a "very real possibility" he would run for mayor in 1985.

Sheets indicated that one of the problems he would have faced as president of QJC would have been the possibility of a conflict with School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, who shared power at the school with the president.

"It is critical that the leadership of the college be unified and of one mind," he said. "My relationship with the superintendent has always been cordial and good. It will remain so. However, this would be a difficult condition under which to work."

Sheets said he had not yet made a firm decision on running for mayor in 1985.

"Much depends on the political issues then and the job that the mayor is doing," he said. "The litmus test is, could I do a better job? If I feel I could then I'll be a candidate."

Quincy stores were opened on Sunday for the first time, with some Christmas season exceptions, on March 27 following repeal of the state's so-called Sunday Blue Laws and both merchants and shoppers said they were "quite satisfied" with the 12 noon to 6 p.m. openings.

"The majority of the downtown merchants are in favor," said LeRoy (Sandy) Rounseville, the newly elected president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. "Some are enthusiastic, some reluctant. Sunday is going to be a big shopping day."

City officials, however, were not so enthusiastic.

"I've always thought that Sunday should be a day of rest," said Mayor McCauley. "But it's the law now. It's up to the individuals to make a decision. If they wish to open, fine."

"I'm against Sunday openings," said Fire Chief

Validated Parking Goes To City Council

Edward Barry. "It's another disruption to family life. Fathers' and mothers' places are with their children."

"I'm sorry to see Sunday become just another work day," said City Clerk Gillis.

Mayor McCauley finally sent the long-awaited validated parking package to the City Council.

The package included the lease under which Kinney Systems of Boston would manage the Ross Parking Area, the Ross Parking Garage and the John Hancock Parking Area.

Other orders included amendments to city ordinances that would permit Kinney to set 25-cent hourly parking fees, revise maximum time limits and establish tow zones on all downtown streets.

McCauley said the plan also included the sale of parking chits to merchants for the discount rate of 20 cents to be given out to their customers free of charge to pay for an hour of parking. There would also be a 15-minute grace period in which shoppers would not be charged for quick trips to the stores or banks.

The QCBPA's Rounseville said about 98 per cent of the merchants were in favor of validated parking because "it's voluntary and they can advertise free, safer, supervised parking."

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant told a Council hearing that the city expects to come out at least $27,000 a year ahead in the financial column once Kinney systems takes over. Foley waxes enthusiastic.

"No more will parkers have to have the right change with them," he said. "No more will they have to come back and put money in the meter—which is illegal. I may point out. There will be no more tickets."

The voice of landlocked Ward 4 was heard in the City Council in a rising protest against an MDC plan to force more sewage from Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Randolph and Holbrook into the Nut Island system at Germantown.

Councillor Sheets told his colleagues that the highest bacteria count in the city last year was taken on O'Rourke Field, West Quincy, in June. It was 17,000, he said, well over the level of 700 that is considered safe.

"Last June," he said, "to the naked eye, you could see sewage floating on that field where hundreds of children play. It's unconscionable for the MDC to make such a recommendation. Our people have had enough."

The School Committee, in defiance of Mayor McCauley, who is also the committee chairman, added some $3 million to the mayor's level-funded $24,676,000 school budget to fund 1979 teacher raises and anticipated raises in fiscal 1984.

"I hope the School Committee's action does not raise any false hopes," said McCauley. "It is kind of a cruel hoax for those people who may be expecting the money. We don't have the money and the courts have ruled that we do not have to pay it."

The mayor said he intended to send his budget, not the School Committee's, to the Council for approval.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Education Association added a 13th and 14th school, the Lincoln-Hancock and Atlantic, to the list of work-to-rule schools where teachers were performing no duties outside those specified in their contracts.

"We are still protesting stalled contract negotiations," said QEA head Herman (Hank) Pasquarella. "We're aggravated."

Other city employees were making out better.

Public works employees ratified a new contract giving them a $500 one-time bonus and a 4 per cent raise in pay starting Jan. 1, 1984—but, like the 1979 teachers' contract, the package was labelled "subject to funding."

"Barring a catastrophe," said union attorney John McLaren, "the mayor has verbally agreed to use all his best efforts to see that the 4 per cent raise is implemented."

Mayor McCauley is an honorable and reasonable person. The members figure he will treat them in good faith when the time comes."

Members of the City License Board mounted their white horse and rode to the rescue of tradition in downtown Quincy when they rejected the name "Full Belly Deli" for a new eating establishment in the recently renovated Adams Building.

"There's no way you're going to hang that name on a historic building," said

REGULAR GAS price fell to under a dollar for the first time in a long time recently at the BP station on Franklin St., South Quincy in March.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

"You should have come up with a name appropriate to Quincy Square," added Fire Chief Edward Barry.

Proprietors Lawrence Hanover, face with need for a common victualler's license that only the board could grant, agreed to change the name to a more mundane Quincy Square

Deli.

"I like it much better," said Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey. "It sounds more dignified and more in line with the City of Presidents."

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, which had a 2-14 record the year before, did a complete turn around and won the Greater Boston Small College Conference championship with a 14-2 record and whipped Northern Essex Community College, 77-73, in the finals of the playoffs.

That would leave Mrs. Picard with only three votes, one short of the number needed for election at the first meeting.

Those favoring Mrs. Picard are Mayor McCauley, Christopher Kennedy, Picard and Collins. Frank Anselmo is holding out for himself while the votes of Nicholas Verenis and newcomer Stephen Durkin are not known.

The inaugural ceremonies will begin promptly at 10 a.m. in the Munroe MacLean Gym at the Vocational Technical School. The mayor's inaugural address will be followed by the year's first meetings of the Council and the School Committee.

Leave Police Chief Alone

Mayor Francis McCauley is toying with the thought of removing the job of Quincy police chief from Civil Service regulations.

Hopefully, after he gives it some real thought, he will forget it.

It's a bad idea.

And, a dangerous one.

It would open the door wide to political meddling in a department that should be as free as possible from such meddling.

That is why most communities put the post of police chief under Civil Service in the first place. To keep it out of the hands of politicians.

In Quincy, the job has been under Civil Service since 1911 with the chief being appointed by the mayor in office at the time a vacancy occurs. The man appointed holds the badge until his retirement or if he dies before then.

Since 1911 Quincy has had some good chiefs and some fair ones.

They've all had the opportunity to run the department with minimum political interference from City Hall.

If a chief is a bad chief, there are provisions in Civil Service to deal with him. The mayor can bring him up on charges. But the mayor has to have good cause and then something to back it up with.

If there is good reason, the chief can be ousted. None have been in Quincy. None have even been brought up on charges.

Mayor McCauley says an unnamed city councillor inquired about taking the chief's job out of Civil Service.

One city councillor, Joseph LaRaia has had bitter feelings going with present Police Chief Francis Finn since LaRaia's stormy administration as mayor.

During LaRaia's single term as mayor, Quincy slipped into a sort of "Twilight Zone" where bizarre things happened that had never happened before in Quincy.

There were appointees going to jail. There were claims by LaRaia that his office had been "bugged". And claims that his car was hit by bullets while parked in his driveway. He inferred police did it.

LaRaia, at the height of his feud with Finn, ordered the latter to wear his uniform while performing his duties. Traditionally, except for parades and similar ceremonies functions, the police chief wears plain clothes.

How far could LaRaia have gone if Finn wasn't under Civil Service regulations?

Mayor McCauley says if the police chief's job was taken out of Civil Service, the chief's tenure could be made coterminous with that of the mayor or, he could be hired under contract for a fixed term of years.

That's the dangerous part.

Under this arrangement, the job becomes a potential political plum to be handed out as a reward to someone who played a key role in a political campaign. A someone who might know absolutely nothing about being a police officer, never mind running a police department.

Under Civil Service when a police chief vacancy occurs, the job goes to one of the top three in the chief's examination. And, if the mayor doesn't appoint the No. 1 man, he must give a valid reason for by-passing him.

Removing the police chief from under Civil Service regulations and having his tenure made coterminous with that of the mayor or hiring him under contract, could also make him the mayor's puppet.

A mayor could then pull the strings from City Hall on just about any department decision or move, with the chief going into his dance, knowing his job could be at stake.

It could demoralize the police department when good career men are shunted aside for choice assignments so that a mayor's friends could be taken care of. It would also cause instability.

And once all this is done to the Police Department, would the Fire Department be next?

LaRaia's edict to Chief Finn that he get into his uniform and wear it in public may not be considered a big deal by some people. In fact some thought it was pretty petty.

But it should be a warning about taking the police chief's job out from under Civil Service.

The wrong mayor could do a lot of damage. Not just to one man, or one department, but an entire community.

The police chief's job should be kept under Civil Service. It may not be the perfect system, but it's better than having the mayor also be the police chief, and maybe later, the fire chief.

Former CCC

Members Sought

Editor The Quincy Sun:

During 1983, The National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni (NACCCA) is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Civilian Conservation Corps. (CCC).

The NACCCA is trying to locate about two million former members and persons who were connected or affiliated with the CCC during the 1930's and 1940's. It is a known fact that many of these persons reside in Massachusetts and areas serviced by the "Sun."

I am sure that many of your readers have often wondered what became of the CCC. You can tell them the CCC lives again in the NACCCA. It is a young and growing organization with chapters in many of the states throughout the nation, and one of its major objectives is to have the CCC reactivated.

A commemorative CCC postage stamp has been available for purchase since April, 1983.

Anyone interested in the organization can write to NACCCA, Lochmann's Plaza, 7245 Arlington Blvd., Suite 318, Falls Church, Virginia, 22042. For more information and literature.

New Retirement Level Asked For School Health Post

The City Council has passed a home rule petition requesting the state legislature to place to school coordinator of social health on the same level as a police officer in the retirement system.

The post is currently occupied by John (Butch) Mahoney, who does just about everything a juvenile officer on the Police Department does except that he is under the jurisdiction of the School Department.

The major difference in moving Mahoney from Group 1 to Group 4 in the retirement system is that he would reach the maximum age factor for which pensions are figured 10 years earlier in the police group.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he has made no commitment to approve the home rule petition and pass it on to the Legislature.

"I plan to review it very carefully," he said. "I am concerned that this would open up the same thing to other people."

McCauley said that legislation to accomplish the same end was filed in the state senate in 1982 and in the house in 1983 but both bills died.

Passage of the home rule petition by the Council was accompanied by an aura of mystery when Council President John J. Lydon Jr., waived the reading of the four paragraph measure.

He said that Councillor Patricia Toland had moved for the waiver but Toland said she didn't and left the meeting in a huff after refusing Lydon's routine request that she draw the names of jurors.

"I have never heard of readings being waived except on technical stuff," said Toland. "It's no big deal. I intended to support the petition anyway."

McDonald Claims Needed Votes For Council Presidency

City Councillor Neil A. McDonald appeared to have the votes of three colleagues, plus his own, lined up in the fight with Councillor David S. McIntosh for the presidency of the 1936 City Council. Five votes would be needed to election at the Jan. 6 meeting.

Those lined up on the side of McDonald were Councillors Edward J. Sandberg, Aldo Della Chiesa and Myron N. Lane while McIntosh was counting on the support of Councillors John W. Savage and Roy A. Means in addition to his own vote.

Holding the swing votes were Councillors Eddie D. Carson and Laurence J. Curtin, both of whom were dark horse candidates for the post and were depending on a deadlock in the balloting and a switch of votes from the leading contenders.

"I will be elected on the first ballot," said McDonald, but when he was asked to identify his supporters, he replied, "Never mind about that. Wait until Monday and you will find out, but I have already won the contest."

BONSALL ELECTED

City Auditor George H. Bonsall was re-elected to another two-year term at the final meeting of the 1935 City Council by a 7-1 vote over Vincent A. McCabe of Houghs Neck. Councillor Daniel S. Dennehy cast the only vote for McCabe.

Bonsall had already served three years as auditor, one year as an appointee of former Mayor Charles A. Ross and two years by election by the City Council.

SHIFT TO PORTSMOUTH

Officials of the Fore River shipyard denied reports that costly accidents aboard the USS Quincy had anything to do with the shift of the cruiser to Portsmouth, N.H., for final dry dock grooming before sea trials.

MMA Praises Harold For Highway Funds

The Massachusetts Municipal Association has lauded State Sen. Paul D. Harold for his efforts in restoring Chapter 90 highway funding for cities and towns.

Municipal Association Executive Director James Segal said local road maintenance and construction would have been severely hampered across the state had the funding to cities and towns been cut.

In a letter of thanks to Sen. Harold, Segal said "Loss of the Chapter 90 funding within the state's transportation bond bill would have essentially cut in half all of the state road construction and reconstruction funding available to local governments for the next two years.

"Your support of an initiative to restore these funds to the transportation bond legislation was a strong indication of your sensitivity to the importance of this funding source for towns and cities," Segal wrote.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The tune of Auld Lang Syne so frequently heard on New Years is probably the oldest custom attached to the "old times". It is a good custom unaffected by changing times.

Shortages in many things, especially in energy, indicate the extent of past mistakes. But the past is over with. The present exists. The future is waiting. And both the present and the future reflect the need, the absolute necessity to change the changing times.

This thought is beautifully expressed by an unknown author - "Another year behind us, into the toils of time. Another year will find us, far upward in our climb... So, friend set high your banners, unfurl your colors bright... Your march is every onward, success shall crown the fight"... To which we add a personal hope... with the help of God, may you all have a Happy, Healthy and Prosperous New Year...

McCauley Seeks $40,000 For Mayor, $6,500 For Council

Quincy from 1931 to 1979, March 7; Francesco Maligno, 100, Italian-born resident of Quincy for nearly 60 years, March 19; Dr. Wilbur H. Mullen, 64, professor of philosophy at Eastern Nazarene College for 35 years, March 27; Philip J. Grady, 86, one of the first motorcycle patrolmen in the Quincy Police force, March 31.

APRIL

Mayor Francis X. McCauley took a deep breath and put his left hand high and conceded that he was planning to ask for a raise to about $40,000 for himself and $6,500 for the City Council in the budget for fiscal 1984.

"If you said that you wouldn't be far wrong," the mayor told interviewers on the Quincy Cable systems show "Newsmakers."

The year before, McCauley had submitted a proposal to the Council for a raise for the mayor from $25,000 to $48,500 and an increase for the Council from $3,500 to $7,500 but it was defeated by the Council.

"What I will be requesting is not out of line," he said, declining to disclose the exact figures. "We've been monitoring what is going on in the cities of Massachusetts. Most mayors are underpaid. A number of cities raised their mayor's salaries effective Jan. 1, 1983."

Under normal circumstances, a $28.60 drop in the tax rate from $205.60 to $177 per thousand would have been the story of the decade, let alone the story of the month. But the advent of Proposition 2½ had changed all that.

Mayor McCauley announced the new rate of $177 for fiscal 1983, based on the old real property values, which was permitted by the State Department of Revenue pending the final results of 100 per cent revaluation. It was the second straight big decrease following a $37 drop in fiscal 1982.

McCauley noted that property taxes for a homeowner with an assessment of $6,500 for the year had been reduced by $426.40 or 27 per cent over the past two years. He said further reduction in the tax levy of reduction could be expected in fiscal 1984 when Prop 2½ mandated a further reduction in the tax levy of some $3.5 million.

The mayor also noted that the city finished fiscal 1982 in the black for the first time since 1975. He said there was a $5,000 surplus compared to a $2 million deficit for fiscal 1981.

More than 22,000 tax bills for fiscal 1983 went into the mail April 15 with a due date of May 16 and McCauley said the early mailing will mean a great saving for the city.

"Last year we didn't get them in the mail until May 28," he said. "This will save us a lot of interest on short term borrowing."

The city received another financial shot in the arm when Gov. Michael S. Dukakis announced that he would propose a state aid formula that would bring an additional $3.5 million to Quincy in fiscal 1984.

"The figure is higher than we expected," said McCauley, adding that he had expected something in the vicinity of $2.8 million in added receipts on the cherry sheet. He cautioned that cherry sheet charges for MBTA, MDC, etc. had not been announced.

The Fire Department's equipment and budget came in for its share of springtime controversy.

Chief Edward F. Barry told the City Council the all four Seagrave pumps now in service were well beyond the recommended replacement age and should be replaced immediately at a cost to the city of $520,000.

"I've been preaching this for years," said Barry. "I know that the problem is money but as fire chief I feel I have to point this out to the people of Quincy."

The Council appropriated $17,000 to purchase a diesel motor for the 23-year-old pumper at the Houghs Neck Fire Station for starters.

The Quincy firefighters union charged in a full page advertisement in The Quincy Sun that the state of manpower in the Fire Department was such that "the public is not always safe."

"Seeing fire trucks in the stations doesn't always mean they will respond when you need them. It has become common practice to put engines and ladder trucks out of service because there are no firefighters to man them."

"I don't want to sound abrasive," said Mayor McCauley. "I'm sure the firefighters are concerned. We are concerned, too. But we have restrictions on money. We have had to cut the tax levy under Proposition 2½ and everyone has to share the burden. The firefighters have done well in Quincy. Some cities have had to shut stations. We haven't."

"There is no district in the city without fire protection," said Chief Barry, although he acknowledged that he has not been able to fill in for sick and injured men since the overtime account ran out in December, 1982. He said there were 3,992 absentee days in his department in the first 298 days of fiscal 1983.

McCauley said he would have $256,000 in the budget for fiscal 1984 to cover overtime for firefighters, but, he added, it costs the city $141 a day or $197.40 a night to bring a firefighter in on overtime.

"A quarter of a million doesn't last long under those circumstances," he said.

Contract negotiations between the School Committee and the Quincy Education Association reached a point where the QEA asked mediator Elio Glitzman to certify fact-finding.

"It means that the two sides can find no common ground to negotiate," said QEA President Herman (Hank) Pasquarella. "The QEA feels it has been negotiating long enough, since November, 1981. We feel an outside party, a stranger to the situation, maybe better capable of dealing with the issues."

At the same time Pasquarella announced that he would not be a candidate for reelection as QEA president.

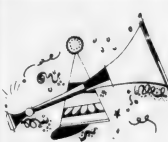

"My whole life has been the QEA for a year," he said. "I came in like a tiger and I may have exhausted myself. I tried to do too much."

Mayor McCauley announced that the city was planning to start foreclosure proceedings nearly 100 taxpayers who were warned in November, 1982, that they owed some $1 million in back taxes but, thus far, had refused to pay.

The list of delinquents, said the mayor, did not include the top 12 tax evaders who had been singled out in the past. Some of them were already in the foreclosure process, he said.

Planning Director James Lydon told the City Council that the city efforts to sell or demolish abandoned school buildings were being "hamstrung" by state guidelines initiated by the Ward Commission's probe of corruption in state contracts.

"It's unfair," said Councillor Stephen J. McGrath. "Quincy was never accused of any contract corruption yet we are being restricted in disposing of the old schools."

The City Council entertained a measure to ban all outdoor advertising from Quincy but wilted in the face of stern opposition from the billboard industry.

"If this ordinance is passed, Ackery must contest it in court," said George Berman, litigating attorney for Ackery Communications, the king pin of the industry. "Ackery will not be put out of business without a fight. The lawsuit will be expensive and lengthy. Ackery will not take down a single billboard until the last appeal to the Supreme Court."

"I hope," he added, "my comments are not taken as threats. They are just facts." The Council decided to let the matter die in committee.

Faced with a depleted supply of aging and broken-down capital equipment and a limited budget, Mayor McCauley said he was looking into a plan under which the city would lease new equipment for the Police, Fire, Public Works, Parks and Cemetery Departments with the machines becoming city property at the end of the lease.

"We are not in a tough spot for capital equipment," said the mayor. "Our vehicles and machines are functioning. But not a lot of capital equipment has been purchased in the last few years and we are reaching a point where they have to be replaced."

A hearing on a proposed $100 million office park-hotel on the 177-acre site of the Old Colony Crushed Stone Co. in West Quincy was jammed by nearby residents concerned over traffic, floods, sewage problems. The development was proposed by a group of investors from the Persian Gulf nation of Kuwait.

Deaths during April included:

William S. Ash, 88, former commander of the Quincy Legion Post and the Quincy Veterans Council, April 4; Mrs. Anne (Smith) Goldstein, 77, a founder of the Quincy Jewish Community Center and Temple Beth El, April 2; John McArthur, 87, retired naval architect and designer of the Nantucket ferry, April 7; Alfred A. ## McCauley Presents $69.7 Million City Budget

Pennsylvania. He became the third president of QJC.

The search for a new president went on for almost a year, finally narrowing down to three, Carl Dyesso, director of academic education in the Quincy schools; Sally Oleon, dean of Hartford Community College; and Johnson.

The question of race was not specifically raised during the School Committee's discussion of the appointment but reference was made to the fact that the initial screening of Johnson's application had been set aside while the screening of other applicants continued. Later, Johnson's name was reconsidered.

Committee member John J. Sullivan asked whether or not the reconsideration took place at the time the issue of Quincy being a racist city was raised. Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon replied that the reconsideration had nothing to do with charges of racism against Quincy which were made in an unrelated matter.

Johnson was chosen by a 6-1 vote with Sullivan casting his ballot for Dyesso.

Mayor McCauley presented the City Council with a $69.7 million budget for fiscal 1984, which appeared to be up 1.5 million over fiscal 1983 but, said McCauley, was actually down by about $600,000. This was because $2,153,482 was used as estimated receipts from the hospital, the junior college and other sources.

It contained several controversial items, including salary allocations for the mayor of $32,500 starting July 1 and jumping to $40,000 on Jan. 1; a raise for city councillors from $3,000 to $6,500 a year effective Jan. 1; and a $1,500 stipend for the School Committee which had not been paid up to them.

"Your have a right to strike that money," McCauley told the Council, "but I recommend that it be left in."

The mayor's budget also allocated $24.7 million for the schools, roughly the same as last year. The School Department had sent him a budget request for $27.7 million.

"My feeling is that I could not put $27.7 million in the budget so I reduced it," said McCauley, adding that the Council "can reduce the bottom line on the schools, too, if it wants to."

The mayor said there would be no layoffs in general government as a result of the budget and that the school budget would require few layoffs, which, he said, could be handled through attrition. The bottom line, with the tax levy down 6 or 7 per cent under Proposition 2%, depended on $3.5 million in promised state aid, he said.

The MDC dropped a quiet bombshell on the city when in informed a surprised Mayor McCauley that it did not have the money to meet its role in the complicated construction schedule leading to the building of the long-awaited Burgin Parkway Extension.

McCauley called it "distressing news."

The MDC's part in the project was in a drain to channel Town Brook under the proposed roadway to connect with a deep rock tunnel under Quincy Center, the responsibility of the Army Corps of Engineers. The MDC was given $5 million in 1978 for the job but the city was informed that up to $1.5 million more would be needed.

Planning Director James Lydon said the failure of the MDC to fulfill its part of the project would make it impossible to start construction of the Burgin Parkway Extension in late summer as planned.

The failure of the MDC to come up with the money also threatened to disrupt the scheduled opening of the MBTA's Quincy Adams station in South Quincy on Sept. 10. City Councillors James A. Sheets and Theodore P. DeCristofaro had been threatening to disrupt the station opening until the South Quincy community is ready for it, which meant some action on the Burgin Parkway Extension.

"We simply can't allow the safety of the children on Columbia, Liberty, Rodman and other streets to be endangered by the failure of the MBTA to keep its word," said Sheets. "If that means a demonstration by 300 or 400 or 500 people to prevent the opening of the station then so be it."

Sheets said the people of South Quincy had been given to understand that the opening of the station was predicated on construction of ramps to Route 3, the Extension and the Corps of Engineers project to divert Town Brook. The station and the ramps were ready, said Sheets, but no progress had been made on the Extension or the diversion.

Mayor McCauley regarded the Sheets-DeCristofaro threat as serious enough to call a meeting among the two councillors, the MBTA, the MDC and the State Department of Transportation in a try to "clear the air."

"We certainly don't want to open that station until all the problems are solved," said the mayor.

McCauley's action came after the City Council had formally asked him to "commence legal action immediately" to halt the station opening until the Burgin Parkway Extension had been built.

The Quincy Education Association abandoned its "work to rule" strategy aimed at moving stalemated contract negotiations off center. QEA President Pasquarella conceded that it had been a failure.

"I'm disappointed," he said. "I thought that would have been the weapon to use against the School Committee. I don't believe the Committee was affected. There's no sense in letting it go on any longer. It came in with a show. It's going out with a whimper."

It was one of Pasquarella's last actions as QEA head before he was succeeded by Mary Curtin, a teacher at the Atherton Hough School, who had served two terms as president before.

Mayor McCauley announced that he was investigating the possibility of leasing European-made Mercedes-Benz patrol cars for the Police Department as an economy measure. The City Council was so upset that it passed a "Buy American" resolution on the spot.

"We need police cars and we've got to look for values," said McCauley. "I have no problem buying American, but is it cost-efficient?"

Evidently it was not for the idea was dropped after a test.

Multibank Financial Corp., parent of the South Shore Bank, announced plans to consolidate its data processing operations under one roof, possibly in the semi-abandoned Presidents Plaza on Quincy Ave. But the financial giant decided to relocate in Dedham instead, a loss of more than 100 jobs to the Quincy area.

Validated parking in downtown Quincy moved a step closer when the City Council, by a vote of 7-1, authorized Mayor McCauley to lease the downtown parking lots to Kinney Systems and also voted to advertise four other key parts to the proposal.

"This is the third time we've met on this," said Councillor Decristofaro. "If we go any longer we will be dragging our feet and that won't do the downtown any good."

"I'm not in favor of this system," said Councillor McGrath, who voted against it. "We should be encouraging parking in downtown Quincy and I don't think this does it. It's still easier to park in the plaza and shop. We should be making parking as simple as possible and this does not do it."

Just in time for the Memorial Day holiday, MDC Commissioner William J. Geary announced a number of police, traffic and safety actions designed to eliminate many dangerous conditions on Quincy Shore Drive.

Chief among the changes were increased police presence along the drive to inhibit speeding and a change in the intervals on traffic lights so that drivers would be forced to make more frequent stops.

The License Board had barely gotten over its pique at the "Full Belly Deli" when it almost choked over another store name proposal in a historic district - the "Lickidy Split" ice cream parlor near the Adams Birthplaces. In the face of License Board objections, Mrs. Cheryl Silvestro agreed to change the name to President's Ice

"I don't like it," she said. "But if you can't fight City Hall, you can't fight City Hall."

Then the License Board proved that you could by reversing themselves and approving the name.

Deaths during May included:

Albert J. Harvey, 67, a member of the family that founded Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club, May 15; Judge Henry Chmielinski, 70, the Quincy lawyer who rose to Superior Court judge, May 20; Kenneth C. Gardner, 74, retired city personnel director, May 20.

JUNE

Quincy won the opening round in the fight with the MDC over pollution of Quincy Bay.

Superior Court Judge Paul Garrity placed squarely on the MDC's sewage treatment at Nut Island and Deer Island that blame for pollution that threatened "the health, welfare and safety of persons who live and work nearby Boston Harbor."

"The facts presented to this court," wrote Judge Garrity, "indicate beyond any question that the failures of the Commonwealth's supervisory agencies to require the MDC to carry out its sewage disposal activities in accordance with legal requirements jeopardizes the health welfare and safety of persons who live and work in communities abutting Boston Harbor."

"Boston Harbor is significantly and visibly polluted primarily because of the discharge of inadequately treated and untreated sewage into it and adjoining waters."

Judge Garrity noted that, at a hearing June 15, the MDC conceded that "there is absolutely no plan or program in place the implementation of which will result in no further dumping of raw sewage in Boston Harbor at anytime in the future — say even by the year 2000."

He directed that another hearing be held "to consider remedies and appointment of a special master . . . to come up with the most effective remedy and to prepare a comprehensive order . . . within 30 days after appointment."

The city of Quincy had filed suit against the MDC and the Boston Water and Sewer Commission seeking to halt the pollution of Quincy Bay from the facilities on Nut Island and Moon Island.

Early in June, the suit was joined by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency "for serious monitoring and recording violations" at Nut Island, and by the Conservation Law Foundation charging "chronic and ongoing violation of federal laws for many years."

"I have discovered," said Paul Keough, the acting EPA regional administrator, "that the cleanup of Boston Harbor waters is not moving as quickly as it should. It's my No. 1 priority. We will file any suits and issue any orders necessary to move it along. We are going to act quickly and aggressively in this matter."

The abandoned water-filled quarries in West Quincy claimed another life when Paul Gooch, 17, of Brockton, apparently on a dare, leaped off a 50-foot cliff into Swingle's Quarry and disappeared in the midst of some 125 to 175 other swimmers.

Members of the Quincy Police Underwater Recovery Team ventured down 175 feet into the more than 300-foot deep quarry hole in search of his body and an underwater television camera, rented at $890 a day, was sent down before the search was abandoned.

Deputy Fire Chief Carl Valenti said city officials would explore the possibility of draining enough water from the quarry so that scuba divers could go nearer the bottom of the quarry.

The Gooch boy's death called attention once again to the age old problem of the West Quincy quarries.

"This is not the first time this has happened," said Mayor McCauley. "We try to warn people about swimming there. But they tear down the signs and cut through the fences."

"How far can you go to keep people from swimming there?" asked City Councillor James A. Sheets, noting that trespassing and swimming were prohibited in the quarry area under an ordinance passed in 1982. "Signs were put up at the end of last year. The next morning they were cut down with an acetylene torch."

Mayor McCauley, to the surprise of no one, announced that he would run for a second term and the guessing began on who, if anyone, would oppose him.

For less than 24 hours a possible opponent did step forward but, after taking out nomination papers on a Monday, Donald Stevenson Johnson, 68, who lived at the YMCA, formally withdrew them on Tuesday morning.

A much more serious candidate emerged in Ward 6 when Mary P. Collins, a member of the School Committee since 1978 and the current vice chairwoman, announced her candidacy for the City Council seat held by Joanne Condon.

"Having had six years of participation in city government as a member of the School Committee," said Mrs. Collins in her announcement, "I wish to serve my constituency on a wider basis. I plan to knock on every door in Ward 6."

Police Chief Francis X. Finn appeared before the City Council to warn of the imminent worsening of a leadership void in his department. When Capt. Roy Cavicchi retires in July, he said, there will be only one captain (Paul Nestor) in the department.

"There are seven vacancies among lieutenants and seven vacancies among sergeants," he said. We are in serious trouble.

We can't function without leadership. There is just too much work. It is affecting my health very gravely. It will have a deleterious effect on Capt. Nestor when Cavicchi retires."

One of the problems in filling the upper ranks of the department was that Lt. Walter Frazer obtained an injunction preventing the use of a Civil Service captains' list until it could be determined why his name was dropped from first to fourth on the list.

A week later, Mayor McCauley apparently solved that dilemma when he sent an order to the City Council increasing the number of police captains from four to five so that Frazer could be assured of promotion along with Lts. Frederick Laracy, David Rowell and William Murphy.

"There is a good chance," said McCauley, "that Frazer will withdraw his suit and open up the list."

As the September date for opening the Quincy Adams MBTA station drew nearer, agitation against it, led by Councillor Sheets, picked up in pace. Sheets and Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro were seeking to postpone the opening until the Burgin Parkway Extension was underway to handle the excess traffic.

Sheets filed two resolutions which would dead end Penn and Centre Sts. in South Quincy to protect residents from the expected heavy traffic to the station parking garage.

"South Quincy is tired of unkept promises by people who lack sensitivity to their needs," said Sheets, "and they are tired of the people who lack the sensitivity. Apparently a garage to house 2,000 automobiles means more to the bureaucracy than people. We've had enough."

When State Transportation Secretary Fred Salvucci announced that the station would open Sept. 10 whether the extension is ready or not, Sheets exploded.

"Apparently," he said, "Salvucci has learned nothing from Gov. Dukakis' defeat in 1978. He lost because his people were insensitive. The governor realizes this now. Salvucci hasn't. We are going to oppose this in any way we can within reason."

One of the ways was to ask Mayor McCauley to initiate immediate legal action to seek an injunction to prevent the opening but McCauley, who indicated that he is opposed to the station opening also, said he preferred to explore other options before going to court.

Meanwhile, the financial problems surrounding the Burgin Parkway Extension took a step toward solution when a $1.5 million order for the MDC was included in a state transportation bond issue and Sen. Paul D. Harold said it could be passed by the Legislature by the end of July.

The School Committee and the Quincy Education Association reached agreement on a new two-year contract for teachers but the QEA membership voted to reject it. At month's end, the two sides were preparing to go back to the drawing board some time in August.

The City Council passed a $69,584,102 budget for fiscal 1984, only $66,049 less than that requested by Mayor McCauley.

Monique Powers, 18, of 9 Chick St., Wollaston, was notified by Selective Service to sign up for the draft or face the consequences. The trouble is, Monique is a girl. Apparently, the name didn't sound girl enough for the Selective Service computer. Monique took it in stride.

"They have a list of boxes to check why you didn't register," she said. "There's one that says, 'I am female.' I'll just check that."

Deaths during the month of June included:

Samuel Pitchel, 90, a Quincy attorney for 67 years who became known as the "Dean of Dedham Probate Court," June 2; Donald G. Shaftoe, 75, one of the original developers of the Howard Johnson Co. on Beale St., Wollaston, June 14.

The city made another attempt to locate the body of Paul Gooch, 17, of Brockton in Swingle's Quarry, this time using highly sophisticated deep sea equipment from the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, which donated the use of the gear and its crew free of charge to the city.

"Everyone of us here has kids," said Dr. Robert Ballard, chief scientist of the Deep Submergence Group at the Oceanographic, who was in charge of the RPV (remotely piloted vehicle). "I have two boys. If one of them drowned in a quarry I'd want him to come home."

The group from Woods Hole spent three days at the Quarry with their RPV but failed to turn up any sign of the body.

Tricia Markakos Miss Quincy Bay

cracked down on swimming in the quarries with the arrest of four juveniles in Swingle's Quarry not far from the spot where the Gooch boy lost his life.

"We are trying to get word to the young people that swimming in the quarries is dangerous," said Mayor McCauley. "We don't want any more tragedies up there."

At months' end, the city was making final plans to drain Swingle's Quarry as soon as the written environmental clearances could be obtained.

Tricia Markakos of Braintree, on the eve of her 17th birthday, won the coveted title of Miss Quincy Bay of 1983.

Tricia, the daughter of George and Zanetta Markakos of George's Expert Tailoring and Cleaning in Quincy Point, said she had been attending the annual beauty pageant in Quincy Square since she was five years old.

"I used to look forward to it," she said. "I'd watch the pageant with my mother and I'd say, 'Oh, I want to be in it! I want to be in it!' I was shocked when I won. I couldn't believe they picked me out of 36 girls."

Just to prove it was no accident, Tricia followed up her Miss Quincy Bay victory by capturing the Miss American Model title a week later in competition with 165 teenaged girls from across the country in New York City.

"I was more excited than nervous," she said. "I'm getting more confident on the runway."

The appointment of a special master to come up with a solution to pollution problems in Quincy Bay in 30 days was hailed by city officials.

"It's a step in the right direction," said Mayor McCauley. "What we want to do is find a solution and fund it. It will be expensive but we've got to take that step."

Superior Court Judge Garrity named Prof. Charles M. Haar, 62, of Cambridge, a Harvard Law School professor, to lead evidence on disputed issues in Quincy's suit to force the MDC to stop polluting the bay and recommend a solution within 30 days.

"There is an urgency about this that the political branches of government just do not seem to be responding to appropriately, considering that what is occurring is in violation of the law," said Judge Garrity.

With legal obstructions removed, Mayor McCauley took steps to bring the Quincy Police Department up to strength by naming four new captains, two new lieutenants and nine new patrolmen to the force.

The appointments were made possible when Lt. Walter Frazer withdrew his law suit against the captain's list and William J. Brabazon, a policeman in Holliston, also dropped his suit when Civil Service conceded it made a mistake in taking his name off the patrolmen's list.

The appointments brought the complement of the Quincy Police Department to one chief, five captains, 10 lieutenants, 23 sergeants and 160 patrolmen.

The State Legislature appropriated $2 million for the MDC to finance storm drain work and get the Burgin Parkway Extension off the ground. Sen. Harold said that bids would go out Oct. 1, only 20 days after the scheduled opening of the Quincy Adams MBTA station, which had stirred so much controversy.

"It would be unreasonable to demand that the station open and the Extension go to bid at the same time," said Harold.

Councillor Sheets, the leader of the opposition to the station opening, called the $2 million appropriation "a big step forward" and he relented enough to poll his South Quincy constituents to see what they wanted to do about the station in light of the new development.

"We still don't know what is going to happen when 2,000 cars leave the Quincy Adams Garage between 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m., many of them seeking shortcuts through the streets of South Quincy," he said.

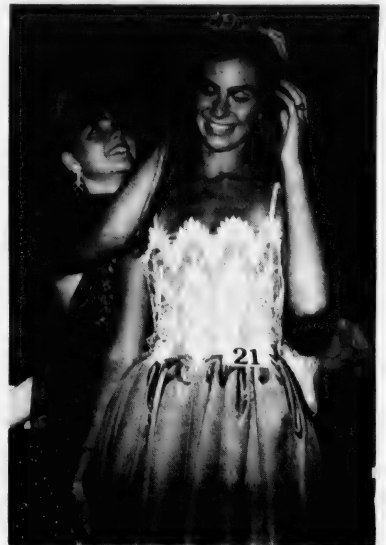

The first coal powered coal carrier built in the United States in more than a half century was christened at the General Dynamics Fore River shipyard.

House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill hailed the $73 million 36,000-ton "Energy Independence" as a significant breakthrough in coal-fired shipbuilding, adding that Massachusetts "once again has the lead in an important market of the future, the market for modern coal carriers."

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly drew praise as the man who spearheaded the ship through Congress with his "Front of the Line" bill that ensured precedence for American carriers in shipping American coal.

The MDC suggested that, due to new traffic regulations, Quincy Shore Drive may lose its reputation as a demolition derby and become one of the safest streets in the city.

In five and a half weeks in May, June and July, including two holiday weekends, MDC police issued 1,662 traffic citations and made 34 arrests with the result that there were only six accidents in that time. Veterans officers called the decrease remarkable.

"We're very pleased with the way things are going on Wollaston Boulevard," said Frank Mueller, spokesman for the MDC Old Colony police division. "We're making good progress and we hope to keep it going."

The State Street South office complex in North Quincy observed its 10th birthday and was hailed as a major contributor to high employment in Quincy and on the South Shore.

"After completion of the next building on the site, Monarch III, there will be employment for nearly 8,000 people," said William Edgerly, president of the State Street Bank and Trust Co.

"Quincy boasts a 6.6 unemployment rate, one of the lowest in the state. We are proud to contribute to that record."

$9 Million In Marijuana Seized Aboard Yacht

director of the alcoholic rehabilitation facility at Faxon House; Herbert J. Mainwaring, 93, former editor of the Cape Cod Guide and inveterate letter writer to Quincy newspapers, July 9.

AUGUST

Four and a half tons of marijuana with a street value of nearly $9 million was confiscated from the ketch-rigged yacht "Snow White" that ran aground and was abandoned by its crew in the shallows of the Town River. It was one of the biggest hauls ever in the New England area.

The 51-foot ketch was discovered about 6:45 a.m. by Patrolman Leo Luchini in the police boat Alert. He knocked on the side of the boat to alert those aboard to their peril in shallow water. When there was no response Luchini boarded the craft and found it loaded with bales of marijuana.

Police staked out the boat but when the crew did not show up and the craft began to list, she was taken to the Boston Harbor Marina where 185 bales of marijuana, each weighing about 50 pounds, were offloaded.

Storing the confiscated pot became an immediate problem for Quincy police. It was placed in two rented trucks with a 24-hour armed guard that was costing the department about $1,000 a day.

There was also speculation that the Snow White and its $9 million cargo had been deliberately abandoned to create a diversion while a bigger load of pot was landed elsewhere. "If these are big time drug runners," said a Quincy detective, "a $10 million loss means nothing to them."

Two weeks later, the Police Department was given permission by Norfolk Superior Court to destroy the marijuana after first taking one pound samples from each bale to be preserved as evidence. It took the Food and Drug Division in Framingham about three hours to burn the four and a half tons.

The city began draining Swingle's Quarry in an effort to recover the body of Paul Gooch, 17, of Brockton after final clearance for the project was received from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which set down conditions for the operation.

Two pumps, capable of pumping at the rate of 600 gallons a minute, were installed to move the water from the quarry through the city's storm drains into Furnace Brook.

The city was required by the EPA to monitor the water being pumped weekly for temperature, dissolved oxygen, turbidity and chemicals. A water sample was to be taken at the 75-foot level to determine if toxic chemicals were present.

"You should be aware," wrote Edward K. McSweeney, chief of the EPA's Water Quality Branch, "that EPA is concerned with the water quality of Furnace Brook."

Dr. Charles M. Haar, the court-appointed special master, found much to be concerned about in the water quality of Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor.

Dr. Haar's report pinpointed the major cause of harbor pollution at the MDC's sewage treatment plants at Nut Island and Deer Island. He said he was "shocked by the condition of the harbor" and he offered six suggestions to clean it up.

They included longer pipes to carry the sewage farther out to sea, reduction in the volume of raw sewage from Moon Island, repairing leaks and illegal sewer connections, and submission of a plan to resolve the chronic understaffing of the Nut Island plant.

Mayor McCauley called the report "a giant step towards restoring one of Quincy's most important natural resources, its beaches, shore line and bay."

The city was reported to be near agreement with General Dynamics on the court-ordered repayment of $12.1 million for over assessment of shipyard property for the years 1977 through 1980.

Mayor McCauley said that if the city chose the bonding route to obtain the money he might ask the City Council to approve a referendum on the Nov. 8 ballot so that voters could override Proposition 2½ and permit the city to repay the bond and interest outside the limit of the tax levy.

"If we tried to raise the money within the restrictions of 2½, it would be very difficult," he said.

Former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, 51, suffered a heart attack at his home and was rushed to City Hospital and later transferred to University Hospital in Boston where he underwent triple heart bypass surgery.

For the fourth year in a row the city received state permission to send out estimated tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1984, a move that would save considerable money in short term borrowing. Final reveal figures on which to base the 1984 tax rate would not be ready until January, said Mayor McCauley.

Treasurer - Collector Franklin Jay said the city has borrowed about $12 million through August in anticipation of taxes and there probably would be another $6 million borrowing in September. Interest on the $12 million was pegged at $200,000.

The deadline for filing nomination papers for the September preliminary election passed and it left Mayor McCauley totally without opposition for reelection to a second term, only the second time in the 95-year history of the city that a mayor had been unopposed. It happened to Mayor Thomas S. Burgin in 1940.

Veteran City Clerk John Gillis called it "the quietest election in 27 years - and probably longer."

The only preliminary election would be in Ward 6 where the incumbent, city councillor, Joanne Condon, was opposed by Mary P. Collins, vice chairwoman of the School Committee, and Jens Thornton, an environmentalist.

A little excitement was injected into the election at the last minute when Ronald Iacobucci, a cable television executive and long-time community activist, picked up nomination papers to run for the City Council at large at the last possible moment.

The first head-to-head clash of the election year came when Collins complained to the building inspector about illegal political signs supporting her opponent, Condon, being placed in residential areas prior to 10 days before the election. Condon acknowledged it was a mistake and ordered the signs down.

The Howard Johnson Co., which got its start as a variety store and ice cream shop near the Wollaston railroad station in the 1920s, announced that it was coming home, moving its headquarters from Braintree to a new building at One Monarch Drive, State Street South, North Quincy, about a mile from the first store.

The names of 136 individuals and companies that owe the city of Quincy $161,690 in real estate taxes and water bills for 1981 were published in The Quincy Sun by Treasurer Franklin Jay in another step in the "continuing crackdown on delinquent taxpayers."

MDC Commissioner William J. Geary announced a new traffic and road improvement plan designed to increase safety and esthetics along the Merry-mount section of Quincy Shore Drive. The plan included designating traffic one lane only each way and recycling the lights to slow down traffic in the same manner as the beach boulevard.

The vicinities of some Quincy banks took on the appearance of campgrounds one weekend as people lined up for a shot at 11 per cent mortgages offered by the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) to first time home buyers. That was 3 per cent below the prevailing rate.

"I've been here since Friday night," said Stacy Kapsaskis of Jamaica Plain, who was waiting for Tuesday morning outside of the Multi Bank Mortgage Co., 1354 Hancock St. "I figure I'm saving 21 cents a second."

A horse died at the Brookdale Stables in West Quincy and an examination at the state laboratory in Boston resulted in a "presumptive diagnosis" of eastern equine encephalitis, the same disease that killed a Taunton man and sent a Randolph man to the hospital critically ill.

Public Health commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey cautioned that the disease could not be transmitted from a horse to a human being but only through a mosquito. The St. Moritz Pond area of West Quincy was sprayed since the horse died.

SEPTEMBER

Mayor McCauley announced he had reached an agreement with General Dynamics on the method by which the city would repay the company nearly $18 million in tax overassessments for the fiscal years 1977 through 1983. The agreement called for a bond issue which would be repaid at a rate of $2.8 million a year for 10 years, including interest.

"The settlement could have been a lot worse for Quincy," said McCauley. "This removes a financial cloud that has been hanging over the city for some time. I did as good a job as I could when you consider the case started before I became mayor. We have put distance between us and Judge Zobel's decision."

The mayor also moved to place a referendum on the Nov. 8 city election ballot to exempt the annual debt service of $2.8 million from the Proposition 2½ limits on the property tax levy. He said he did not plan to support or oppose the referendum but simply let the people decide.

"I will explain to the people the alternatives," said McCauley. "If the voters turn it down I will have to take $2.8 million a year for 10 years from other areas of the city budget. This is sufficient impact so that the voters should have the final say on it."

McCauley's solution to the General Dynamics problem was not unanimously received.

Former Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, speaking out for the first time since he left office, suggested several ways - including White House intervention and the sale of Quincy City Hospital and Braintree Dam - in which the city could repay the money without a bond issue or exemption from Proposition 2½.

Tobin also called for an investigation of the possible role in the "alleged overassessment" of P. Takis Veliotis, former shipyard general manager who was under federal indictment for allegedly accepting kickbacks.

The former mayor said the "problem facing the city is of enormous proportions" but he decried McCauley's proposal as "lacking in imaginative thinking. It is incumbent upon us all to work together with the Mayor and Council to seek a reasonable solution."

Nor were the members of the City Council and the people themselves widely enthusiastic about the prospective Prop 2½ override.

"I don't intend to vote for it," said Councillor Leo J. Kelly. "I've talked to the people and I've found no one in favor of the override and no one in favor of putting it on the ballot."

"There may be other ways to pay the abatement. We haven't looked into those areas. Maybe the city jumped a little too quickly in accepting the settlement."

Later, Mayor McCauley disclosed that one of the reasons he was pushing for a Prop 2½ exemption to repay General Dynamics was that the city was faced with the possibility of another multi-million dollar payback to three utilities.

The personal property tax abatement cases filed by Mass Electric, New England Power and Boston Edison were, at the time, before the State Tax Appellate Board.

"The utilities cases compound the problem with General Dynamics," said McCauley. "They are nowhere near the magnitude of the General Dynamics case but they are far above the average abatement settlement. Even a good settlement will require paybacks that could be in the millions. That is one reason why I want to get General Dynamics' $28 million payback exempted."

To the surprise of no one, Joanne Condon and Mary P. Collins survived the preliminary election to win spots on the Nov. 8 final ballot by eliminating the third candidate for the Council from Ward 6, Jens Thornton, by a wide margin.

QUINCY RESIDENTS show their numbers as they wait outside the Quincy Savings Bank's main office in August, for low interest mortgages. Carol D'Olimpio (left) and Mr. and Mrs. David Donahue took their positions at 5 p.m. Friday and were ready to stay until 9 a.m. Tuesday morning to apply for the low interest MHFA loans.

Friday morning when a section of the quarry wall collapsed sending tons of granite down on the pumping equipment. Two men on duty at the site were not injured. A plan to send divers down the next day to seek Gooch's body was scrapped.

"We have a real problem now with the danger up there," said Mayor McCauley. "If someone had been on the equipment raft or diving in the water when the wall came down, that would have been it. We don't want to risk anyone's life down there."

McCauley, in an unusual move, called for a Civil Service examination to select a possible successor for Police Chief Francis X. Finn, who underwent quadruple heart bypass surgery in December, 1982.

"Chief Finn has no definite plans to retire," said the mayor. "But that is subject to change based on what his doctor says."

The mayor said he asked for the exam, which would be held in February, because the deadline for such filing was approaching and he wanted to be prepared if Finn's health status changed.

The City Council gave final approval to the controversial pay raises for elected officials, passing amendments to the salary ordinances giving the mayor $40,000 a year, members of the Council $6,500 a year and the School Committee stipends of $1,200, all effective Jan. 1.

The $33 million Quincy Adams station, the newest stop on the MBTA's Red Line, finally opened and passed its first commuter test with flying colors in spite of fears of traffic jams and threats of demonstrations to prevent the opening.

Only about 500 cars, some 25 per cent of capacity in the 2,000 car parking garage, showed up on opening day but the MBTA spokesman Robert Devin said the T was pleased with the turnout.

"It's largely an educational process," said Devin. "A lot of people were using other areas by force of habit. When they become aware of the station, business will pick up."

back to school, down some 500 from the previous year. The instructional staff was 570, including 455 classroom teachers. Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon noted that two-thirds of the elementary school teachers had been laid off in the past four years and the smaller classes were now reaching the high schools.

"There will be no layoffs in the high schools this year," said Creedon. "But it will be touch and go down the line depending on what attrition brings. The average age of our teachers now is close to 50."

The City Council moved downtown Quincy a little closer to validated parking.

The Council approved a new schedule of on-street parking meter fees which started at 10 cents for 15 minutes with a half hour maximum on some streets and went up to 25 cents and hour maximum on others.

Motorists who use the Hancock and Ross Parking areas, which were to be managed by Kinney Systems, would pay 25 cents an hour, $2 a day, $25 a month, with merchants providing validation for free parking.

Meanwhile, the war on parking scofflaws was declared when Parking Clerk Robert Denvir disclosed that those with meter violations who ignored the mailed notice of hearing must pay a $10 surfine to the Registry of Motor Vehicles in addition to the standard $5 fine to the city. This was the result of a new state law.

"It used to be at the discretion of the municipality," said Denvir. "Now it is totally out of our hands."

Deaths during September included:

Albert R. Frantello, 81, one of the last witnesses to the Sacco-Vanzetti murder case, Sept. 2; Robert P. Brill Jr., 29, whose pro baseball career was cut short by leukemia, Sept. 26; Sylvia Mayo, 79, former member of the City Hospital Board of managers, Sept. 29.

OCTOBER

The City Council, apparently hearing the voice of the people, voted to reject Mayor McCauley's proposal to place the question of exempting the $28 million General Dynamics payback from the tax limitations of Prop 2½ on the Nov. 8 ballot.

That meant the $2.8 million a year would have to be fitted into the Prop 2½ tax structure and, said McCauley, if the payback became too great a burden in the next 10 years it would be up to somebody else to go to the people for relief.

"The next call for a referendum should come from the City Council," he said. "I made my pitch. Let them take responsibility to ask for a referendum next time. I'll do the best I can to fit the $2.8 million a year into the 2½ structure. But it will be difficult."

The Council vote was 8-1 and those councilors who voted to reject the referendum said they felt that was the way the people wanted it.

"The voters have spoken already on 2½," said Councillor Stephen J. McGrath. "There's no need for them to do it again. People elected us to solve problems. I don't want to pass the buck to them."

Councillor Patricia Toland cast the only vote in favor of placing the referendum on the ballot.

"People may have changed their minds about 2½," she said. "A healthy dialogue should take place on this question. I make no apology for letting the people decide at the ballot box."

Some councilors, particularly Joanne Condon, questioned the whole agreement and urged McCauley to "go back to the drawing board with General Dynamics and work out a better solution. The present one is not in the best interests of the city's taxpayers."

When the Council was in no hurry to ask the State Legislature for permission to float the $28 million bond issue, McCauley asked General Dynamics for an indefinite postponement of the Nov. 1 deadline for issuance of the bond.

"Postponing the deadline will give the councilors a little more time to study it," said the mayor. "After all, they did not get it until September and it is a major step."

The state approved 100 per cent revaluation of all real and personal property in the city and Mayor McCauley said that some 22,000 impact notices informing taxpayers of their new valuations would be in the mail Nov. 14.

"Time is not critical now," he said. "The estimated tax bills for Oct. 1 have been sent out and the next bills are not due in the mail until April 1."

The next step for the mayor and the City Council was to draw up a plan for classifying all the property in the city as commercial and industrial, residential, open space and personal. Under state law, each class may have a different tax rate.

"I believe some form of classification is necessary," said McCauley. "We want to soften the blow on the homeowners but we don't want to go to the other extreme and put the clamp on business."

Mary P. Collins, vice chairwoman of the School Committee, announced that she was withdrawing from the race for city councillor from Ward 6 because of ill health, leaving the field clear for Joanne Condon's reelection for a fourth term.

"My doctor has ordered me to do so because of blood pressure problems which have persisted," said Collins. "I was hospitalized two weeks ago for tests and advised by my doctor then to rest and not campaign. He has since ordered me to withdraw completely."

Parking Clerk Robert Denvir announced that the city was going to start towing the cars of people who have amassed large numbers of parking tickets and refuse to pay them. He said there were 961 motorists, each with more than five tickets, responsible for 10,860 tickets among them.

"I don't consider these people shoppers," said Denvir. "I consider them career parkers, scofflaws."

Mayor McCauley sent a $920,000 appropriation order to the City Council to fund pay raises for school personnel for fiscal 1984 and he said he planned to ask for another $260,000 to pay raises to policemen and public works employees later in the year.

But, unless something drastic happened financially, he said, that may be the end of such raises for some time.

"We can afford the raises in 1984," said the mayor, "but we are not negotiating any raises beyond June 30, 1984. We are not making any commitments beyond that date."

The city was gradually selling off or finding some other uses for its old abandoned school buildings but two of them were presenting neighborhood problems.

It was decided to sell the Pollard School in Quincy Point for development into apartments but a neighborhood group protested that it had not had an opportunity to make its bid for the building as a community center with rental space for local businesses. Concerned Citizens for the Reuse of the Pollard School said they planned to continue the fight.

"We're going to try and get the Council to not accept the bids from developers," said Carl Soderstrom, vice chairman of the committee.

The Council had to go through a third public hearing on disposal of the Cranch School, which was eventually ordered sold to a developer for $150,000 for conversion into 17 two-bedroom condominium units.

Neighbors, including the Cranch Hospital Hill Association fought to the end to retain the property as open space and a place for the neighborhood children to play.

It began to look less and less that Mayor McCauley's plan for validated parking in the downtown lots would be in place in time for the Christmas shopping season, which began the day after Thanksgiving.

The problem was that the only three bids received for the purchase and installation of equipment all came in over the $175,000 that the city had in the till for it.

"We might have to go to the City Council to appropriate some more money," said the mayor, not relishing the confrontation.

Members of Shipbuilders Union Local 5 voted overwhelmingly to ratify a three year contract with the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard calling for a $2.46 an hour raise over three years for skilled workers, bringing their hourly wage to $11.53.

The union also relaxed some of its work rules, notably permitting the ship fitters to do the work of the burners and grinders.

Wollaston-born actress Ruth Gordon was honored with the annual Theater District Award, given to a notable stage or screen personality who has significantly contributed to the world of the theater and who originally hails from the Boston area. This honor came on the eve of Gordon's 87th birthday.

Deaths during October included:

James A. Burke, 73, a "bread and butter" Democratic congressman for 20 years, Oct. 14; Chester J. Weeden, former president of the Quincy Trust Co., Oct. 17.

NOVEMBER

Stephen Durkin, a 27-year-old law school graduate from Wollaston, turned out to be the big winner in the municipal election as he captured a School Committee seat in his first try for public office.

Durkin's victory eliminated from the committee the veteran John J. Sullivan, who was seeking his third four-year term.

"I plan to rock the boat a little bit," said Durkin. "I'm not the kind to sit back."

Another new comer, Frank Santoro, came close to ending the political career of the venerable Frank Anselmo when he finished only 88 votes behind Anselmo in the contest for the third and final spot. A recount left the 34-year-old Wollaston school teacher only 44 votes behind.

Ronald P. Iacobucci, who was also making his first run for city office, failed in his bid for an at-large seat on the City Council but he came within 1,039 votes of

CHILDPROOF MATCHBOOK

There is a law of nature called "Murphy's Law" which states: "If there is a way for something to go wrong it will unless you physically make it impossible to happen." Such was the case with the advent of "child-proof" bottles. That little innovation has cut by 50% the source of aspirin poisonings by children under the age of five.

The same tack has been taken with matchbooks and children. But it is running into considerable trouble. Two years ago, the Consumer Product Safety Commission announced that matchbooks were to be made safer. It recommended to a skeptical industry a lock-type cover that tiny fingers could not easily pry open. That proposal suffered from three knock-out blows before it was hardly even in the advanced stages. First, the $68 million annually. Secondly, five producers promptly said the expense might put them out of business. Third, questions about the design's effectiveness in preventing fires. Some experts said impatient adults were sure to leave the covers open after use (like unused seatbelts). The Commission is now back to the drawing board with a match designed to extinguish itself after no more than 15 seconds.

Durkin Elected In Upset Koch Tops City Council

ousting Patricia Toland, who won a second term.

Only 36.4 per cent, or 17,082 of the city's 47,226 registered voters, went to the polls despite ideal weather. City Clerk John Gillis attributed the small turnout to the lack of interesting contests.

"Unless there's a mayor's fight and contests for ward councilors, the turnout will be small," said Gillis. "You have to have interest in the wards to get a good turnout."

Francis X. McCauley was reelected mayor without opposition and the only real ward contest was wiped out when Mary P. Collins withdrew from the race against incumbent Ward 6 Councilor Joanne Condon.

On the referendum question of whether or not to sell the Norfolk County Recreation Facility in North Quincy, the "No" vote easily prevailed, 12,889 to 2,127. The big "No" vote from Quincy turned around the countywide vote of the 27 towns which had voted to sell the facility. The referendum was not binding.

Quincy taxpayers were informed of the new 100 per cent values placed on their property and their reaction apparently was something less than expected.

"I'd say the number of calls was average or even less," said Jesse Cook of Municipal Appraisal Services of Fall River, who was making appointments for those who wished to question their new values. A special telephone number was set up in the basement of city hall and 150 calls seeking appointments were received in the first day after impact notices were sent out.

By the end of the month, 1,200 taxpayers had requested interviews to discuss their valuations.

One strange reaction to his impact notice came from Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, who had a value of $47,700 placed on his two-family house on Holyoke St., North Quincy. He thought it should be more and he protested to assessors.

"Judging by the value placed on my neighbors' homes," he said, "I should be in the $60,000 or $70,000 range."

Mayor McCauley, however, whose 14-year-old home on Manet Ave., Houghs Neck, went from $8,000 to $64,000, said he felt that he was treated fairly.

"My house is valued 30 per cent higher than at least six of my neighbors," he said, "but I have a water view and I'm satisfied with the valuation."

Meanwhile the Board of Assessors estimated a residential tax rate of $22 per thousand and a commercial and industrial rate of $32 per thousand for fiscal 1984.

Mayor McCauley warned that the assessors used a classification formula not yet approved for the city that taxed residential property at 88 per cent of full value and commercial and industrial property at 125 per cent of value.

The move to validate parking in downtown Quincy moved into its final stages when the City Council voted an appropriation of $100,000 to help purchase and install equipment needed for the operation by Kinney Systems. The vote was 6-3 with Councilors Stephen J. McGrath, Joseph J. LaRaia, and John J. Lydon Jr. against it.

Mayor McCauley said work on the parking lots would not be finished until after the first of the year.

The election was still two months away but City Councilor James A. Sheets announced that he had commitments from four colleagues which, plus his own vote, would guarantee him the presidency of the 1984 Council.

Sheets, who earlier in the month was elected to a sixth two-year term, said he had secured the votes of Councilor LaRaia, Richard J. Koch, Jr., Patricia Toland and Theodore P. DeCristofaro. Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, who was expected to oppose Sheets, conceded that his rival had the necessary votes.

"I am somewhat concerned that members of the City Council are reading about major mayoral decisions in the newspapers," said Sheets.

"I see the City Council president as facilitating the decision-making by keeping the channels of communication open to the mayor's office so that the Council will be informed."

The City Council gave grudging approval to the mayor's $28 million bonding plan to repay General Dynamics for its tax overassessment by passing a home rule petition by a vote of 6-3, exactly the two-thirds margin needed to get it by.

Voting against it were Councilor Joanne Condon, Joseph J. LaRaia and Leo J. Kelly. Condon and LaRaia said they thought the city should pay the $12.4 million ordered by the court for 1977 through 1980 but should continue to negotiate the contested years 1981 through 1983.

Everything wasn't going General Dynamics' way, however. The Navy passed up a bid by the Quincy shipyard and awarded a $770 million contract to build five amphibious ships to Avondale Shipyards in Louisiana. The contracts would have meant employment at the yard for 4,000 workers until 1990.

Two medical students from Quincy, Pamela Lall, 24, and Brian Gilfeather, 26, were among those at St. George's Medical School in Grenada when the Caribbean island was invaded by American military forces and both were 100 per cent behind the action which they said saved their lives.

"There's no way we would have gotten out otherwise," said Lall. And Gilfeather sent a telegram to President Reagan thanking him for saving his life.

Faced with the threat of being towed, parking ticket scofflaws were settling up in droves.

"Since Thursday," said Parking Clerk Robert Denver on a Tuesday morning, "we have collected a little over $2,100 on these special cases."

The most unusual transaction came when George Montilio, the prominent Quincy Center baker, showed up to pay $500 worth of parking tickets with 10 bags containing 50,000 pennies.

"He had his fun," said Denver.

For only the fourth time in the 51-year history of the series, the annual Thanksgiving Day football game between Quincy and North Quincy wound up in a scoreless tie, a tribute to the defenses of both teams and something of an upset for Quincy, which ended up with a 3-6-1 record. North was 5-4-1.

Deaths during November included:

David R. Houston, 53, former city treasurer, Nov. 2; Donald C. Fawcett Sr., 70, owner and founder of Dependable Cleaners, Nov. 15; John A. Pazyra, 68 past commander of the Nickerson Legion Post, who collapsed during Veterans Day ceremonies, Nov. 11; the Rev. Henry Sullivan, 84, formerly at Star of the Sea Church in Squantum, Nov. 27.

DECEMBER

Civil Service set Feb. 4 as the date for a Civil Service examination to establish an eligibility list of candidates for police chief of Quincy even though Chief Francis X. Finn had given no indication that he planned to retire.

But Mayor McCauley had more in mind than simply a replacement for Finn, who underwent quadruple heart bypass surgery a year before. He said he was looking into the possibility of removing the post of police chief from under Civil Service regulation.

"It is an option that we are thinking about," he said, "but it may not come up in the near future. In fact, it may not come up in my administration."

If the post were taken out of Civil Service, McCauley said, the chief's tenure could be made coterminous with that of the mayor or he could be hired under contract for a fixed term of years.

Since becoming mayor in 1982, McCauley had taken the jobs of personnel director and labor negotiator away from Civil Service.

With the police chief's exam scheduled for February, 1984, all five captains and eight of the 10 lieutenants in the police department were eligible to take the test. Had it been scheduled for February, 1985, only the five captains would have been eligible.

Residents of Quincy Point apparently won their fight to keep the Pollard

RICHARD KOCH, JR.

School as a community center.

The City Council decided not to sell the abandoned school on Southern Artery and Mayor McCauley indicated that he might be having second thoughts on the matter.

When the sale of the school came before the Council.

Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, chairman of the Land Conveyance Committee, let it die in committee.

"The mayor can introduce it into the 1984 Council if he wants," said McGrath.

"At the present time," said McCauley, "it appears that the City Council is not interested in selling the school. My problem is that I would like to see a plan for the future of the school."

The mayor announced that he was setting up a task force, chaired by City Councilor Theodore P. DeCristofaro, one of the leaders in the fight to keep the school, to look into disposition of the building.

Those neighbors who fought to retain the site of the Cranch School as a playground for local youngsters didn't fare so well, however. The Council voted to sell the building for $150,000 for conversion into 17 condominium units.

McCauley Prepares Classification Recommendations

per cent valuations passed and more than 3,000 took advantage of the opportunity to have their questions and protests heard.

Mayor McCauley said he planned to submit his recommendations for classification to the City Council at its first meeting in February and he indicated that his recommendation would be to tax residential property at 88 per cent of value and commercial property at 125 per cent.

"Both the mayor and I could be comfortable with that," said Councillor James A. Sheets, who had the votes to be president of the 1984 Council.

One group that was upset with the prospects of classification were the city's apartment house owners.

Mayor McCauley said his administration was studying the provision of a state law that would make it possible to exempt up to 10 per cent of the average assessed value of an owner occupied home. Taxes on apartment houses would go up accordingly.

Roger Lyons, spokesman for the apartment house owners, charged that McCauley's proposal "discriminates against those who pay rent."

"We thought that 100 per cent revaluation would straighten out an old injustice," he said. "Apparently it is not. Apparently rent payers are going to continue to support others in Quincy."

Deaths during December included:

Gerald Lyons Sr., 63, retired head of the mathematics department at North Quincy High School, Dec. 10.

Michael McEvoy

Christmas means love and joy. Happiness is being together with your family. Christmas is like having Jesus right by your side, which he is everyday from this day forward. Jesus was born on Christmas Day. When Jesus was born, a star gave off great light. That brought the three wise men to see Jesus. They gave him presents of gold, sweet-smelling frankincense, and myrrh.

That's how it became Christmas. How we get presents, too, and we also get the love of God.

It's a time when children want everything they see. From Cabbage Patch dolls to MTV.

It's a time when children ask how Santa gets down the chimney. "Haven't you noticed, he's not that skinny?"

And so we look around and see the snow falling. And we'll soon hear Santa calling.

Raiders In Holiday Tourney

The North Quincy boys' basketball team, after pulling out two close decisions, lost to unbeaten Walpole, 78 - 61, Monday night at Walpole.

Eddie Miller's Raiders started play in the Weymouth South holiday tournament Tuesday. The championship and consolation games will be played Friday night. Next Wednesday North will open its Suburban League season against Waltham at North at 7 p.m.

"We have only two returning starters, Co-Captains Chris Bunker and Paul Ryan, but the boys showed a lot of heart in pulling out two-point decisions over Cathedral and Somerville," Miller said. "They have showed a lot more maturity than I expected. I don't know how we will do in the strong Suburban League, but once we get back at full strength, I think we'll do all right."

"Bunker has been injured, missed our first game and saw only limited action in the second, and Steve Higgins, a starter, hasn't been able to play yet. Juniors Ken Runge and Sal Barressi have done very well. We just ran out of steam at Walpole."

Bunker scored 16 points, Runge 12, Barressi 11 and Ryan 10 at Walpole, which won its fifth game in a row. Ryan also had five steals and did a fine defensive job on Walpole's high scorer, Bob Langmead.

Last Friday North pulled out its second straight two-point win, edging Somerville, 60 - 58. The Raiders had won their opener, 53 - 51, over Cathedral.

The Raiders also showed some heart in this one, trailing by seven points with 3:30 left to play.

Bunker saw limited action after missing the first game and was outstanding defensively during North's last minute drive.

A steal by Ryan led to a Barressi basket in the final seconds to give the Raiders the win.

Ryan had another strong game with 19 points and Barressi had 16 points and eight rebounds.

Two free throws by Runge and two hoops by Ryan led the Raiders' comeback.

Raiderettes Rebound To Down Dorchester

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, after losing two close games due to cold shooting, came back last Friday to defeat Dorchester, 58 - 29.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes faced Fitchburg Tuesday, tonight (Thursday) will host natick at 7:45 and next Wednesday will play at Waltham at 5 o'clock.

The North girls shot only 22 percent in their losses to Hingham and Fitchburg, but regained their shooting eyes in the easy win over Dorchester.

Sandra Whitehouse, playing her first game, sparked the offense early as North jumped off to a 17-2 lead. Mary Holleran, Karen Runge and Chris Donovan also helped spark the offense.

Using the bench in the second quarter North widened its lead to 34 - 10. Lydna Feeney, sophomore Eileen Warren, Jean Welby and sophomore Annmarie Hughes all played well in that quarter.

The Raiderettes continued to increase their lead in the second half as all 14 players saw action with 11 scoring. Katie Shaw, Karen Koski, Debbie Cavanaugh and Feeney played well in the second half. Junior Ann Duggan led all scorers with 10 points and had nine rebounds. Holleran had eight points, Runge and Whitehouse seven each and Welby had five assists to go along with strong defense.

In their opener the North girls lost to Hingham, 33 - 26. The Raiderettes led, 10-8, after a quarter thanks to the shooting of Holleran.

North went cold in the second quarter, scoring only two points. However, the defense kept the team close as North trailed, 17 - 12, at the half.

Hingham increased its lead to nine points before North made a furious comeback. With 1:30 to play North trailed by eight but a tenacious full-court press allowed the Raiderettes to tie the score with 28 seconds left. Key contributors were Welby, Cavanaugh, Holleran, and Duggan. However, Hingham got a breakaway basket to snap the tie and went on to win. Holleran scored 12 points to lead North.

The Raiderettes then went to Fitchburg and again their shooting went cold as the Central Mass. team won, 32 - 27.

North had only seven points at the half but the defense again kept the score close as it held Fitchburg to 17 points. Playing well in the first half were Runge, Koski and Donovan.

Once again North clawed its way back behind Holleran, Runge and Donovan, to close the gap to four points with three minutes left. North had a chance to creep even closer but missed two one-and-one free throw chances.

"We had our shots in the first two games but they just didn't fall," said Bregoli. "Our defense was great, however. We are a bit inexperienced right now as only Cavanaugh, Donovan and Holleran had much playing time last year. But as our younger players get more experience, we'll be a tough team to beat."

North Girls Breeze By Brookline For 3rd Win

The North Quincy girls' track team breezed past Brookline, 67-19, last week to improve its record to 3-0.

The Raiderettes have lost only one meet in the last four years and they avenged that loss in their opening meet this season.

Lou Tozzi's North girls will face Hingham Friday at 5:30 at Northeastern.

Sophomore Mary Ann Kelleher recorded the fastest league time in the 1000 (2:53.1) to pace the victory over Brookline.

Junior Georgia Traficante won both the high jump (4-11) and 600 (1:39.6).

Other winners were Lisa Fitzgerald in the 50 (6.6), Marie McGurl, hurdles (8.2); Noreen Connelly, shot put (33-8); freshman Tricia Barrett, two-mile (12:01.7); Diane Lindenfelzer, mile (5:44.1); and the relay team of Theresa Collings, Alice Reilly, Meg Leary and Joanne Zdanowski (4:48.5).

Other Raiderette scorers were Julie Walsh, second, mile; Ann Toland, second, 1000; Meg Leary, second, 600; Laureen Ciulla second, 300; Tricia Leary, second, two-mile; Fitzgerald, second, high jump, and Eileen Crehan, second, shot put.

Earlier in the week North had defeated Waltham, 48-38, as Traficante won the high jump at 5 feet and placed third in the 300.

The Raiderettes' other winners were Meg Leary in the 1000 (2:59.9), Kelleher, mile (5:35.1); Barrett, two-mile (12:07.00); and Connolly, shot put (34-5).

North's depth pulled it through and other scorers were Fitzgerald, second in the 50 and high jump; McGurl, second, hurdles; Tracey Corrigan, second, 600; Lindenfelzer, second, 1000; Walsh, third, mile; Tricia Leary, second, two-mile; and Crehan, second, shot put.

Quincy Defeats Cambridge, Bows To Brookline

Quincy's hockey team is still having trouble scoring, bearing out Coach Bob Sylvia's fears, as the Presidents take a 1-3 record into Friday's 5 p.m. game at Waltham.

Next Wednesday Quincy will host Newton North at 6:40 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Last Friday the Presidents again had all kinds of scoring opportunities and peppered the Brookline goalies Joe Marco with 26 shots but could only score once in a 3-1 defeat. Marco had 10 saves in the third period as Quincy moved the puck well but just couldn't put it in the net.

Quincy wrapped up the game with four first period goals and a 4-1 lead.

Charles DiPietro had a goal, Eddie Boyle had a goal and two assists and defenseman Brett Loud had three assists. Goalie Bill Cahil turned in a fine performance.

Boy's Shouts Routs Robber

A man broke into the home of Patrick and Elvira Monroe, 5 Harris St., West Quincy, early Monday morning but fled empty-handed when their son, James, 12, woke up and screamed. "Robber!

Robber!"

Police said the thief entered by the side door of a recent addition to the house, went upstairs to the boy's bedroom and lit a match, which woke up young James.

By TOM HENSHAW

The Democratic primary is still more than eight months in the future but already Richard D. Golden has staked out an issue in his race against Sen. Paul D. Harold.

His question is: Why did General Dynamics feel it necessary to hire former Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn to lobby the city's $28 million tax repayment bond through the State Legislature?

"It is obvious," said Golden, "that General Dynamics lacked confidence in Mr. Harold's ability to readily secure passage of this legislation."

"Sen. Harold's three-term record has proven his ineffectiveness in dealing with the legislative process."

Harold was out of the state and not available for comment. General Dynamics at first denied hiring Quinn but then conceded that it had. Quinn reportedly received $20,000.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he was aware that General Dynamics had hired Quinn and he assumed that it was done to because of the confusion that attends the annual legislative windup.

"I was not told of General Dynamics' rationale," said the mayor, "but there is a problem with all the bills near the time of adjournment. Some get left by the wayside."

"I talked to Sen. Harold and Rep. Michael W. Morrissey almost daily while the bond bill was in the legislature and I thought all our people did well. They all participated."

The bill which was approved as a home rule petition by the City Council Nov. 21, passed both houses of the legislature and was signed into law by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

Records on file at the Secretary of State's office and obtained by Golden show that Robert H. Quinn of Milton was hired by General Dynamics Dec. 5 to lobby "legislation authorizing the city of Quincy to borrow money relative to certain tax overpayments."

Termination of employment was to be the end of the legislative session.

"General Dynamics' maneuvering on this legislation comes as no surprise to me," said Golden. "I'm familiar with Mr. Harold's record in his three terms of office; obviously General Dynamics is too."

"What surprises me is why General Dynamics denied hiring the lobbyist."

"There are unanswered questions in this matter."

"Why did General Dynamics deny hiring a lobbyist? Did our state senator, who sponsored the bill, even know that a lobbyist had been hired? If not, why not?"

"The people of Quincy deserve to know how this legislation was handled."
